Farm-City Activities Offer View Of Life

MYERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — Vicent and Julie Wagner of Myerstown run an average size family farm dairy with their teenaged son Christopher and daughter Stephanie.

The Wagners have been featured in stories in this and other newspapers in the past because they are an example of a young couple who together not only built a family farm against formidable obstacles, but have immersed themselves into the dairy community, volunteering time and energy to try to make life better for themselves and those who surround them.

Recently, as part of the Lebanon County Farm-City program activities, the Wagners opened up their farm to share a day on the farm with a local dentist and his wife.

The following week, the Wagners spent a day at the dentist's office, learning about a different type of business, but also run by a husband and wife team.

Through community involvement, the Wagners were exposed to the responsibilities and rewards of life as seen through the eyes of another couple.

Across the state, farm organizations and county area chamber of commerce organizations host a variety of Farm-City programs, all designed to allow the consuming public to understand more about life on the farm.

But there are many signs that the

Nutrient Management Advisory Board Attacks Tough Issues

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The state Nutrient Management Advisory Board to the State Conservation Commission on Wednesday approved interim criteria for nutrient management plans, but didn't appear ready to advise on a method for determing which farms will be automatically excluded from filing mandatory nutrient management plans.

The 15-member Nutrient Management Advisory Board is comprised of representatives of the various segments of production agriculture and those with knowledge of it. The members are nominated by the state's major agricultural organizations and appointed by the chairman of the State Conservation Commission (i.e. the secretary of DER).

The advisory board has no regulatory authority. Its purpose is to make recommendations to the commission. Under the Nutrient Management Act, the commission has authority to promulagate its own regulations.

The Wednesday meeting was held in a room in the East Wing of the Capitol building in Harrisburg, and was scheduled in order for the board to make comment on recommendations for interim criteria for nutrient management planning prior to yesterday's scheduled meeting of the State Conservation Commission. (Held after the Lancaster Farming news deadline for this week.)

According to a Nov. 27 letter from Michael Krempasky, executive secretary of the commission, to board members, the commission had been scheduled to meet yesterday (Friday, Dec. 6) to consider the interim criteria for nutrient management planning, which are to "provide direction to the Pa. Department of Agriculture for development of the certification program and represent the basic concepts for development of plans under the Act."

In compliance with the Nutrient Management Act, signed into law

Tillage Event Set

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Local and national issues affecting farmers will be addressed by most of the speakers at this year's six-state Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference. The twentieth annual event is set Dec. 16 at the Ramada Inn and Convention Center in Hagerstown, Md.

Specific topics will deal with changes in store for agriculture,

This Boar Sires Champions, According To Strauss Brothers

ANDY ANDREWS

STEVENS (Lancaster Co.) — Count them — eight champions out of the top 30 on the carcass evaluation contest at the barrow show at the recent Keystone International Livestock Expo (KILE). The champion on-rail. And the reserve champion crossbred on rail last year.

The reason for such success? It's all in the boar, according to two brothers, Rick and Steve Strauss. The Strauss brothers believe they can raise a champion hog, because they have the genetics.

From a purebred Hampshire boar the Strauss brothers purchased in October 1991 from Jim and Steve Earnhart in Albion, in northeast Indiana, they've bred a long list of show champions, including the champion hogs exhibited this year by their niece and nephew, Sarah and Gerald Boyd, from Ephrata.

What makes the boar so special? "It's no accident that you get some pigs that are going to really cut," said Rick Strauss. The Earnharts "have a line of hogs that's bred more for muscle leanness and they win carcass shows all over the place," said Rick. Several litter mates to the boar they purchased did well at several shows, including one at the National Barrow Show which sold for about $7,500, according to Rick. That boar is sired by the half-brother to the Strauss boar.

The cost for the boar? Twelve hundred dollars, according to Rick. "Hampshires are supposed to be the best breed for muscle and leanness," said Steve, who traveled with Rick the 600 miles to obtain the boar. The animal "was the best investment we made," he said.

They knew what they were looking for. They spotted the pig, acting "real aggressive," said Rick, and "climbing the fence."

Rick and Steve's mother, Mrs. Strauss, said, "I don't know how many boars we went through 'til we got the one we wanted."

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer Market

Wednesday, December 1, 1993

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was light to fair at most plants, and somewhat typical of mid-week activity. Offerings varied by seller, but were fully adequate overall. Live supplies were moderate; weights were mixed in a full range of light to heavy. Processing schedules were very heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were 1 cent higher at 51 to 63 cents. Trade sentiment was mostly steady. In the parts complex, breast items were adequate to closely cleared. Legs and leg quarters were generally no more than adequate. Wings were in fairly good balance.

NY Phila Frozen Eggs

EDISON, NJ

EASTERN REGION FROZEN EGGS, NOVEMBER 30, 1993. FEDERAL-STATE

Prices were generally unchanged under a barely steady and nervous trade sentiment, Trading was sporadic as buyers continued to pressure sellers in making increasingly competitively priced commitments. Raw materials were fully adequate to satisfy processing schedules. Floor stocks were sufficient to cover current dealer inquiry.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, December 1, 1993

Trucklot buying interest was about as expected for mid-week. Most of the early week pipelines were filled yesterday and this morning the trade was assessing their first of the month needs. Supplies of boneless skinless breasts were in good shape at 1.85 and the undertone was fully steady for late week but unsettled going into next week. Line run breasts were in better balance than early week. Product was still available at some locations and sellers asked higher prices but buyers resisted. Legs and leg quarters were in a strong market position and trading was reported at higher prices and the trade sentiment was firm.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES. National Egg Market

Wednesday, December 1, 1993

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE: Prices were unchanged to lower in the Northeast and Midwest, unchanged on the West Coast. The trade sentiment was generally unsettled and ranged steady to weak. Movement of cartoned eggs into retail channels was in the full range of light to good with the best call for product where features were in progress. Supplies were adequate or available in most reporting areas; adequate to ample on the West Coast. In the Central States region, prices for breaking stocks were unchanged from the prior day. Trading and demand was fair. Offerings were adequate. The undertone was steady. In the Southeast, trading in light type hens was too thin to report prices. Offerings were adequate. The undertone was at least steady.

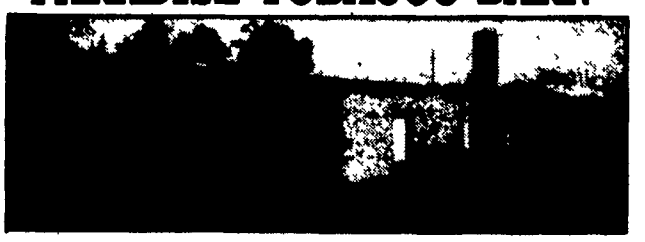
PARADISE TOBACCO SALES

PARADISE TOBACCO BARN



A Note to the Tobacco Farmer:

Do you know how auction works?! Do you know how tobacco is divided out at auction? If you don't please call Paradise Sale Barn and find out.

Why does a tobacco buyer want to buy at your farm? Because he will buy for less on the farm. Consider your low grade - what are you getting on the farm?

First sale is December 6th! Let's fill the warehouse — it's important. First sale means a lot for season pricing. New crop! Good demand! Get your check that day. Sale starts at 10:00 am. Any tobacco not unloaded by 10:00 am might be sold next sale.

A Note To The Tobacco Buyer:

All tobacco buyers are welcome at Paradise Sales Barn. If you think the warehouse doesn't give you enough tobacco on sale day, then bid stronger on low grades or outgrade and see if auctioneer doesn't give you a larger percentage. Remember, all buyers are welcome in the warehouse - we aim to please.

We will have a grader at receiving door so bottom of skid is like the top of the skid. Our warehouse personnel are there to work for you - the buyer and the seller. We are not order takers - we will represent tobacco for you.

A Note From the Warehouse:

The farmer is the number one Key in keeping tobacco barn going. If we don't get tobacco, we can not work for you - the farmer. All warehouse charges are the same.

Also, we welcome back for our 8th year - Mitch Ashby, auctioneer. We feel he is an important contributor in our warehouse.

SALES EVERY MON., WED., FRI.

COUNT ON IT.

You can count on Pioneer® brand hybrids to consistently deliver proven performance year after year. No matter how different your soil types, moisture levels, disease pressures, tillage practices or individual management goals. We'll help you find the hybrids that best fit your needs. And we'll help you make the most out of the corn acres you plant. So ask your Pioneer sales representative today for the numbers that count.

Top-end yield potential. Exceptional early growth. This hybrid features outstanding stalks, superior staygreen and very good drought tolerance. Above average grain appearance and grain protein content.

Record setting yields and exceptional agronomics. This exciting hybrid combines traits corn growers want: impressive early growth, strong stalks and roots, exceptional stress tolerance, above average drydown and lengthy staygreen. Widely adapted to varying soil types, tillage methods and populations.

The performance leader in this maturity. 3525 is a widely adapted, stable, high-yielding hybrid. Tall plant type, excellent for grain and silage. Late flowering will limit northward movement. Good ear flex and ear attachment. Strong performer under stress.

Comparative Relative Maturity (CRM)

With no industry standard for maturity ratings, comparing maturities between companies is usually difficult. Use this rating to compare Pioneer hybrids with competitive hybrids of similar maturity and harvest moisture. These ratings are based on customer side-by-side and research comparison experience. Individual company ratings may still show a variation from the average comparative rating.

OPINION

A Dream Of Ownership

Students enrolled in some type of agriculture education at the regional colleges — such as Penn State, Delaware Valley College, University of Delaware, and University of Maryland — face a variety of opportunities when they choose their careers.

But the choice regarding their ultimate goal, what may lie deep in their hearts, may be extremely limited.

Many of those who have enrolled in 4-H and FFA while in high school have spoken to classmates that have grown up on a farm, and who know how beautiful and rewarding farm life can be. They know their friends and classmates who have been brought up on a farm may someday have that choice — to farm.

Some of those same would-be ag graduates also see many students who have grown up on the farm, and for whatever reason, decide they want to leave farming, leaving a void in the life of the farm and an economic rift in the future of the farm family.

Those same possible ag graduates, with an abiding love of farming and the farm life, hope someday to own a farm. But the costs of purchasing a farm, let alone the equipment and the materials, are beyond their economic capability. They learn, sadly, to resign themselves early on to the realization they will never own a farm.

We believe there must be a better way — a way to unite those who need someone to take over the farm with the students at the ag colleges who dream, night and day, of farm ownership. Staff of Lancaster Farming have met many students who yearn to own a farm, someday. Many would be willing to devote their lives to that one dream — farming.

Contact your local extension office or the ag college of your choice. If you have a farm that is available, rather than sell and divide it, allow those who want to become farmers but don't have the economic capability a chance to share in the reality of ownership.

It could literally make a difference regarding the economic and emotional well-being of future generations of farmers.

NOW IS THE TIME

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Review Remodeling Plans

According to Chester Hughes, extension livestock agent, the "best" remodeled building is often the one that requires the fewest modifications.

When an existing building must be changed drastically to meet current needs, consider constructing a new building. Analyze the existing building to determine if it is more suited for some other purpose, rather than the one you have in mind.

For example, an uninsulated machine shed is easier to remodel for a swine breeding and gestation barn, than for a farrowing or nursery facility. Therefore, consider a new building for the nursery and remodel the machine shed for gestation.

Remodeling is not always the cheaper route either. When remodeling costs exceed 50 to 60 per cent of a new building, a new building is usually best. Remodeling costs should include any demolition of interior structural components and concrete floors. You should consider cost and availability of construction labor.

Because of the many "unknowns" in remodeling, many farm builders are hesitant to accept remodeling jobs. Before remodeling, carefully evaluate the existing building's structure, consider location, and plan for suitable manure management.

To Improve Production

To compete in today's dairy economy requires high levels of efficient milk production per cow.

However, high production by itself does not guarantee a profit. Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, reminds us the important point is not how much production you need, but how do you obtain that production?

High production levels obtained with good breeding, good feeding, and overall good management generally are profitable. If you are culling an excessive number of problem cows and low producers and selling them at depressed prices, high production levels may come with a very high price tag and may not be profitable.

Another factor affecting profits is debt servicing costs. Young families getting started in dairying carry large debt loads.

To service this debt load, these young families have to be dairy managers! They need high levels of efficient production. Even then, profits may be very slim.

So the next time you hear that high production levels are not profitable, ask if consideration has been given to the age of farmers and the debt loads they are carrying.

To Safeguard Our Milk Supply

Just a reminder that milk is a very safe and closely monitored food.

To insure this quality, most milk is never exposed to stable air as it moves from cow to tank. It is cooled down quickly after each milking and stored at less than 40 degrees Fahrenheit.

When milk is picked up at the farm it is checked for odors and proper temperature. A milk sample is taken for laboratory analysis. At the lab, milk is tested for protein and fat content, for sediment and added water, for rancidity, for somatic cell and bacteria count, and for drug residues.

Each tanker load of milk is tested for drugs at the milk plant before it is unloaded. If contaminated, the load is dumped and most of the lost is borne by the specific farmers who caused the problem. Thus, it is very important you practice good sanitation, proper drug handling procedures, and keep milk cold.

By working together we will keep consumer confidence high in our product.

BAD NEWS
GOOD NEWS
December 5, 1993

Background Scripture:
Luke 1:5-25; 3:1-18
Devotional Reading:
Matthew 1:18-25; 2:1-12

Someone once remarked to me that "the Good News of the Gospel can sound remarkably like bad news; how can 'good news' begin with a call for repentance."

It's true that, when we first hear that admonition to "repent," it seems very threatening. If we are called to "repent," it means that something is wrong with us or our lives, something we need to feel sorry about. Feeling sorry about ourselves does not sound like "good news."

Years ago, when I was a young pastor fresh out of seminary, I took Holy Communion into the homes of some shut-ins of our parish. One day when I asked an elderly woman to pray with me the Prayer of General Confession, she said, "But why? I haven't anything to confess; I'm stuck here in this house, this room and this bed, day after day." Taken aback as I was, I'm not sure how I responded to her. I think I said something to the effect that everyone always has something of which to repent; none of us are ever perfect.

NONE RIGHTEOUS

Like many people I've encountered since then, this woman focused upon sins rather than sin, upon infractions of the rules instead of the selfish willfulness within that lies behind those infractions. Sins are the outward acts, while sin is the inner reality. We may be able to go through periods of our lives without committing sinful acts (although not as much as we like to think), but hardly a day goes by that sin doesn't lodge within our hearts. Jung regarded this inner reality as the "shadow" or "dark side" of the human psyche. All of us have a "shadow" side. We may not let it take over and direct our lives, but it is always there, tempting us. All of us experience failure; all of us fail at some time to do and be the best that we can; none of us live up to the potential that God has placed within us.

So, that sounds like "bad news," but actually the very fact that we can repent is the best possible news because it means we are not stuck with our sin, our failures, and our shadow side. Think of the moral failures in your own life and then imagine what it would be like if there was no forgiveness.

DIVINE REDEMPTION!

Some people charge that the Church is obsessed with human sinfulness, always emphasizing how unworthy we are. I will agree that the message as it sometimes comes across, is very much that; the bad news of human depravity. But the call to repent that John the Baptist issues and which later Jesus himself began with, is focused not on the band news of human depravity but upon the good news of divine redemption.

Thus, when we are called to repent, it is a reminder that we are not stuck with our sin for here and eternity. Once we acknowledge it, we can deal with it and experience the forgiving grace of God. As Luke tells us, John came "preaching a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins" (Luke 3:3b), not a baptism for despair of condemnation.

That's the best possible news for me and, I'm certain, for you, too.

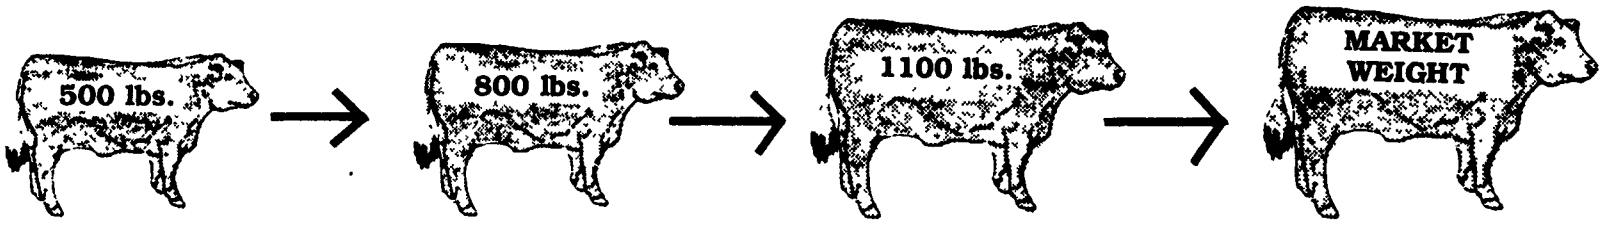
FINISH THEM FAST WITH BROWN'S BEEF SUPPLEMENTS



There is an art and a science to rapidly and economically finishing beef steers. If you provide the art, Brown's will provide the nutrition to keep beef healthy and finish them economically and rapidly with one of the following Brown's Beef Feeds.

Steer Grower Finisher	A 12% protein, all natural non-medicated feed which is high in energy, low in fiber, and balanced to supplement low quality forages. An ideal feed for the small producer with limited animals and acres.
Beef Booster B250*	This 22% protein feed is very palatable, contains no urea, and provides 250 mg. per day of Bovatec® when fed at the recommended rate of 2 lbs. per head. Bovatec is an ionophote which improves feed efficiency by selectively favoring the more efficient rumen microbes. In addition, Bovatec® provides coccidiosis protection for steers at all weights and ages.
40 Beef Supplement	A high energy, high protein supplement with 4% urea and lots of vitamins A, B and E. Perfect for feeding with ear corn or shelled corn and excellent for maintaining cows, bred heifers, and breeding bulls.
60 Beef Plus	A high protein supplement that puts an excellent finish on steers for market or for the show. This feed combines the nutritional qualities of Linseed Meal and Soybean Meal for rapid lean meat gain with the economy of a 12½ % urea based feed.
60 Steer Supplement B250*	Feed at one pound per day to add the benefits of Bovatec® to the economics of feeding a high protein supplement. Get faster gain and greater feed efficiency. Why fool with three or four separate premix packs, mineral bags and ingredient mixes when Brown's combines it all into one economical package.
60 Steer Concentrate	The economy of a non-medicated, highly fortified protein supplement without the fuss of multiple mixes. Feed at one pound per day with most finishing rations.
B-Booster 1440*	When forages and home grown grains meet or exceed protein requirements, then Brown's Bovatec® mineral pack fills the need. When fed at the rate of ⅓ to ½ lb. per head per day, this mineral mix meets the nutrient requirements of rapidly growing/finishing steers.
NEW Dairy Lean I	A 40% non-medicated protein supplement pellet which is amino acid balanced to provide rapid lean growth for dairy steer and bulls from 350 lbs. to 600 lbs. body weight. when fed at 2 lbs/head/day with high energy forages and grains, calves will gain lean weight quickly without adding excessive frame size.
NEW Dairy Lean II	A 30% non-medicated protein supplement pellet which is amino acid balanced and rumen buffered to finish dairy steers/bulls quickly. Feed at 2 lbs. per day with whole dry shelled corn on a free choice basis. Dairy steers can often finish to a choice grade with high dressing percentage in 13 to 15 months.

GOLDEN LEAF TOBACCO CO. INC.
ATTENTION TOBACCO FARMERS

As the 1993 tobacco market officially opens Monday, December 6, 1993, Golden Leaf Tobacco Company wishes a good marketing season and top prices for each of you.

For the past several months we have worked very hard to get prices up from last year. We believe the limited number of contracts that were written attracted the attention of other companies and our goal will be reached.

As a major buyer of 609 tobacco in Lancaster County, we still believe in a two system method in which you can sell your tobacco. It not only creates competition but also gives you a choice to sell privately or at auction. We look forward to working with the auction people this year and hope that the tobacco will be divided fairly among the buyers.

If you decide to sell privately, we will begin receiving tobacco on Monday, December 6th. We are located at the same location as last year, 3 miles East of Route 222 on Route 322 between Hinkletown and Blue Ball. Watch for our sign on the North side of Route 322.

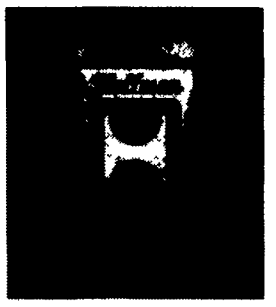
Plant them for the Performance



Buy them for the savings

If you're looking for big soybean performance, it's tough to beat Hoffman's 7353 and 7403. And now there's a way to get that performance at substantial savings.

You'll get four free units when you buy 54 units of either variety in our new Profit Pak™ — that's a savings of more than $50. Best of all, you'll get our locally grown and conditioned soybeans, each produced exclusively for the East. And each backed by broad scale trials for virtually guaranteed performance.

Find out how you can get big soybean performance at big savings. Ask your local Hoffman sales representative today. Or call: 1-800-776-7929

Relative Maturity: Mid III
- ◆ Performs exceptionally well in high yield environments.
- ◆ Widely adapted with good stress tolerance.
- ◆ Excellent resistance to Phytophthora Root Rot.
- ◆ Good emergence for rapid canopy development.

Relative Maturity: Early IV
- ◆ Big yield potential in a full-season performer.
- ◆ Shattering resistance is exceptional to reduce field losses.
- ◆ Good standability for easy harvesting.
- ◆ Excellent seed quality.

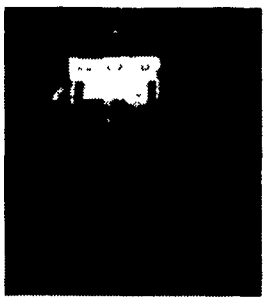
Promise/Attainer

Plant them for the Performance



For maximum feed value from your alfalfa crop, it's hard to beat the performance of Promise or Attainer.

Promise was one of only two alfalfa varieties to produce 6 T/A yields in Cornell trials. And its two-year average of 8.49 T/A in Penn State trials was tops among 49 varieties.

Attainer is unmatched in milk production per acre. It produced 16,200 lbs. of milk/acre in 1992 field trials.

Find out how you can improve your forage program using Promise or Attainer. Talk to your local Hoffman Seeds sales representative.
Or call: 1-800-776-7929

Promise

- Produced 1,800 lbs./A yield advantage in its third production year compared to check varieties in N.Y. state trials.
- Produced a 3-year yield advantage of 2.5 T/A in Penn State trials when compared to the mean.
- Exceptional persistence even under intensive cutting management for maximum forage production.
- High resistance to all alfalfa diseases common to the Northeast.
- Stand durations from 4-5 years minimize your reseeding expenses.

Attainer

- Produced 16,200 lbs. of milk/acre in 1992 field trials.
- Highly resistant to all alfalfa diseases.
- Unmatched stem quality, plus an increase in leaf-to-stem ratio for greater protein content
- Larger harvest window than most alfalfas for improved field management.

Shaggy, Docile Highlands Provide Excellent Beef

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Someday, if you're near the Mount Zion area, turn right onto Union Road from Freeport. Within a mile, look up the gently sloping hill to the left and you might notice some of the most unique and attractive beef animals to be found — the Scotch Highland.

The cattles' telltale long horns, shaggy coat, long lashes and forelocks, and overall weather-rugged appearance make them stand out. But look beneath all this, into some of the breed characteristics that cattle farmers enjoy, and you may be in for a treat.

"They're such beautiful animals," said Larry Wyles. Together with his wife Phyllis, they manage a small but successful herd of Scotch Highland cattle on Winding Creeks Farm. "They're easy to handle, they resist diseases, they calve easily, they need no shelter. I never put them in a barn."

Wyles has raised a wide array of beef animals, but has studied the Highland breed intensely. Since 1986, he has bred the cattle with many others — including Angus, Hereford, Santa Gertrudis, and Charolais — and admits that the crosses "grow fantastically."

According to the American Highland Cattle Association (formerly the American Scotch Highland Cattle Association), the animals lived for centures in the rugged remote Scottish Highlands. The extremely harsh conditions created a process of natural selection, with two distinct classes: the slightly smaller and usually black Kyloe, whose primary domain was the islands off the west coast of northern Scotland, and the larger, reddish animal, home in the remote Highlands of Scotland. The Scotch Highland are the oldest registered breed of cattle, according to the Association, with the first herdbook established in 1884.

The "weather hardiness" of the cattle allow them to be kept in all sorts of extremes, including snow or cold weather. They have been raised in Alaska and Scandinavian countries, according to the Association. And the cattle can roam on less than ideal pasture and thrive.

Scotch Highland beef is lean, well-marbled, and flavorful, with little outside waste fat (the Highland is insulated by long hair rather than a thick layer of fat). In the British Isles, according to the Association, Scotch Highland beef is recognized as the finest available and fetches premium prices. The British royal family keeps a large herd of the cattle at Balmoral Castle, near Braemar, Scotland, and considers them their beef animal of choice.

Interest in the breed is escalating (the recent Keystone International Livestock Expo in Harrisburg featured a successful show and sale of Highland cattle).

But what's more important to Wyles are the "mothering traits" of the Highland cattle that will mean effective cost savings in terms of survivability and hardiness. These traits carry over into the finished cattle, and could ring up feed savings since all the Highlands eat is hay and open pasture. (Weaned calves are fed a mineral/vitamin mix.)

The Wyles also raise other animals on Winding Creeks Farm, including llamas, miniature donkeys, and miniature horses. Here, Phyllis Wyles shows off the miniature horse, "Sundance."

Although the cattle will take additional time to reach the market (about two years), they'll finish inexpensively and will provide lean carcass quality.

One of the characteristics breeders have had in years back is the slow growth of the animals. But the pace has been picked up, and now they finish a lot sooner than they used to through selection.

For the cow/calf producer, other important considerations are the calving ability.

"They calve easily," said Wyles. "The calves have a small head and small shoulders when they're born. Even the young heifers have absolutely no problems as far as calving."

When finished, the carcass yields a lean meat. Although they have a heavy sheath, the carcass itself "is real good," said Wyles. "I've eaten it, certainly, and it's excellent meat. It'll get the marbeling without the fatness on it."

In the past, many producers have shied away from bringing the breed in to the calving operation or have kept from using them as finished cattle because of the long hair, which tends to be deceptive to some, and the horns, according to Wyles. But the cattle can easily be dehorned, and the additional hair does not affect overall meat quality.

Wyles has sold Scotch Highland cattle in the past for 4-H projects, because they "can be trained easily, and lead easily," said Wyles. "They're a real gentle animal. They're very docile. They're easy to be around. They have sort of a scary look to them, but they're really just the opposite of that. And they come in all colors."

Highland cattle "calve easily," said Wyles. "The calves have a small head and small shoulders when they're born. Even the young heifers have absolutely no problems as far as calving."

Larry Wyles takes the 5-year-old Highland bull, "Goliath," by the horns. "They're a real gentle animal," said Wyles. "They're very docile. They're easy to be around. They have sort of a scary look to them, but they're really just the opposite of that."

Wyles said he has worked with a great deal of different types of cattle on the farm, including Holstein, Angus, Charolais, Herefords, Brahmans, and others in the past 20 years, since moving to the farm in 1972. Wyles, who works as a guidance counselor at the Elco Middle School, and who farmed as a child in Saxton, Beford County, said he enjoys working with the unusual cattle.

The Wyles also raise other animals on Winding Creeks Farm, including llamas, miniature donkeys, and miniature horses.

"I like the unusual," he said. "I just really got tired of raising the regular-type beef animal. I wanted something that, when I looked out the window and when I walked into the field, they would just . . . well, for me, be gorgeous to look at. They're fantastic cattle."

"They're such beautiful animals," said Larry Wyles. Together with his wife Phyllis, they manage a small but successful herd of the Highlands on their Winding Creeks Farm.

Seedsmen Annual Meeting Set

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Members of the Pennsylvania Seedsmen's Association will meet on Thursday, December 16, here at the Eden Resort Inn.

Guest speaker is Greg Wickham, director of business redesign for Agway, Inc. Wickham is directing a major effort to modernize the agriculture division of Agway's business. He will speak about the changing agriculture in the Northeast and the effect of these changes on crop need suppliers.

Another guest speaker is William Brubaker, executive secretary, Pennsylvania Agronomic Products Association. Brubaker is going to bring members up to date on the progress of the certified crop advisor program and updates to the nutrient management program.

Reservations are ($20.00 per person) and must be mailed by December 10, to: Fred Mohr, Seedway Inc., 980 Loucks Mill Rd., York, PA 17402.

Io-Shield™
Barrier Teat Dip & Iodine For Superior Mastitis Protection
Breakthrough Technology From Klenzade. New Io-Shield is the only iodine barrier teat dip to combine the proven effectiveness of iodine with polymer barrier technology to surround your herd with a protective blockade against environmental mastitis.
Benefits:
• Creates a "plug" between the teats and any new mastitus bacteria that might invade the teats between milkings.
• The plug is designed to remain on the end of the teat orifice for up to 12 hours, yet it is easily removed during the prepping procedure.
• Contains emollients designed to aid in preventing teat chapping and irritation.
• The plug remains in place even if the cows lay down in mud or wet bedding.

Models 510S, 515E, 520, 520H, 525 & 530T Bunk Feeders

Here's a better way to feed your herd! With the Pequea portable bunk feeder, you'll save time – save money. Load it up with silage, haylage, round or square bales or any mixture of grain and forage. Tow it into the field, and feed up to 52 head of cattle at once.

With Pequea's efficient slant-bar system cows can't push each other away from feeding spaces, so you have less feed loss from spills. Convenient low tank height accomodates any size cow.

You can save wear and tear on your pasture and they eliminate heavily trampled spots. Just move it to a new location each day.

The New 520H cattle head gate bunk feeder (below) is the modern answer for holding cattle during breeding, veterinarian, or testing purposes.

PFGC Elects 1994 Officers

WEST MIDDLESEX, (Mercer Co.) — The 1994 officers and directors of the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council were elected at the Annual Forage Conference on Nov. 23.

The PFGC rotates the office of president and vice-president between the three groups of scientist/educators, farmers, and industry.

Outgong PFGC president is Mark Gayman, dairy farmer and forage producer from Waynesboro. Mark passed the gavel to Michael J. Galbraith, industry representative, for his term as president of PFGC for 1994.

Mike is employed by Young's - Livestock Nutritional Services, Roaring Spring, as forage crop stabilizer manager and speciality products manager for hay and silage stabilizers, hay drying agents, application equipment and moisture testers.

Dr. Douglas Beegle, associate professor of Agronomy and an Extension soil fertility specialist, with Pennsylvania State University, was elected vice-president/president-elect.

Dr. Marvin Hall, assistant professor of Agronomy and Extension forage specialist, Pennsylvania State University, continues as the PFGC executive vice-president. Marvin can be reached at 116 Animal Science and Industry Building, Pennsylvania State University, (814) 863-1019.

Richard Hann, Milton Hershey School Farms, Hershey, was re-elected PFGC secretary-treasurer, having served in this capacity for many years. PFGC correspondence can be sent to Richard at P.O. Box 830, Hershey, PA 17033 (717) 534-3507.

Two new directors and one incumbent director were elected to the PFGC Board for three-year-terms: David Hileman, Donald Overdorff and Michael Galbraith.

PFGC Directors
Farmers

David Hileman, Tyrone (Blair County). Dave farms 500 acres and has a 300 cow dairy farm. Dave will be serving his first year as director.

Fred England, Williamsburg (Blair County). Fred also operates a dairy farm with over 750 tillable acres and 180 cows with his wife Cynthia and his two brothers. Fred will be serving his third year as director.

Mark Gayman, Waynesboro (Franklin County). Mark and his wife Sally operate a dairy farm near Waynesboro. Mark is PFGC Past-President and continues in his second term as PFGC Director.

The brothers brought the boar home, and immediately began to see the impact on the herd. The brothers, who finish and sell about 150 pigs a year using 10-12 sows, began to mate him with their best gilts, usually Hampshire/Yorks or Duroc/York crosses. They use the Duroc crosses because they grow the fastest and are most efficient, according to Rick. Yorks are used for their maternal and strong weaning ability, and provide a lot of heterosis, or hybrid vigor. After obtaining the boar, pigs born alive increased to about 12, and litter size stabilized at about 10.

Rick said that consumers are demanding more leanness from hogs, and getting it. At this year's KILE, the barrow champion carcass weighted in at 219 pounds with .6 backfat, a 7.7 square inches of loineye, and 58.81 percent lean on rail. The third overall barrow, also sired by their boar, weighed 241 pounds and had .7 backfat, with a 7.4 loineye and measured 56.72 percent lean on rail.

In 1992, according to Rick, the reserve crossbred on rail weighed 246 pounds with .7 backfat, a 7.4 loineye, and 60.54 percent lean.

The goal of the Strauss farm is to raise hogs for showing and selling some of their top animals to 4-H members. They raise the rest for their finish operation, and also sell individual hogs for butchering. (Recently, they butchered a barrow from their first inbred litter, which measured over a 9-inch loineye.)

To do this, selecting the right crossbred sow and mating it to the prize boar is key.

"You can't take an average-muscled boar and use him on an average-muscled sow and get a pig that's really heavy muscled and lean for what the packer wants," said Rick. "It just doesn't work. You have to have a boar that's heavily muscled and lean."

Improvements have been quick and sure, resulting in pigs that are more consistent in leanness and muscling than what the brothers had before. They pick selected gilts from the better litters and use them in the herd. According to the brothers, the pigs they sell at the market, mostly New Holland, have been fetching a good price.

Some of the gilts have been saved, and the brothers have used AI to breed them, but haven't been pleased with the results. They intend to continue to use the boar for at least another two years.

As to why the brothers don't start boar breeding as a separate business, Rick said that because of the nature of the hog market around here (too many contract operations), breeders couldn't survive.

"That's what's hurting the purebred industry in Pennsylvania," he said.

As for their champion boar, they've obtained about 50 litters from him so far, and expect another 50.

"When you spend that kind of money, you hope maybe you can win (KILE) one time to pay for the boar," said Rick. "There's a lot of competition up there, there's a lot of other good hogs."

Rick said that beginning this year, they're going to twice a year farrowing, once in April and then in September-October. The April pigs will be used for local fairs and the better barrows for KILE. The ones in the fall will be finished.

Rick said he learns a lot about breeding stock by reading a lot of magazines, but mostly by attending KILE.

"If you see what the pigs look like on foot, and then you see them on rail, and you see a lot of pigs like that over a period of time, you have a lot better idea of what you have," he said.

Rick said by raising your own hogs, you learn a lot more. The brothers have been showing pigs since 1974. "Anybody that's been around pigs for 20 years, raising your own pigs, you should have learned something," he said.

"That's the show where you learn something," said Mrs. Strauss. "Anybody who wants to learn about hogs, that's the place to go."

ASA Pleased With Approval Of Ink Act

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The American Soybean Association (ASA) is pleased the Senate passed the Vegetable Ink Printing Act of 1993 by unanimous consent, and is hopeful the House of Representatives will act on the legislation next year.

"U.S. soybean farmers have worked many months for this victory in the Senate," said ASA president and South Dakota soybean farmer Larry Diedrich. "We appreciate the leadership of Senators Christopher Bond (R-MO) and Paul Wellstone (D-MN) who served as original co-sponsors of this legislation and helped to get it passed so swiftly in the Senate."

The bill requires federal government agencies and their contractors to use the maximum amount of vegetable oil ink that is technologically feasible, provided printing costs are cost-competitive with printing using petroleum-based inks. Lawmakers consulted with ASA to determine minimum percentages of vegetable oil required for use in various printing applications.

"We are pleased Senators have recognized the value of soy ink, and look forward to similar action by the House of Representatives after Congress returns in January," Diedrich said. "Soy ink is easier on the environment and has several advantages over petroleum-based inks in the printing process. And expanding soyoil use helps improve soybean producer profits."

HE'S REPLACING SOYBEAN MEAL AND CORN TO IMPROVE HIS PROFIT . . . SHOULD YOU?

This dairyman just took a delivery of brewers wet grain from the Miracle Feeds division of Furst-McNess. When he put a sharp pencil to it, he found that each ton of Miracle brewers wet grains could replace 230 pounds of 48 percent soybean meal (@ $250/ton) and 195 pounds of shelled corn (@ $90/ton) making brewers wet grain worth over $35.00/ton in his ration. With the average price of brewers wet grains running at approximately $25.00-$27.00/ton (depending on distance from the brewery) this dairyman has realized that brewers wet grains is an excellent buy versus soybean meal and shelled corn.

And, the dairyman found Miracle brewers wet grain also enhanced his cows' production since it is an excellent source of bypass protein and helps make up for some poor quality forage he is forced to feed this year. It also improved the palatability of his total ration. Brewers wet grains also contains 9% fat making it an excellent source for this important nutrient.

Say you're already feeding brewers grains? Maybe you should consider switching to Miracle, where you can get free computerized ration balancing plus forage testing to get the most out of your feeding program. Just call toll-free 800-888-0230.

Nutrient Management Advisory Board

by Gov. Robert Casey, earlier this year, the State Conservation Commission has set deadlines to achieve a working program.

The goal is to have an up and running nutrient management program by July 1995.

The goals are divided into two distinct, but interrelated, lines of attack — one is to create nutrient management regulations; the other is to create nutrient management certification regulations.

The By July 1994, the commission is to propose regulations for both.

The final certification regulations are to be done in January 1995, while the final management regulations are to be done by July 1995.

In all cases, the advisory board is to review proposals of the commission and make recommendations.

During its previous meeting, the Nutrient Management Advisory Board sent back for revision a proposal for interim criteria.

The version discussed Wednesday reflected more the board's acceptance of wording to direct the department of agriculture to create a certification program.

The sentiments of the board, which approved the draft with a split vote by a show of hands, have been oft-expressed to create a program that does not make it overly difficult to achieve certification as a nutrient management specialist.

The majority of the board said they felt that it can be expected that a certified nutrient management technician should understand deficiencies in a plan's control of nutrient flow; but at the same time, it should not be required that a nutrient management technician possess expertise in all fields relating to creating a workable nutrient management plan.

It was expressed that a certified nutrient management technician should be able to detect major deficiencies and then use the expertise of those already required to have such knowledge to arrive at a working plan.

It was also stressed that a working plan should achieve the goal of surface and groundwater protection from overnutrification, primarily by nitrogen, rather than merely create a bureaucracy by which compliance to regulation is more important than achieving control of nutrients.

In other business, Geroge Robinson, representing the poultry and feed industry, said that a trip to the Netherlands taken by certain members of the board and others to inspect and review nutrient management practices and concerns of that region was worthwhile.

He explained how the Netherlands government has instituted such things as a manure tax, which is based on an annual balance of export and import of nutrients onto a farming operation.

He also said that they have government subsidized manure shipping of up to 100 miles radius, and other programs aimed at curtailing a drinking water pollution problem.

However, Robinson noted that the area — being below sea level and maintained with ditches and dikes — is not generally comparable to farming practices in the United States.

The board also heard a review of meetings between representatives of agencies which are to eventually coordinate efforts under the Nutrient Management Act.

According to Vic Funk, on the staff of the State Conservation Commission, to date two meetings were held of the representatives of the primary agencies involved — Penn State Extension, the Pa. Department of Agriculture, the Conservation Districts, the USDA Soil Conservation Service, and the USDA Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The most recent meeting was held Nov. 16.

Funk said the purpose of the meetings was bring together representatives of each agency and to "effect some coordination."

He said the agenda of the meeting was to get each agency up to speed with an understanding of its possible role in administering the Nutrient Management Act.

According to Funk, PSU Extension has been developing information for the public which consists of general explanations of the Nutrient Management Act.

The SCS is focusing on additional training, as were the others.

The conservation districts, however, have some concerns.

Under the Act, each conservation district may or may not accept authority for implementation and enforcement of the Act, depending on the wishes of each board of directors for each conservation district.

Primarly, the obstacle to taking on full enforcement authority is either a lack of manpower, expertise, and/or a lack of financial support.

For the past several years, at least, conservation districts — which are jointly funded by the federal, state and county governments — have sought increased state funding in order to carry out an increasing amount of responsibility, such as some districts perform in reviewing construction plans for residential or commercial projects, working with the Chesapeake Bay program, environmental education efforts, and attempting to monitor earthmoving activities and erosion control.

Funk said that as a result of the meeting it was also determined that there must be some system of post-coordination; in other words, after the regulations are in place, some forum for interagency coordination must evolve.

"We must sing out of the same hymnal or have a lot of confusion," Funk said.

He said that PSU Extension representatives have said the agency plans a continuing education program supporting the nutrient management act, similar to its existing continuing education in support of the state's pesticide application laws.

Bedford County DHIA Presents Awards

Linda Williams
Bedford Co. Correspondent

IMLER (Bedford Co.) — Janelle Koontz and her Stan-Els Duncan Sweet and Sour Jersey took the top junior award in the annual Bedford County DHIA production awards.

Awards were presented at a banquet held at the Imler Fire Hall and served by the members of the Imler Volunteer Auxiliary.

Janelle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Koontz, is a member of the Friendly Moo-Moos 4-H Club. Duncan Sweet and Sour produced 15,758 pounds of milk and had a fat production of 680 pounds. Both records were made over an average of 305 days.

Top senior awards announced at the banquet went to Steve and Jeri Ritchey, Martinsburg RD. The Ritcheys took the High Herd Butterfat award, the High Herd Protein award, and the High Herd Milk awards.

Rick and Ed Deputy of Meadowcreek Farms, Bedford RD 4, were tops in high cow milk production.

High cow butterfat was JTS Wakefield Farms owned by Tom and Jim Wakefield of Bedford RD 4.

High cow protein was owned by Obie Snider, Imler RD 1.

The lowest somatic cell count award went to Denton Clark of Clearville RD 2.

Supervisors are Dean Grimes, Elmira Grimes, Brenda Bingenhimer, Angie McDonald, Barbara Mearkle, and Tammy Furry.

Andy Meiers, state DHIA director, gave the state DHIA report, and remarks were made by Larry Hay, region manager.

Entertainment was provided by the Meistersingers, a popular group of young vocalists from Northern Bedford County High School.

Since DHIA funds are to now be handled through the state office, a "thank you," gift was presented to the current treasurer, Rita Bush, for her services for the past three years.

From the left, Steve Mowry, Bedford County DHIA president, and Melanie Barkley, county extension agent, present an award to Rick Deputy and sons Matthew, Ryan and Joshn, for owning the cow which produced the most milk in 1993. Rick is in partnership with his brother Edward, not shown.

Irish Dairy Tour Set For March

KINGSTON (Westmoreland Co.) — "Dairy farmers and other dairy industry leaders are invited to plan now to participate in the Irish Dairy Tour March 19-27, 1994, announced Paul Nichols, manager of industry relations for American Dairy Association.

The tour will fly from Kennedy Airport, New York City via Air Lingus, the Irish National Airline, landing in Dublin to begin a busy week of touring southern Ireland via deluxe motorcoach.

According to Paul Nichols, Irish Dairy Tour host and organizer, the goal of the 1994 Irish Dairy Tour is to present an overview of the dairy industry in the Irish Republic, from production and processing through promotion and marketing. Along the way, between educational stops at dairy farms, research farms, and processing plants, will be ample time for sightseeing, including a visit to the famous Blarney Castle.

Ireland is called "The Emerald Isle" because of the rich, green pastures. "In fact," said Nichols, "many Irish farmers are able to graze their herds nine to 10 months each year." Ireland is famous for its butter, most of which is exported because there are only about three million people in Ireland, a third of whom live in Dublin.

Paul and Christine Nichols participated in the 1989 Irish Dairy Tour sponsored by The American Dairy Association, which has endorsed the 1994 Irish Dairy Tour. The experience was so vivid that they have been planning to return after five years to some of the same special places, plus visit some new sights. Moloney and Kelly Travel, Dublin, have arranged the Irish portion of the trip.

The tour package price of $1,390 per person, double occupancy $1,540, single occupancy) includes round trip air fare, ground transportation with a professional Irish guide, hotel accommodations, breakfasts, and dinners (including two special banquets), and admissions to various sightseeing opportunities.

A $100 per person deposit is due by December 15 to reserve space on the tour. For a tour brochure, call (717) 283-2204 or write Paul Nichols, ADADC, 239 Schuyler Avenue, Kingston, PA 18704-3378. Nutrient Management Advisory Board

He also said that there were some start up costs anticipated, but those won't be made public until after the governor makes his budget request known to the legislature.

In other business, John Longenecker reported on an outline for proposed requirements for final cerification of a nutrient management technician, which would target five different areas — education or experience; pre-examination training; an examination; completion of a number of plans that have been approved; and continuing education.

Since there are to be three types of nutrient management technicians — commercial, public (conservation district personnel), and private (a farm owner-operator) — there are to be three different levels of competency expected. The specific details are yet to be proposed.

While in theory the nutrient management program is expected to be comparable to the permitting program for pesticides application, Longenecker said there can be expected to be some significant differences.

The board also discussed some of the aspects of "animal equivalent units," or AEUs, as detailed in the Nutrient Management Act, and how to determine whether or not a specific farming operation has enough land to handle the nutrients created by the operation.

Discussed was how to determine whether or not an operater had control of land, if it is leased or owned; what types of evidence an operator would have to show that he has control of that land; what types of land would be suitable for the application of manure; whether or not some historically existing pasture (used as pasture because too low-lying and subject to flooding to support tillage) should be considered applicable for the application of manure; types of crops; alternative uses of manure; whether historic uses of land should be considered and whether a grandfather cutoff date should be used.

According to David Gromelski, assistant counsel with DER's Bureau of Regulatory Counsel, the issue of being able to determine AEUs and AEUs per acre, and land suitable for receiving nutrients, will probably be the most important and key area of concern with the entire Act.

It was generally agreed that animal equivalent units are not the best method for determining whether or not an operation is in danger of overapplying or overproducing nutrients for application to the land available. However, AEUs are part of the law and must be dealt with.

In related business, the board also heard a report from Dr. Charles Ramberg on the variations of animal nutrition and nitrogen in manure. According to Ramberg, who talked mostly about bovine nutrition and digestion, the range of nitrogen in manure can vary greatly, depending on the ration being fed and the health of the animal.

The next meeting is scheduled to start 9:30 a.m., Jan. 12, in Heritage Room B, at 333 Market Street, in Harrisburg.

family farmer is passing the way of the cowboy and the no-fence, open-range rancher.

There are many involved in the dairy business, in education, and in investments who say that the family farmer is passing into history.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, families living on farms only represent about 1.8 percent or less of the total population.

The USDA's own actions — ceasing to conduct the annual survey of family farms because of the diminished number and therefore relevance — may well be the knell for a way of life that traces back for thousands of years for many existing cultures, especially the ones which now call the American continent home.

Today, agriculture is no longer synonymous with the family farm.

However, whether or not life on the independent family farm may be passing, Farm-City activities do much to show people the truth about the most basic human group — a family — living off of the land, trading effort for survival, believing in a creator, noticing the passage of time through the miracles of the cycles of life, and having hope that by passing on hard-won knowledge and understanding to the next generation, that there is hope for something better.

Through the efforts of those involved with Farm-City programs, every year a new crop of citizens has a chance at better understanding the role of the family farm — in its development of the United States, and in supporting a culture that can foster understanding, peace and growth.

To better understand what agriculture and city life is and is not, through the use of the Lebanon County Chamber of Commerce, agricultural and non agricultural people in the county have been organizing Farm-City Week activities for many years.

This year, the events included its traditional Lebanon Valley Mall exhibit, with a duck slide, incubator hatching chicks, farm animals, local commodity queens,

Poultry Biosecurity Meeting Set

COLLEGE PARK, Md. —"Understanding Emergency Poultry Diseases and Flock Profiling Reports" is the theme for this year's eighth annual regional meeting on Practical Biosecurity for Poultry.

The daylong educational event is scheduled Dec. 7 in the same location as past years — Clayton Hall on the University of Delaware campus at Newark, Del. Registration gets under way at 8 a.m., and the program will run from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Presenting information on avian influenza and other emergency poultry disease topics will be four speakers from the Veterinary Services staff of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, as well as a prominent acting deputy administrator for the USDA's Food Safety and Inspection Service.

State department of agriculture veterinary officials from Pennsylvania, Delaware, and Maryland will speak on legal and practical biosecurity aspects of infectious poultry diseases.

Flock profiling will be addressed by Dr. Edward T. Mallinson, extension poultry veterinarian at the University of Maryland campus, Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine, and Leslie H. Kirkegaard, Jr., diagnostic technical service representative of Kirkegaard & Perry Laboratories, Inc., in Gaithersburg, Md.

The poultry biosecurity conference is organized each year by the Mid-Atlantic Cooperative Extension Poultry Health and Management Unit (MACE), with financial support from interested trade and agribusiness organizations.

A registration fee includes lunch and a copy of the conference proceedings. The fee is $30 if registration is made by Nov. 30. The late registration fee is $40, and lunch cannot be guaranteed.

For more information, contact Dr. John H. Schwartz at (717) 394-6851 (Penn State Extension) in Lancaster, Pa., or Dan Palmer at (302) 856-7303 (University of Delaware) near Georgetown, Del.

Boyd Named To National Banking Post

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Darvin E. Boyd, senior vice president and director of agrifinance at CoreStates Hamilton Bank, has been named to the executive committee of the American Bankers Association (ABA) National Agricultural Bankers Division.

The ABA division works to meet bankers' needs through various products and programs, including texts and manuals, a journal of agricultural lending, and a national conference.

The division also seeks methods to simplify and streamline the lending process for federally-guaranteed loans for farmers and works to develop legislation to encourage banks to help new farmers.

An Ephrata resident, Boyd joined the Bank in 1976, and under his direction its agrifinance portfolio has grown to more than $100 million. He is a graduate of Ephrata High School, Delaware Valley College, and The Pennsylvania State University.

He serves as president of the Lancaster Farmland Trust, a member of the Lancaster City/County Human Relations Commission, a director of Brethren Village, and a moderator of the Ephrata Church of the Brethren.

Guernsey, Brown Swiss, Milking Shorthorn Breeders Join

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — Starting February, the appraisals, or classifications as they are commonly called, of registered Guernseys, Brown Swiss and Milking Shorthorn cattle are to be shared efforts among the three national breed organizations, according to spokespeople with the American Guernsey Association (AGA).

In an effort to reduce operating costs and increase field efficiency, appraisers for each of the national organizations are to classify not only cattle within their own organiztaion's breed, but the other two as well.

In other words, current Guernsey classifications will be conducted by AGA, Brown Swiss and Milking Shorthorn classifiers.

The same is true for the other breeds.

In a news release, Becky Goodwin, spokesperson for AGA, said, "The combining of appraisal programs is the first of several steps that may lead to all three organizations joining their entire operations under one roof."

However, in a Monday telephone interview, she said, "It is not a merger or a takeover. We want to make that clear."

According to Goodwin, "The Guernsey Association and the Brown Swiss Association have been talking about doing things together, that would financially help both organizations. We're going to try the appraisal joint effort on a trial basis. In the future, we hope to help each other with things like record keeping. This is kind of an initial starting point, to see how it goes."

Goodwin said the AGA Board of Directors approved the joint effort during its June meeting. However, she said that before the joint appraisal were to go into effect, the "Type Committees" of each respective breed got together to discuss the differences and some areas with which they wanted the three-breed apraisers to become familiar.

This fall, according to Goodwin, when Guernsey appraisers went into the field for classification, they took with them Brown Swiss and Milking Shorthorn appraisers, and vice versa, in order to familiarize each other with the work.

While a specific date hasn't been set for a review of the success of the trial program, she said the program would definetly be reviewed by the June AGA board meeting. "Both boards and executive secretaries will be very active to keep an eye on things and to make sure it goes as smoothly as possible."

Financially, Mike Ousley, AGA controller, said the savings to the 2,000-member AGA national organization is estimated at between $7,000 to $8,700. "I think the Brown Swiss (breeders) would realize about the same (savings).

Ousley said that while the savings from combining appraisal work doesn't seem like much, considering an annual budget of about $500,000, it is just the start of work to cut costs.

According to recent news release, "The combining of appraisal programs is the first of several steps that may lead to all three organizations joining their entire operations under one roof. Potential sites for a joint location are now being examined by the boards of these associations. At this time, no time table has been set for when such a joint occupancy might occur."

Ousley said that if the organizations could combine all operations, it is estimated that total annual savings to the AGA would be from $35,000 to $50,000 per year.

Any cattle breeders who have questions should contact their respective breed organizations, Goodwin said.

Meat Production Down

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Commercial red meat production in the state during October 1993 totaled 95.3 million pounds, dressed weight basis, down 2 percent from October 1992, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service (PASS).

Beef slaughter at 108.0 million pounds liveweight was 4 percent less than October 1992. Total head slaughtered was 87,000, down 5 percent from last year.

Liveweight averaged 1,241 pounds, an increase of 14 pounds from last year.

Veal slaughter was 6 million pounds liveweight, 7 percent more than a year ago. Calf slaughter of 14,700 head was up 7 percent; average liveweight decreased 1 pound to 407 pounds.

Hog slaughter was 47.2 million pounds liveweight, up 2 percent from October 1992. Total head slaughtered was 187,500, down 5 percent from last year. Average liveweight increased 19 pounds to 252 pounds.

Lamb and mutton slaughter was 597,000 pounds liveweight, down 30 percent, the number slaughtered was 5,800, down 27 percent from October of last year. The average liveweight decreased 4 pounds to 103 pounds.

Nationally, commercial red meat production for October totaled 3.5 billion pounds, dressed weight basis, down 4 percent from last year.

Beef production, dressed weight basis, at 1.98 billion pounds was down 2 percent from a year ago.

Veal production at 22.0 million pounds was down 8 percent.

Pork production totaled 1.47 billion pounds, down 7 percent from a year earlier.

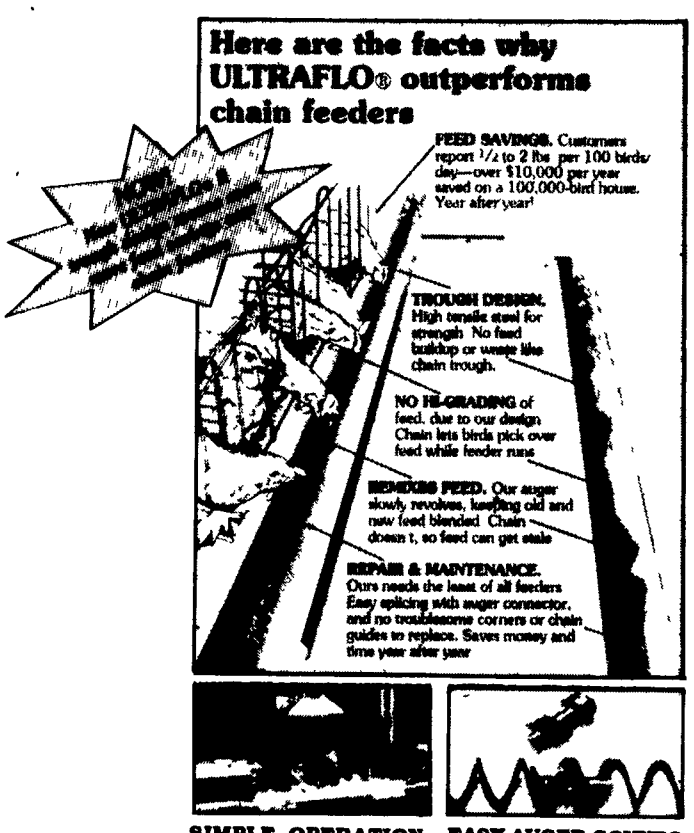
Get 33% more birds because it is only 73" wide



Here are the facts why ULTRAFLO® outperforms chain feeders
FEED SAVINGS. Customers report 1/2 to 2 lbs per 100 birds/day—over $10,000 per year saved on a 100,000-bird house. Year after year!
TROUGH DESIGN. High tensile steel for strength No feed buildup or waste like chain trough.
NO RE-GRADING of feed, due to our design Chain lets birds pick over feed while feeder runs
REMIXES FEED. Our auger slowly revolves, keeping old and new feed blended Chain doesn't, so feed can get stale
REPAIR & MAINTENANCE. Ours needs the least of all feeders Easy splicing with auger connector, and no troublesome corners or chain guides to replace. Saves money and time year after year

SIMPLE OPERATION. "Push-Pull" Power Units with low HP motor are located along the feeder line as needed.

EASY AUGER CONNECTOR. Allows fast and simple installation, also quick and easy repair of auger if ever necessary.

Remodel with Chore-Time and you can have more birds, better performance and less maintenance. Chore-Time's 4 tier, 20 inch deep Duratrims are the same width as 3 tier dropping board systems and 4 tier reverse cages. Go from 60,000 birds to 80,000 birds.

Over 80% of the nation's top egg producers* have already switched to Chore-Time cages with ULTRAFLO® Feeders!*

Egg producers have been putting up with obsolete chain feeders far too long. Now there's a better way: Chore-Time's proven ULTRAFLO Cage Feeding System Since introduction, more than 80% of the top 54 egg producers* have gone to ULTRAFLO. A lot of smaller ones have too.

They've all looked at the advantages and chosen ULTRAFLO. That's because it makes them more profitable Total egg production and egg size—these are the best benefits of our complete feeding system.

Why not check out the facts for yourself? Contact us now—or ask any producer who owns ULTRAFLO.

Because the only negative comments about our feeding system come from our competition—not from our customers

Warren DHIA Recognizes Achievements

WARREN (Warren Co.) — The Warren County Dairy Herd Improvement Association recognized the outstanding county dairy herds at a recent annual banquet.

The top herd was Maple Place Farm in Sugar Grove. The farm is owned and operated by Al Ludwick and his son Brad.

Maple Place Farm was the high herd in milk production, a 22,868 pounds of milk average; high herd in butterfat, 850 pound average; high herd in protein, 706 pound average; and winner of the herd management award with 92 points.

Ludwick received award plaques sponsored by Integra Band North, PNC Bank, Nutrena Feeds and Jim Keough, and Penn West Farm Credit.

The highest producing cow in Warren County is also a member of the Maple Place herd. A 4-year-old Holstein cow called "Candy" produced 33,299 pounds of milk, 1,305 pound of butterfat, and 1,051 pounds of protein. Candy produced enough milk to supply a family of four with cheese, butter, ice cream, and other milk products for the next 50 years.

The top cow earned Ludwick trophies sponsored by Agway Inc. and Integrated Dairy Services.

Two herds shared the most improved honors this year. Ran-Dell Farm, owned by Ransom Riedel of Spring Creek, had the most improved herd in milk production with an increase of 1,709 pounds milk, and the most improved in protein with a 58-pound increase. Riedel received plaques sponsored by Penn West Farm Credit and Northwest Savings Bank.

The most improved herd in butterfat production was owned by James Leofsky of Garland. Leofsky's herd had an increase of 59 pounds of fat over last year. He received a plaque sponsored by Mosher Mobile Milling and Nutrena Feeds.

Producing the highest quality milk with the lowest somatic cell count, John Woodin of Bear Lake won a plaque sponsored by Conneaut Lake Veterinary Clinic. The Woodin herd had a 78,000 somatic cell count average for the year.

No Change For October Milk

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Milk production in Pennsylvania during October 1993 totaled 838 million pounds, virtually unchanged from last year, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service (PASS).

The number of milk cows in the state during the month averaged 652,000 head, up 1,000 from September and 2,000 more than October 1992.

Production per cow averaged 1,285 pounds in October, 60 pounds more than September but down 5 pounds from October 1992.

Milk production in the 21 states surveyed during October 1993 totaled 10.4 billion pounds, 1 percent below production in these same states in October 1992. The number of milk cows averaged 8.10 million head, down 143,000 head from a year earlier, while production per cow averaged 1,283 pounds, five pounds above October of last year.

During the July-September period, the 21 major states produced 84.4 percent of the nation's production. If producers in the remaining 29 states not surveyed monthly followed the trend shown by the 21 reporting states, U.S. milk production for October would be 12.3 billion pounds.

All American Jersey Sale Averages $4,275

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The 41st All American Jersey Sale averaged $4,275 on 56 lots making it the seventh highest average in the history of the sale.

During the sale, held Nov. 7 in Louisville, Kentucky, it was obvious that the demand for genetics with superior production and functional type continues to be in demand.

Commanding the top price of $23,000 (2nd high price of all-time for Jersey heifer) was a six month old heifer calf, A U Berretta Duncan Tina, consigned by Kent and Carol Alberti of Wendell, Idaho. She was purchased by Max and Steve Bachelor and Family, Angola, Ind. "Tina" is tied for number one in the breed for Parent Average (PA) for Protein at +78P.

She is a daughter of Mason Boomer Sooner Berretta, Top PTI bull of the breed (7-93) and out of A U Duncan Legend Tipsy, Excellent - 90% and number one on the 7/93 PTI list for females with a record of 3-00 305 24,950M, 1,186F and 995P.

Rebob Berretta Hondo-ET sold for $20,000 the second highest price of the sale. Consigned by Rebob Farm Inc., Tillamook, Oregon, "Hondo" was purchased by Select Sires, Plain City, Ohio and syndicate of Jersey breeders.

He, too, was sired by "Berretta". His dam was the Excellent -91 Rebob Duncan Hattie with 20,990M, 973F and 758P in 305 days at 4-5.

Second high selling bull at $15,500 was Key of Greenwood consigned by Greenwood Jersey Farm, Ninety Six, SC. This young son of Highland Duncan Dexter sold to Tri-State Breeders, Baraboo, WI and a syndicate of Jersey breeders. His Rocky Hill Sky Line dam has a projected M.E. of 17,300M and 918F at 1-09.

Second high selling female was R Sooner Quite Contrary consigned by Cottonwood Farm, Chehalis, Wash. She sold for $10,100 and also went to the Bachelor Family, Angola, Ind. At 1-10 she produced 21,980M, 779F and 760P and scored Excellent - 90 percent.

Also reaching four figures was Dutch Hollow Premium - ET at $12,000. Consigned by Paul Chittenden, Schodack Landing, NY, this son of D&E Duncans Bell sold to NOBA, Inc. and a syndicate of Jersey breeders. His VG "Silver Saint" dam has 21,000M, 1027F and 837P.

The All American Jersey Sale is held each November in conjunction with the North American International Livestock Exposition and was managed by Jersey Marketing Service, which is associated with The American Jersey Cattle Club.

Soybean Referendum Set

ST. LOUIS - The National Soybean Checkoff, directed by the 63-farmer members of the United Soybean Board (USB), has been up and running for more than two years. On Feb. 9, 1994, soybean growers will have the opportunity to vote on its continuation in a national referendum.

"Growers will be able to cast their vote at county extension offices, or cast an absentee ballot by mail," according to Harold Phillips, USB chairman and a soybean grower from Stevenson, Ala. "The way it looks now, seven out of 10 soybean growers approve of how the USB goes about its business of planning and evaluating programs, making sure every checkoff dollar is invested wisely. We encourage every grower to participate in the vote," he said.

USB Operations

Every soybean farmer contributes equally in proportion to the value of their crop when sold: one-half of one percent.

Half of the checkoff money collected stays in the state where the farmer controlled state soybean board decides how it should be spent. These dollars are used to fund programs that are unqiue to the needs of the state or region, such as production research, or they can be used to support a USB program the state feels warrants additional support.

The USB uses its half of the checkoff money to fund hundreds of research, promotion and market development programs that need a national focus to be effective. This funding split among the states and USB is an important part of the system of checks and balances that underlies the checkoff program.

. The USB checkoff operates through a farmer-run committee system. Each of the 63 soybean farmers on the board is appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture after nomination by their respective state soybean board.

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — Chester County DHIA held its annual banquet and meeting at West Fallowfield Christian School.

A ham dinner was enjoyed by over 135 members, family and friends. The treasurer's report showed the organization to be in sound financial shape. Currently, the county has eight full and part-time technicians testing herds.

In the election of directors, Jeanette Brooks, Parkesburg, Ken Brown, Pottstown, Marilyn Hershey, Cochranville, and Dave Stauffer, Elverson, were selected for three-year terms.

Awards were given to the following herds with RHA of over 750 lbs. of protein:

1. Melwood Farm	887 lbs.
2. Charles J. Moore	820 lbs.
3. Marilyn & Duane Hershey	791 lbs.
4. Dunwood Farm	777 lbs.
5. Rol Kel Pen Moore	766 lbs.
6. Chris & Ches Stoltzfus	753 lbs.
7. Joseph & Sandra Lusby	752 lbs.

Dixie Burris, in charge of member relations and education for PA DHIA, addressed the meeting. She gave an update on the annual state convention and talked about new programs and how the state organization is striving for better communication with members.

Norm Hershey, State Director from Lancaster County, and Dave Shenk, PA DHIA fieldman for Southeastern Pennsylvania, also spoke to the group.

Chester County Dairy Day

Chester County Extension programs will start out early in 1994 with Dairy Day on Thursday, January 6th, at the Oxford Fire Hall. The day will begin at 9 a.m. with coffee, donuts and time to visit with the various dairy industry exhibitors. Adjournment will be by 3 p.m.

The program, which is coordinated with Berks and Montgomery/Bucks Counties, will feature top-of-the-line speakers on practical subjects that dairy farmers need information on today — NUTRITION, REPRODUCTION, AND FEET & LEGS. When a dairy farmer leaves this meeting, some of the ideas can be used immediately on most dairy operations.

Dr. Charles Stallings, a contributor to "Hoard's Dairyman," will be coming north from Virginia Tech to speak on dairy nutrition. He will discuss "Financial and Management Characteristics of High and Average Producing Virginia Dairy Herds" in the morning, and he will cover "Nutritional Considerations for Optimal Production" in the afternoon. There will also be a brief segment on "If You Use BST."

Dr. Mike O'Connor, a nationally-known specialist on dairy reproduction from Penn State, will speak on "How to Use New and Old Concepts in Reproductive Management." His afternoon presentation will be "An Update on the Use of Hormones for Reproduction in Dairy Cows."

A subject on many dairy managers' minds — feet and legs — will be covered by Dr. Dale Moore, a Penn State Extension Veterinarian, in a talk entitled "Getting a Foot Hold on Today's Hoof Problems." With all the questions Extension received on foot problems this year, this is definitely a timely topic.

If that isn't enough to convince you to come, how about a roast beef and turkey buffet dinner served by the Oxford Fire Company for only $5.

Reservations are needed. To attend Chester County's 1994 Dairy Day, Contact the Chester County Cooperative Extension, Government Services Center, Suite 370, 601 Westtown Road, West Chester, 19382-4546; or call 215-696-3500 no later than December 28, 1993.

Dairy Management and Profitability (MAP) Workshops

Penn State Cooperative Extension will be offering two-day workshops on how to better manage your dairy farm as a business.

The pilot program was very well accepted last year, and it has been expanded to sessions in six areas in Southeastern Pennsylvania, including locations in Chester, Lancaster, Berks, and Montgomery counties.

These workshops are limited to 20 participants each since they consist of considerable small group interaction. This is an ideal program for husbands and wives, fathers and sons, and brothers and sisters to determine the mission and goals of their farming operation and how they are going to accomplish them.

For informationm on dates and locations, contact Alan Strock or Walter Wurster, Chester County Extension Agents, at (215) 696-3500.

Downer Video Available

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — According to Lawrence Hutchinson, DVM, a Penn State Extension veterinarian, the university, with funding from several industry organizations, has produced a video and a slide-script program on "Preventing Non-Ambulatory Cows."

According to an announcement made this week, the 17-minute VHS video is priced at $35 and is available through the Ag Information Services, The Pennsylvania State University, 119 Ag Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802.

The scripted slide presentation can be ordered for $50 and includes 128 slides and also is available through Ag Information Services.

In a flier announcing the video, it states, "proper management practices need to be implemented to help prevent non-ambulatory animals. This video and meeting slide set, 'Preventing Non-Ambulatory Cows,' provide information on safe handling practices and facilities for producers, haulers, and auction personnel.

"The procedures outlined can help avoid stress and injury to animals both on the farm and in the market chain. If everyone involved takes action to prevent non-ambulatory animals, new regulations will be unnecessary and economic losses to the industry can be minimized."

Experts Address Future Of Northeast Agriculture

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — As many as 300 of Pennsylvania's farmers are expected to turn out in Hershey on Dec. 9 to learn about water quality, nutrient management, and what the future looks like for agricultural producers in the Northeast.

Dr. Lamartine F. Hood, dean of Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, and other experts will provide insights into these issues at the annual meeting of Agway, Inc. at the Hershey Convention Center.

"Agriculture in the Northeast has been growing over the past 20 years, but we face many challenges," Hood said. "We live and produce in one of the most densely populated regions of the country, dominated by large urban centers. Agriculture must proactively seek to be a good neighbor, and those of us who work in agriculture must be good citizens. We also must aggressively seek to shape, affect, and implement the public policies that impact our businesses.

"In addition, all of us must begin to see agriculture and its products not just as commodities and producers, but as part of a 'food system' that is leading us into the future. That food system plays a critical role in the health and well-being of our families, viability of our communities, and the quality of our lives."

Hood will present his perspective on the issues and opportunities that lie ahead for farmers in the Northeast during the afternoon session of the Agway annual meeting. His address will begin at approximately 2:30 p.m.

Agway traditionally has held a single three-day meeting in Syracuse. This year, three one-day meetings will be held to better accommodate farmers geographically. In addition to the Pennsylvania event, meetings were held Dec. 1 in Liverpool, N.Y., and Dec. 6 in Springfield, Mass.

"By having one-day sessions at three locations, we hope to attract more active farmers to the meetings," said Richard K. Arnold, director of corporate communications for Agway.

Following registration and refreshments, the business meeting will start promptly at 10 a.m. The afternoon program will end at 3 p.m.

Other highlights of the meeting include panel presentations and discussions on water quality issues of critical interest to farmers, an update on developments in the Agway cooperative, and the chance to talk to the Agway board and management in an informal setting.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

economic impacts of environmental regulations, water quality, nutrient management, crop residue, small grains, and forages. Farmers from Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia are invited to attend.

Sponsoring organizations include Cooperative Extension, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service and local conservation districts in the participating states, with assistance from interested agribusiness representatives. More than 400 persons are expected to attend.

Activities on Dec. 16 will get under way at 8 a.m. with free coffee and doughnuts, plus opportunity to visit industry exhibits. The educational program will run from 9 a.m. to 3:45 p.m., with an hour and 45 minutes off for lunch and another chance to chat with exhibitors.

Tickets for the noon luch are available for $6 each from cooperative extension county offices throughout the Mid-Atlantic area. They must be purchased in advance and no later than Dec. 6.

Speakers and topics for the morning program are as follows:

- "Innovations in Agriculture" — Dr. Dennis R. Keeney, director of the Leopold Center for Sustainable Agriculture and professor of soil microbiology at Iowa State University.
- "Weed Control Update" — Dr. Ronald L. Ritter, extension agronomist, University of Maryland at College Park.
- "Conservation Tillage & Small Grains" — F. Ronald Mulford, farm manager, Poplar Hill Facility, Lower Eastern Shore Research & Education Center, University of Maryland.
- "Crop Residue Management" — Joel C. Myers, state agronomist for Pennsylvania, Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Harrisburg, Pa.

The last three topics will be aired twice, in consecutive 40-minute breakout sessions, providing opportunity to hear two of the three speakers.

Afternoon program topics will include economic impacts of environmental regulations, fertility and nutrient management, forages, and water quality improvement programs.

Vegetable Growers Plan Meeting

GREENSBURG (Westmoreland Co.) — The annual Western Pennsylvania Commercial Vegetable Growers Seminar will be held on Thursday, December 9, at the Days Inn, Butler, from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Every year, vegetable growers from western Pennsylvania and parts of Ohio and West Virginia meet to learn the latest information and products available to help them grow top quality produce.

Excellent speakers from universities and private industry will discuss production practices, marketing, pest management, and other topics.

Commercial exhibitors include seed companies, chemical companies, machinery dealers, greenhouse suppliers, and distributors of a wide range of products, including irrigation equipment for the commercial vegetable grower. Penn State Extension and commercial suppliers are again cosponsoring this event.

This year's educational sessions will emphasize commercial production of vine crops. Dr. William LaMont, professor of vegetable crops at Kansas State University, will speak on the topics, "Intensive Production of Vine Crops" and "Pumpkin Production." Speakers from Penn State and private industry will address topics such as "Weed Management for Vine Crops," "New Vine Crop Varieties," and "Insect Pest Management in Vine Crops."

The afternoon will feature concurrent sessions on marketing and production. Dr. Kelso Wessel, professor of agricultural economics, will be the featured speaker in the marketing session.

If you are involved in or seriously considering commercial vegetable growing, plan to attend the Western Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Seminar. It will be held at the Days Inn, Rt. 8 South, Butler. To register or for more information, contact Penn State Extension, Westmoreland County, Box 250, Greensburg, PA 15601, (412) 837-1402, or any Penn State extension office in western Pennsylvania.

ALBC Takes Over Dutch Belted Registry

PITTSBORO, N.C. — The Dutch Belted Cattle Association of America registry duties are now being performed by the American Livestock Breeds Conservancy, a non-profit organization dedicated to the conservation of biological diversity in livestock populations.

The herdbook for the Dutch Belted Cattle Association of America was established in 1886. This is the oldest continuously registering herdbook for belted cattle in the world.

While Dutch Belted cattle have become quite rare, interest is picking up in this unique dairy breed, according to Don Bixby, executive director of the American Livestock Breeds Conservancy.

"We are seeing more registration activity and a rise in the number of inquiries," Bixby said. "Also, many commercial dairy farmers are breeding their cows to Dutch Belted bulls to increase calving ease, grazing efficiency, and other favorable management traits."

The Dutch Belted Cattle Association of America has a recovery program for bringing grade Dutch Belted cattle back into the herdbook. There is also a breeding-up program, for starting from a Holstein female base, to help increase the population.

The American Livestock Breeds Conservancy also has a mission to locate and preserve old Dutch Belted literature such as bulletins and herdbooks.

For more information contact the American Livestock Breeds Conservancy, Box 477, Pittsboro, NC 27312, or call (919) 542-5704.

Warren Holstein Honors Youth

WARREN (Warren Co.) — Outstanding Warren County Junior Holstein members were recently honored at its annual banquet.

Award winners at the 1993 Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Convention held in Wilkes Barre were Ron Riedel of Spring Creek, breeder of excellent cow; Belmer Hitchcock and Tim Ludwick, scholarship winners; and Distinguished Junior Member State Finalists - Chris Vanco, junior division and Tim Ludwick, senior division.

Two teams competed in dairy bowl contests. The senior bowl team consisted of Candy Hitchcock, Brenda Ludwick, Belmer Hitchcock and Travis Hitchcock. The junior bowl team consisted of Amanda Hitchcock, Kristen Hitchcock, Chris Vanco, and Peter Vanco.

Belmer Hitchcock was elected regional director on the state junior Holstein board. He also had three of his cows qualify for the junior purebred breeder award.

The Distinguished Junior Member awards were won by Jessica Gruber, Rebecca Gruber, Chris Vanco, and Peter Vanco. The top winner was Rebecca Gruber of Sugar Grove.

Winners of 4-H Holstein classes at the 1993 Warren County Fair received jackets sponsored by the Holstein Club.

Farm-City Activities

princesses and kings, 4-H and FFA displays, Lebanon County Farm Women's Society bake sale, dog power display, Farm-City balloons, coloring contest, dairy promotion, pork cutting demonstration, an antique tractor display, Mister and Miss Farm-City contest, a cow patty drop contest with funds to go to the adopted Midwest flood-stricken community Chelsea, Iowa, etc.

There was also, on Nov. 15, a senior citizens toure of farming operations in the county, visiting the Eastern Land and Cattle Company, a steer operation run by Lee and Elene Hitz, the James Light poultry farm, and the Ricki and Roberta Bashore dairy farm.

A farmer's tour of businesses, focusing on environmental concerns that businesses in the county have to consider, was done especially in light of the state passing Nutrient Management Act.

The tour took 40 farmers to the Lebanon Valley College, then to the Fort Indiantown Gap military reserve, where the general talked to the group, explaining the function of the facility, its environmental concerns, and then a tour of the post.

The group got to see upclose, the post's multi-million dollar tankwash operation with its recycled water and oil separation system; the fuel handling techniques used for gassing up aircraft, etc.

Then the group, guided by William Freis, park manager for both Memorial State Park, located near the Gap, and the Swatara State Park, which is to be the site of a proposed impoundment of the Swatara Creek.

Freis discussed the size of the park, its characteristics, highlights and natural wonders, such as fossil sites, and the proposed dam site and what it would inundate.

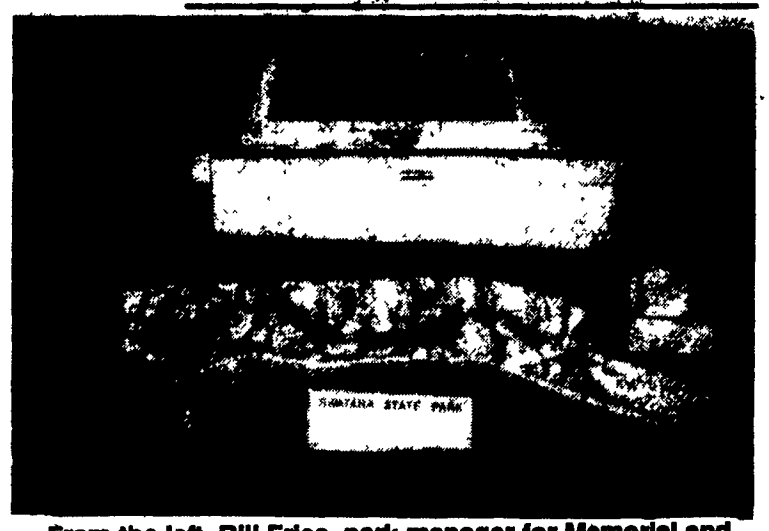
The trip was capped by a talk by state Sen. David "Chip" Brightbill, R-Palmyra, for whom the proposed dam project has been a dream, going back to when it was first proposed, and he and his father had built a boat that they were to use on the lake.

Brightbill still has the boat, though its been years since it was built, and he said he would like to see the dam become reality.

There was also a businessman's tour of farms, going to Hershey Bare's dairy operation, located north of the Lebanon city, then to Wengert's Dairy, a local well-known fluid milk and butter processor.

And also this year, Gerald and Connie Hoffer, of Annville, had donated the use of a cornfield for a project by the Lebanon Valley College to make a large maze. Local and regional media had given the project a lot of coverage earlier in the year, and when it came time to provide a Farm-City tour for school children, the maze was one of the stops.

From the right, Barbara Grumbine presents a Century Farm Award to Mr. and Mrs. Grant Krall, as part of the Lebanon County Farm-City Banquet.



From the left, Bill Fries, park manager for Memorial and Swatara state parks, talks with state Sen. David Brightbill about the proposed project. The map in the foreground is a three-dimensional model of how the proposed park will appear.

Numerous agricultural businesses helped, numerous nonagricultural businesses also provided support for the annual events.

The culmination, of Farm-City Week is the county's banquet, during which those involved in the work-exchange projects tell of their experiences to the crowd — what they learned, how they felt, the respect they gained, and the new friends that they made.

In addition to the Wagners' experience, Dennis and Karen Shalters, who run an insurance and investment firm, exchanged jobs with Cliff and Fay Berger, of Fredericksburg.

Farm-City Week is annually scheduled to lead into Thanksgiving, in order to bring out an awareness of the true meaning of the holiday and to generate an appreciation, and a glue, for the various elements of the community.

However, proponents of Farm-City Week activities say the effort must never stop.

Life With Allegra Leininger And 96 Dolls

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

REINHOLDS (Lancaster Co.) — Allegra Leininger's dolls are enough to make any doll lover envious.

With 96 dolls and plenty of clothing, high chairs, and rocking chairs to match, it's enough to make a doll lover's heart pound faster.

A perky upturned nose, a dimpled smile, long sleek tresses or a curly mop of hair give each doll a personality of its own. To hear Allegra talk, it's almost easy to believe these dolls are not lifeless but a roomful of lively babies.

"You aren't behaving very well," Allegra scolds as she picks up one to straighten the ruffles on its dress.

The most unusual feature about these 96 dolls is that Allegra has made every one of them.

"I always loved dolls," she said. "As a child I remember spending hours and hours hanging up doll clothes that I kept in a little wicker basket and talking with my dolls."

The one daughter the Leiningers had among three sons was never interested in dolls but threw them in a corner. There were few dolls in the house until the children were grown and living on their own. Then Allegra decided to make a doll from a kit. That was 20 years ago. Since then, Allegra keeps her eyes open for doll patterns, and each year she makes more and more. Every one is different and Allegra confesses that she could never sell one after she made it.

"Each one becomes my favorite while I sew it," she said, "so my favorites keep changing."

Some nights she lies awake trying to figure out how to make an eyelash or fashion a unique twist to the nose.

Occasionally she becomes frustrated, but she finishes every one she starts.

Most of her patterns are selected from the doll collection magazines to which she subscribes.

Don't think Allegra spends her days entirely with dolls. This busy grandmother of seven says that it was bred in her to keep busy because she grew up as a farm girl.

Allegra grew up on an E-town farm, met her husband-to-be in 4-H Baby Beef Club, and after marriage moved to her husband's family farm in Reinholds.

"At first we had dairy, but decided to switch to chickens."

They founded an egg ranch on their land and Allegra candled eggs seven days a week and delivered eggs in a van to stores in three counties.

Vernon was named a Master Farmer in 1976.

The couple sold the egg ranch after the avian influenza outbreak in the 1980s.

Over the years, the Leiningers bought several surrounding farms that adjoin the family farm. At one time, the Leiningers farmed more than 1,000 acres.

"We were fortunate to be in an era when you could make money farming," she said. "The money we made we put back into land."

Because only one child wanted to continue to help on the farm, some of the land was sold. Now the Leiningers and a son crop farm about 600 acres. The couple raise feeder cattle and hogs.

It is common to find Allegra chasing hogs, running for equipment parts, and preserving food, but she does not like tractor work.

This year, the Leiningers had the best corn crop ever.

"We were fortunate to get the rain when we did and we fertilize heavily," she said.

The Leininger home is surrounded by about three acres of lawn, which Allegra mows. She has extensive weeding to do in the many landscaped areas around the property. Recently she finished planting more than 900 spring bulbs.

"Growing up, I didn't have much and I learned to appreciate what I have," Allegra said. She thinks children today are discontented because they have not learned to appreciate little things.

"But there comes a time in everyone's life when you just can't get everything you want," she said.

Those times are good, she believes, for it can bring changes in attitudes.

Today's parents, she said, don't make children do enough things around the home.

"Parents should teach children to be helpful. Show them how to do chores. In later life, children will appreciate it.

"Sometimes our children were upset by needing to work, but everyone came back as an adult and told us how thankful they were that we made them work," she said.

Allegra admires those who keep interested in life as they grow older.

"Life can be very joyful. I think life is great. There are so many things to do and I just started a new activity," she said. She works out at a fitness center three days a week.

Allegra is active at Mohler Church of the Brethren, where she plays music and sings.

"My mother made sure that my two sisters, a brother and I learned to play an instrument," she said. "We gave music programs while growing up."

Allegra continues to give music programs by playing the marimba with a group.

She has been a Society 3 Farm Women member for 26 years and has served on all the committees and offices. Recently she was elected second vice president for the county organization.

"Although I keep busy, I do think we all need times to just sit down, look at life, and appreciate it," she said. "We really are so blessed."

Allegra designed this room especially to display her doll collection. She has sewn 96 and is in the process of making three more. The placement of eyes, mouth, and nose and the type of hair can give a whole new personality to a doll, she said. Some of the dolls have real hair, some wear hats and some carry books.

Allegra Leininger planted more than 900 tulip bulbs around the home that she and husband built on their farm.

Allegra claims no favorites among her doll collection except to say that each new one seems special as she makes it. Sometimes she lies awake at night trying to figure out how to complete a special technique on a new pattern.

Because her mother loved music, she named her daughter Allegra, and said, "One of my children must be musically inclined." She was not disappointed. Allegra practices playing the marimba in her music room. She performs with a marimba band and sings solos.

The walls of the Leininger home are filled with crewel and crosstitch pictures that Allegra makes.

How To Make Milk Carton Candles

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Don't cast away those empty milk cartons — cast candles instead. A popular hobby back in the '50s, crafting candles out of the milk cartons is making a comeback this holiday season as another activity to add to your list of favorite family traditions.

Quart-sized milk cartons or the smaller half and half cartons are perfect molds for easy-to-make holiday candles for several reasons: they are convenient, inexpensive and produce a large candle with four good flat surfaces that lend themselves to many decorating options.

So take a trip to your dairy case and local craft store, get your materials and have an afternoon of family fun. Follow these simple steps to make your very own candle creations.

Milk Carton Candles

What you need: (for one 8-inch candle)

- Milk carton or half and half carton
- About 9 inches of braided wick
- 1-1/2 pounds of wax
- Long wooden kitchen match or piece of straight wire
- Large rubber band
- Sharp knife
- Double boiler
- Tape
- Candle dye, if desired

Prepare the milk carton

1. Clean the empty carton by rinsing with lukewarm water. Dry thoroughly; water and hot wax don't mix.

2. Cut off the top of the carton. To do this neatly, run a piece of tape all the way around the carton, but below the top you are going to remove. You will get a straight line by following the top edge of the tape.

3. To reinforce the sides of the carton and help prevent a "paunch," place additional strips of adhesive tape in horizontal bands around the middle and bottom portions of the carton.

Melt the wax

4. Cut or break 1-1/2 pounds of wax in small sized chunks and place in the top of the double boiler. Add candle dye if desired.

Insert the wick

5. While wax is melting, turn the carton over and make a small hole with the point of a knife in the exact center of the bottom. The hole should be small — only large enough to barely admit wick.

6. Tie a knot near one end of the wick. Thread the wick through the bottom and pull it through until the knot is drawn up tight against the outside carton bottom. (To be sure wax won't flow through, put a small piece of tape over the knot and hole.)

7. Cut notches in the center of opposite sides of the carton top. Rest the wooden match in the slots and drape the wick over it. Then slip rubber band over the carton and over the wick to hold in place.

Pour the wax

8. When wax is completely melted, remove from top of double boiler and allow it to cool until it develops a very thin scum on top. (If you pour the wax when it is too hot, the carton will come apart.)

9. To help prevent leaks through the bottom, pour about 1/4-inch of wax in the bottom of the container and let cool somewhat. Then slowly pour the balance of the wax needed into the carton until it reaches about 1/4-inch from the top. Let cool.

10. Puncture the top of candle with a pencil to relieve the vacuum that develops after the thick shell has formed on top of the candle and a depression has formed in the center. Reheat remainder of wax in double boiler and when wax is hot, fill the candle. (This may have to be done several times until only a small "cup" is left around the base of the wick at the top of the candle.) Stop about 1/8-inch below the original fill line. Let cool 12 to 24 hours.

Finish the candle

11. Cut off the knot at the bottom of the candle with a sharp knife. Free the wick from the rubber band and cut it off about 3/4-inch from the top.

12. Carefully peel off the milk carton — and you have a homemade holiday candle!

NOTE: Don't handle the finished candle with your bare hands as the oil from your fingers may stay on the candle. Instead, hold the candle by the wick in one hand while the other hand supports the bottom of the candle.

To make it truly a handmade craft, decorate and personalize with festive trimmings. Spray with glitter cement and sprinkle on iridescent crystalines in gold or green. If you're lucky, your candle will look so good you won't want to burn it!

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

No. Stop. Slow down. Hold up. Wait just a cotton-pickin' minute here.

Or, to borrow an expression from round-headed cartoon boy Charlie Brown: "Aaauuuuggggghhhh!"

I don't want to stop the world and get off. But could I just ease off to the side a minute to catch my breath, please?

Suddenly, we're being emotionally assaulted, mentally knocked off our feet, swept along by the tide and thrown headlong into a season many of us just aren't ready for. Again.

Halloween decorations were turning up in stores in late August, just as the fall pumpkin harvest was about to get underway. By mid-September, jingly-bell sounds and Christmas reds and greens were already fighting for shelf space with Thanksgiving-turkey napkins and cornucopias overflowing with plastic veggies. Santas set up shop in the malls days and days before last week's traditional mega-shopping Black Friday.

On the day before Thanksgiving, to this farmhouse came the rush-the-season proverbial last straw. The first 1994 spring-planting seed catalog arrived in our mailbox.

Aaauuuuggggghhhh!

This gardener is definitely not in a mindset of thinking about spring garden seeds.

Despite several sub-freezing mornings with heavy frost whitening the meadow, the most durable chrysanthemum blooms ruggedly cling to deep-maroon-colored life in the flower borders. Our last rose of summer — a pink one from our giant, razor-thorned, hat-snatching climber — was finally put to rest last week.

A few tiny cauliflower heads in the vegetable garden remain crisp and fresh, snugly wrapped in their leaves. Overside redbeets are fat and firm. Two stalks of horseradish root grow thick, lush top-growth. And better garden planners than I continue harvests of celery and turnpis, carrots and spinach.

Even as I write, I remember a semi-hardy trailing vine that needs to be repotted from an outside planter and moved to the greenhouse before single-digit temperatures arrive.

Piles of golden maple leaves cluster in corners of the yard, against fences and in sheltered spots around the buildings. The bulk of the leaf fallout piled up on the grass was chopped with the lawn mower and hauled to the fields with the front-end loader bucket. The dog and cats love to curl up in the soft, insulating leaf collections remaining in sheltered corners.

And the dead, dried stems of late-growing weeds linger beside frozen lumps of well-aged tomatoes, prodding my conscience over unfinished garden chores. Now is the time to let it rest and compost down to organically replenish the soil. Gardens and gardeners are ready for a pause.

Instead, now is the time to enjoy the seasonal scent of simmering cinnamon sticks and spicy bayberry candles. To hang a red-ribboned wreath on the door and fill baskets with pine cones and shiny red balls. To carry armfuls of fragrant pine and cedar boughs inside and drape them with sparkly tinsel. To bake buttery cookies and moist fruitcakes.

In these few busy weeks before the holiday, it is time to remember distant friends and loved ones with cards and notes. To read a seasonal story to a child and hang an Advent calendar. To celebrate the Christmas season. Now, not three months ago.

At the risk of sounding Scrooge-like, perhaps the postal service could — please — just temporarily misplace spring seed catalogs under the mountains of holiday mail.

And drop them in our boxes when we really need them — like when the stores roll out their bikini displays in January.

Farm Workers Should Protect Their Hearing

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Many farmers have something in common with many rock musicians: hearing damage. Farmers should take steps to protect their hearing before it's too late, says a safety expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Loud rock music averages about 115 decibels," says Dr. Dennis Murphy, professor of agricultural and biological engineering. "Farm noise ranges between90 and 140 decibels, well above the 85-decibel limit at which industrial employers are mandated to provide hearing protection for workers."

Consistent, repeated exposure to such volumes can damage hearing before you notice any change, Murphy warns. "You may even think you're getting used to the noise, but it's more likely that you've already acquired a mild hearing loss."

Hearing loss has warning signs, however. "Ringing, buzzing or whirring in your ears may indicate temporary hearing loss," says Murphy. "If you listen to the radio or television at a volume uncomfortable to others, you may have some damage. Frequently asking people to speak up also may indicate hearing loss."

How can you tell if you need noise protection? "If you need to shout to be heard three feet away, the noise is too loud," Murphy sais. "Reduce the noise level or wear hearing protection. Protecting your hearing today can save you a lot of misery tomorrow."

Even though surveys show farmers recognize the hazards of excessive noise, they rarely use hearing protection. "Some farmers believe that ear protection is inconvenient, unhandy or too time-consuming," Murphy sais. "It may take some getting used to, but the benefits far outweigh any inconvenience."

Noise protection devices come in two basic forms - muffs that fit over the years and plugs that fit inside. On average, these devices reduce noise volume by about 25 decibels. They are available from health and safety catalogs, drug and sporting goods stores or through licensed audiologists.

When choosing hearing protection, consider cost, comfort and effectiveness. "Muffs are comfortable for longer wearing times but are not effective when obstructed by glasses or hats," Murphy says. "Hearing plugs are less noticeable than muffs and are small enough to fit in a pocket."

Disposable ear plus may cost less than $1. Muffs cost from $5 to $80. "Disposable plugs are convenient, but can become expensive if used regularly," he says. "Reusable plugs or muffs are a better choice for frequent wearers."

Activities such as shooting guns, listening to loud music or attending loud concerts and sporting events also can damage your hearing.

Agri-Women Stand For Property Rights, Install President

CHICAGO, Illinois — Members of American Agri-Women (AAW) from throughout the United States addressed key issues in agriculture and installed new executive officers during the 18th annual AAW National Convention November 10-14. Key issues addressed included a broad range of environmental, property rights, economic and health care issues.

Attending the convention were Pat Sueck, Airville, Barbara Grumbine, Lebanon; Carol Ann Gregg, Grove City; Gail and Sarah McPherson, New Park representing Penn's Agri-Women. PAW's President Pat Sueck represented the state on the AAW Board of Directors and was appointed to the Veritas Committee who will be searching for a 1994 award winner whose print or media projects seek to bring truth to the public on agricultural issues. Carol Ann Gregg is AAW's legislative chairman in charge of the AAW Fly-In to Washington, DC each June. It's a time to bring AAW policy to the attention of Congressional legislators. Bylaw chairman Gail McPherson introduced changes which raised the organization's dues. She also received a President's Award at the closing banquet.

AAW's newly installed president, Ardath DeWall, stated, "We are very concerned about the erosion of private property rights and the myriad of regulations which restrict the individual's right to use his property and undermine the wise use of natural resources." Specifically, AAW is seeking changes in the reauthorization of the Endangered Species Act which would provide for the consideration of people, as well as plants and animals, in limiting activities and property use. DeWall said, "We need to weigh the effects on people, their families, homes, communities and livelihoods when making decisions about protecting endangered species. When protecting the habitat of a particular species would destroy jobs and communities, the people affected need to be part of the decision."

In other actions, AAW is supporting legislation which requires that federal agencies assess the potential for "taking" private property in the course of regulatory activity, with the goal of minimizing takings of private property. AAW is opposing allowing Biological Survey takers to enter private property without permission.

The agricultural women's organization is seeking legislation to enable retiring farmers to convert farm assets to an individual retirement account, since their assets generally are in effect their retirement "savings". Concerning, the proposed reorganization of USDA, AAW is supporting the creation of a farm services administration to provide local service centers and "one-stop shopping" for producers. AAW supports retaining the current farmer-elected county committee structure and maintaining ASCS conservation programs in the farm services administration.

DeWall, of Shannon, Illinois, has become AAW's 10th president. She and husband Verlo and their two sons operate a dairy farm and have a registered Holstein herd in Northern Illinois. She has served the dairy industry in a number of leadership capacities, including as an initial member of the Dairy Research and Promotion Board and president of AMPI/ Morning Glory Region Women. She was also the first president of the Farm Women's Leadership Network.

DeWall succeeds Trenna Grabowski, Dubois, Illinois, who has served as president during the past two years. American Agri-Women is the nation's largest coalition of farm, ranch and agribusiness women. At this convention, AAW welcomed two new affiliate organizations, bringing the total to 50 state and commodity affiliates. AMPI Women, a dairy women's affiliate of AAW, hosted the 1993 Convention. For more information about AAW, contact President Ardath DeWall, 11841 N. Mt. Vernon Road, Shannon, IL, 61078, 815-864-2561.

Write Your Biography

(NAPS) — Have you ever wanted a personal biography of your grandparents' lives? Could your children and grandchildren learn and benefit from your own life experiences?

You may think you'll never be famous enough to have a book written about yourself — but you can now have your own personal biography professionally published without spending the thousands of dollars one might expect. As a result, future generations can know all about you, your life and times, and, as the years go by, you can look back on your own past.

A Raleigh, North Carolina company has come up with a way to help you produce your very own professionally edited, high-quality personal biography at a cost nearly everyone can afford. The Lifescapes Personal Biography System™ has been designed to help you easily collect, organize and document excerpts from your life experiences for professional publication.

Participants embark on an exciting two-week program that allows easy and methodical composition of the author's major life events, philosophies and lessons learned. This is accomplished using either easy-to-complete topic form sheets or a simple software program. Low-Fat Low-Cost Gifts

Holiday gift giving can be a drain on the brain as well as the pocketbook, and your gift can still wind up in the back of a loved one's closet. But while not everyone may want a certain gizmo, knickknack or extra scarf, everybody does have to eat.

As one who follows heart healthy eating guidelines, I do not recommend plum puddings and chocolate creams, but fortunately there are other gifts that are fun to receive, good for your health, and easy on the budget. Here are my suggestions, and the reasons why they make nutritional sense.

A large body of scientific evidence supports the merits of cutting back on fat in our diets and stocking up on carbohydrates. Why not give an assortment of interesting dried pastas, arranged in a basket or tied with a vivid ribbon.

Few people are familiar with the subtle differences in rice, which can also serve as the basis of low-fat meals. Assemble a basket of rice from around the world — Indian, Japanese, Basmati, Italian risotto, and even wild rice (technically not rice at all, but actually a grass rather than a grain). You could include a favorite recipe or cookbook on rice.

While we are advised to cut back on fat, there are times when a little goes a long way in adding flavor. Such is the case with olive oil, which contains monounsaturated fat. Numerous brands are available in supermarkets and specialty stores. A large, attractive bottle or can makes an excellent gift, and you could add a bottle of balsamic, garlic, raspberry or tarragon vinegar.

And speaking of flavor, as we learn to do with less salt — another healthful recommendation — other seasonings become more important. Nothing adds zest like fresh herbs, so for a friend with a green thumb and a little outdoor space, consider giving a gift certificate toward the purchase of herbs to be planted next spring. A certificate from a local nursery could be taped to a small gardening tool or slipped inside a gardening glove. Many people think of growing their own herbs but don't get around to it; your present could be the gentle nudge they need.

Another gift pleasing to most cooks would be a rope of garlic or chili peppers to hang in the kitchen, serving both as decoration and as a ready supply of piquant flavor in low-fat dishes.

To further encourage low-fat eating, some kitchen gadgets help cut down on labor as well as boost flavor. Examples are a lemon zester, apple corer, nutmeg grater or knife for cutting vegetables into serrated shapes. It's surprising what a difference such small tools can make in easing kitchen tasks.

Time To Bake Christmas Cookies

Tradition is intertwined with the holidays, and baking favorite holiday goodies is often part of that tradition. The simple act of mixing sugar, butter, and flour with other ingredients to create a special cookie is a seasonal ritual that many of us look forward to.

If you don't have a baking tradition in your home, it's time to start one. Time spent together in the kitchen is the perfect setting to pass along your thoughts about the meaning of the holiday season and to share some family history. It's a good time for strengthening family ties and building traditions that you and your children can look forward to each year.

FAVORITE CHRISTMAS COOKIES

Basic Dough:

1 cup butter, softened
1½ cups confectioners' sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
2¼ cups flour

English Toffee Bars:

Heat oven 375 degrees. Grease 13x9x2-inch pan. To one half basic dough, mix ½ cup brown sugar. Dough will be crumbly. Pat firmly and evenly into prepared pan. Bake 15 minutes or until no imprint remains when lightly touched with finger. Remove from oven, immediately sprinkle ½ cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces evenly over pan so contained heat will soften chocolate pieces. Spread softened chocolate evenly over crust; sprinkle with ½ cup chopped nuts. While warm, cut into 1½ -inch diamond shapes. Makes about 2½ dozen.

Greek Clove Crescents:

Heat oven 375 degrees. To one half basic dough, mix ½ teaspoon brandy flavoring. Shape dough by rounded teaspoonfuls into balls and crescents. Press whole clove into center of each. Bake on ungreased baking sheet 10 to 12 minutes or until set but not browned. Cool. Dust with confectioners' sugar. Makes about 3 dozen.

VIENNESE ALMOND WAFERS

Cream:

½ cup butter
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon almond extract
⅓ cup sugar

Add:

¾ cup flour

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Chill dough and roll out on floured cloth to 9x13-inch square and place on unbuttered cookie sheet. Beat 1 egg white until foamy. Brush egg white over dough.

Sprinkle with ¾ cup sliced blanched almonds and press down with fingertips. Brush again with egg white. Sprinkle with almond sugar. 2-3 hours before baking, mix ½ cup sugar and enough almond extract to dampen sugar completely. (Keep stirring until time to sprinkle on cookies).

Bake until lightly browned. Cut into squares and cool. Cookies are fragile but good!

Contributor writes that she usually triples this recipe so that she has lots of them.

CREAM CHEESE BROWNIES

Brownie layer:

4 ounces sweet chocolate
¼ cup butter
¾ cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup flour
½ cup chopped nuts, optional

Cream Cheese Layer:

4 ounces cream cheese, softened
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
1 tablespoon flour

Preheat oven to 350. Melt chocolate and butter in a sauce pan over very low heat. Stir until chocolate is completely melted. Stir sugar into melted chocolate mixture. Stir in eggs and vanilla until completely mixed. Mix in flour and nuts. Spread in a greased 8-inch square pan.

In the same bowl, mix cream cheese, sugar, egg, and flour until smooth. Spoon over brownie mixture and swirl with knife.

Bake for 35 minutes. Do not overbake. Cool in pan. Cut into squares.

Start a family tradition this holiday season and bake together. Versatile Butter Almond Cookies are equally delicious eaten plan or decorated. Kids of all ages will love cutting the shapes, decorating — and most of all — eating them!

BUTTER ALMOND COOKIES

2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder
1 cup butter, softened
1 cup sugar
2 egg yolks
1½ teaspoons almond extract
1 cup finely ground blanched almonds

Colored sugar or sprinkles, if desired

Decorator icing or gel, if desired

Combine flour, salt, and baking powder; set aside. Cream butter and sugar in large mixer bowl until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks and almond extract. Add half of flour mixture mixture; blend well. Add remaining flour mixture; blend well. Stir in ground almonds. Divide dough into two portions; wrap each in plastic wrap. Refrigerate 2 hours or until completely chilled. Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Roll dough on lightly floured surface to 3/8-inch thickness. Cut into desired shapes with cookie cutters dipped in flour. Reroll scraps; chill if necessary for ease in handling. Place 2 inches apart on unbuttered cookie sheets. If desired, sprinkle with colored sugar before baking. Bake 12 to 15 minutes or just until cookies begin to brown around edges. Transfer cookies to wire racks; cool completely. Decorate as desired.

In England, taking time out to enjoy tea and biscuits is part of everyday life. But you don't have to be in the United Kingdom to make an afternoon cookie break part of your day. English Oat Biscuit-Cookies, made with much less fat, are an updated version of a traditional favorite. They make a great-tasting treat, perfect for dipping in hot tea or coffee.

Most of the fat has been replaced in these usually rich and buttery cookies with an easy-to-make puree of prunes and water. This afternoon snack or light dessert tastes good but won't leave you feeling guilty. Learn how to prune the fat by 70 to 95% in a variety of baked goods from chocolate chip cookies to fudgy brownies by writing by: Prune the Fat/M, P.O. Box 10157, Pleasanton, CA 94588.

English Oat Biscuit-Cookies

½ cup pitted prunes
2 tablespoons water
3 tablespoons margarine or butter, softened
1 cup packed light brown sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
1 tablespoon orange juice
1¼ cups all-purpose flour
¾ cup rolled oats
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. In container of electric blender measure prunes and water. Pluse on and off until prunes are pureed. In large bowl beat prune puree, margarine and sugar until thouroughly blended. Beat in egg, orange peel and juice. Mix in flour, oats, cinnamon and salt just to blend thoroughly. Coat 2 baking sheets with vegetable cooking spray. On lightly floured surface roll dough out to ¼ inch thickness. Cut into rounds with 2½ - to 3-inch cutter. Place 1 inch apart on baking sheets. Bake in center of oven about 10 minutes until bottoms are lightly browned. Remove to rack to cool completely. Store in airtight container. Serve with tea, coffee, milk or fruit juice. Makes about 24 biscuits.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 9

The Lancaster County Society of Farm Women met in the home of Barbara Becker. Prior to the business session, members enjoyed some social time and delicious refreshments served by Barbara Decker and Margaret Bucher.

Roll call was answered by members naming their favorite childhood author. Nineteen members and one guest attended.

During committee reports, Margaret Bucher reviewed the bus trip plans to see the "Spirit of America" play on June 17.

Ann Landis for social committee stated the table favors for State convention had been made.

Mary Clark had been visited several times by Sarah Weber of Sunshine Committee.

Martha Jane Brubaker stated the next breakfast is scheduled for December the 11th at 9 a.m. at Chimney Corner.

Marion Fuhrman reminded members the next meeting for member sof Society 1 will be on December 4 and will be held in the St. Paul Lutheran Church, Lititz Pk. Time for meeting is changed from 1:30 PM to 2 PM. The Bell Choir of the Saint Paul Lutheran Church will provide the program with Daryl Hollinger director of the choir.

The president announced the following new officers for next year. Secretary, Barbara Becker; news reporter, Julin Zahn; Harriet Fasnacht, correspondent secretary, will serve another term.

President Garman noted that $3675 was collected for Christ Church, the 1993 county project. The funds will be used to buy milk and help pay fuel bills.

The following members will be delegates to the State Farm Women's Convention in Harrisburg; Viola Wolf, Julin Lahn and Ann Landis. There will be a fashion show during the evening program.

Members provided the program for todays meeting by sharing a paragraph, a reading or a poem and members were entertained with a wide variety of enjoyable selections.

Visit Australia With Friendship Force

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster Friendship Force Club is offering a unique travel opportunity in 1994 to visit the land of the koala bears and kangaroos. Ambassadors will fly from Harrisburg International Airport on March 8 and return on March 26 after two weeks of home hosting in Australia.

Home hosting will begin in Beenleigh, a town near Queensland's capital city of Brisbane and not far from the "Gold Coast" (Australia's southern Forida). The region contains many museums and recreational areas. For the second week's homestay, the Friendship Force Ambassadors will travel to Casterton, a farming town of 2,500 people in southwest Victoria about mid-way between Melbourne and Adelaide. Not far away, along the coast of the Southern (Indian) Ocean is some of the most spectacular scenery in Australia. Finally there will be two nights' hotel stay in Sydney with a harbor cruise, city sightseeing tour, and some free time before returning to the U.S. The cost of the trip is approximately $2,500, including most of the expenses within Australia. Also, a one-week tour of the Outback may be available at an additional cost.

The Friendship Force has been offering international cultural opportunities for 16 years to bring people together in the name of friendship through citizen homestay programs. Its motto is "A world of friends is a world of peace." By living in homes, ordinary citizens come to understand each other's cultures and break down the barriers that separate people.

The exchange director for the Australia exchange is Len Cherry, 546 State, Lancaster, PA 17603, phone (717) 394-1949. Please get in touch with him for more detailed information and application forms.

Lancaster Society 8

Lancaster Society of Farm Women No. 8 met on November 10 at Reich's Church in Marietta. Anna Mae Derr gave devotions Rhoda Kauffman, a former missionary working in India, Pakistan, and Bangladesh showed slides taken during her stay in those areas which were very interesting and informative. The December 8 meeting will be at the home of Vernetta Wallander in Maytown at 1:30. Members will have cookie exchange each bringing 2 dozen cookies. In addition, members are to bring a gift to play "Now You Have It."

Berks Society 3

Ten members of Group 3 of the Berks County Society of Farm Women held a cookie exchange following the November meeting at the home of Mayetta Shane, Valley Road, Boyertown.

Christmas donations were made to the Hamburg Center, the Soup Kitchen of the Central Park United Methodist Church, Reading, and the Boyertown Chapter of the Salvation Army. A donation was also made to Grace and Norman Bare, Sinking Spring, who suffered the loss of their barn in a fire.

The Christmas banquet will be Tuesday, December 28, at the Yellow House Hotel. Secret pals will be revealed and installation of new officers will take place at the banquet.

The State Convention of the Pennsylvania Society of Farm Women will be held on Monday, January 10, 1994, in Harrisburg.

York Society 26

York County Farm Women 26 met at Two Brothers Restaurant on November 9 for luncheon and the monthly meeting. There were 19 members and 1 guest present.

Dail Owens from Hospice of Central Pennsylvania from Enola was guest speaker.

The annual Christmas banquet will be December 4 at the Iron Kettle in Camp Hill.

The next meeting will be on December 14 at Two Brothers Restaurant. There will be an exchange of christmas gifts. President Ruth Traver will serve as hostess.

QUESTION — Sheryl Wolfe, Wellsboro, wants a peanut bread recipe made without yeast.

QUESTION — Brenda Bradish, Latrobe, would like a cookie recipe for peanut butter logs. The inside of the cookie tastes like Zagnut candy bars and is rolled in either nuts or coconut.

QUESTION — Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.Va., would like recipes for low-fat sauces, vegetables, noodles, and lean meats — but not for seafood. She writes that she had gallons of cod liver oil as a child (long before the nice little pills that kids eat now) so therefore she doesn't like fish. She doesn't like apple butter either since she had to take a spoonful of apple butter with a spoonful of the cod liver oil.

QUESTION — Carole Nace, Mifflintown, would like a recipe for chocolate trifle.

QUESTION — Barbara Abrell, Winchester, Va., would like a recipe for Amish Macaroni Salad.

QUESTION — Bette Lawrence, Honesdale, would like a recipe for pear jam or pear jelly that uses green tomatoes as an ingredient.

QUESTION — D. Shultz would like a recipe for Rivvel Cake, a cake made to dunk in coffee.

QUESTION — Samuel Musumeci, Woodstown, N.J., has a non-cooking question, which he hopes readers can answer. He would like to know where to purchase coal to use in an old forge.

QUESTION — Roma Leibensperger, Germansville, and Rose Futrell, Cape May, N.J. would like recipes for pumpkin cheese cake. Rose writes that a recipe was printed about 2 years ago that her family loved, but she lost the recipe. Ingredients included a little cognac and a thin white cream on top. Did anyone clip the recipe?

QUESTION — Amy Snyder, Gettysburg, would like instructions for making candles using paraffin wax, Ivory snowflakes, and ice cubes.

QUESTION — J. Waring Stinchcomb, Suitland, Md., would like a recipe to make sweetened condensed milk.

QUESTION — Mrs. Michael Martin, Maugansville, Md., would like a tomato soup recipe similar to Campbell's but using home canned tomatoes.

QUESTION — A Chambersburg reader would like recipes for bread-making machines. She has a Hitachi. She writes that the only way that she can get good bread is by using less water and extral flour. She's tried many recipes from different bread-making books. She finds that rapid-bake produces a much higher loaf. She cannot get a cinnamon-raisin bread to rise more than one-half no matter what she does. She would like any hints that can help in machine bread baking.

QUESTION — A reader would like to know the rationale for needing to scald milk when a recipe says scald and cool.

QUESTION — A Chambersburg reader would like a recipe for hard candy made with honey.

ANSWER — Carla Harman, Nescopeck, wanted recipes using chestnuts, especially for chestnut stuffing, and what is the best way to remove the shells? Thanks to Josephine Matenus, Dallas, who sent a chestnut stuffing recipe, and to an anonymous reader for sending another one with directions for removing shells.

Chestnut Time

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. To peel 1 pound fresh chestnuts, preheat oven to 425 degrees. Score an X on flat end of outer shells with sharp knife. Place chestnuts on jelly-roll pan. Roast 45 minutes. Wrap in towels to keep warm. Peel off outer shells and skins; chop coarsely.

Meanwhile, cook 4 slices thick-cut bacon in skillet over medium-high heat until crisp, 3 to 4 minutes; drain. Pour off all but 1 tablespoon drippings from pan. Melt ½ cup butter in same pan over medium heat. Add 1½ cups coarsely chopped celery, 1 cup finely chopped onions, and 1 cup diced, unpeeled cooking apple. Cook until slightly softened, 3 to 5 minutes. Add 1½ cups chicken broth, the chestnuts, 1 cup pitted prunes, chopped, ½ cup dried apricots, chopped, 1 teaspoon each salt, sage, and thyme and ½ teaspoon pepper. Cook, stirring occasionally, 3 minutes. Remove from heat. Crumble bacon and add to skillet with ¼ teaspoon chopped fresh parsley and 8 cups unseasoned bread-cube stuffing mix. Spoon stuffing into turkey cavity and roast. Makes 12 cups.

Chestnut Stuffing For Poultry

1 quart chestnuts
1 tablespoon butter
2 cups soft bread crumbs
¼ cup shortening, butter, or chicken fat, melted
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons poultry seasoning
1 egg, well beaten
½ cup chopped celery

Make a gash in each chestnut. Place in heavy skillet with the 1 tablespoon shortening and shake over low heat for a few minutes. Place in 450 degree oven for about 10 minutes.

Remove shells and skins with a knife. Cover the blanched chestnuts with boiling salted water and cook until tender. Drain and put chestnuts through a ricer; add the remaining ingredients and mix stuffing lightly but thoroughly. Enough stuffing to fill a 6 to 8-pound bird.

ANSWER — Virginia Kalp, Stahlstown, wanted a recipe for rice pilaf. Thanks to Josephine Matenus, Dallas, for sending a recipe.

Rice Pilaff

½ pound butter
1 large onion, peeled, chopped
2 cloves garlic, peeled, chopped
12 black peppercorns
12 whole cloves
12 whole cardamon seeds
2 3-inch cinnamon sticks
½ teaspoon whole allspice
1 pound long-grain rice, washed, drained
1½ teaspoons salt
Boiling water
1 cup white raisins, washed, drained
½ cup pignolia or pistachio nuts
Chopped scallions for garnish
Toasted almonds

Melt butter in 2-quart saucepan with tightly fitting cover. Saute onions and garlic until golden. Tie all spices in cheese cloth bag. Add to saucepan. Continue to cook onions and garlic with spices about 5 minutes longer. Remove bag and garlic. Add rice to saucepan. Saute until golden; add salt and boiling water to cover rice by about 2 inches. Add spice bag again to pan. Cover saucepan and cook rice until all water has been absorbed. Watch rice carefully. Toss with spatula or fork occasionally. When nearly done, remove spice bag and discard. Add raisins and nuts. Cover pan again and continue to cook a few minutes. Heap pilaff on hot serving dish. Garnish with mounds of sliced scallions and toasted almonds. Makes 6 servings.

ANSWER — S. Smith, Lebanon, wanted recipes for making cheese with goat's milk. Thanks to Josephine Matenus, Dallas, for sending recipes.

Goat Milk Smierkase Cottage Cheese

Use a large enamel pan with a lid for making cheese. Be sure to sanitize it by using diluted chlorine bleach and a through rinsing by boiling water in it. Do not use metal pan.

Warm 1 gallon goat's milk to 72 degrees. Stir in 4 ounces mesophilic cheese starter culture or commercial buttermilk works equally well and gives a nice flavor.

Crush ¼ rennet tablet and dissolve thoroughly in ¼ cup cold water. Stir into goat milk. Rennet is needed for goat milk because it has a lower volume of solids than cow's milk. Allow the milk to set, covered, at 72 degrees, for 18 hours.

After the 18 hours are over, cut the curd into ½ -inch cubes. Allow to settle for 15 minutes. This helps release the whey.

Slowly heat the curds and whey three degrees every 5 minutes for the next 30. Now heat the curds one degree a minute until the temperature reaches 102 degrees. Keep the curds at 102 degrees for 30 minutes (take pan off heat and wrap in thick towels to hold heat). Stir occasionally to keep the curds from forming a mass. The curds will gradually become firm and lose that custardly look and feel. When no longer custardy on the inside allow to set for 5 minutes.

Pour off the whey and pour the curds into cheese cloth lined colander. Let drain for a few minutes. Can be rinsed with cool clear water if you want a less sour taste. Drain again. Place into a bowl. Break up large pieces and add several tablespoons heavy cream. Salt may be added to taste. This will keep in the refrigerator for up to a week. Makes 1¼ pounds.

ANSWER — Sheryl Wolfe, Wellsboro, wanted bread recipes without yeast. Thanks to Louise Graybeal, Rennick, W.Va., for sending one of her favorite recipes.

Essie's Corn Pone

4 cups stone ground yellow corn meal
1½ teaspoon salt
1 pint boiling water
1 pint warm water
Stir well, cover, and let stand 1 hour. Add:
1 cup sorghum molasses
1 cup flour
2 eggs
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup buttermilk

Mix thoroughly and pour into greased Dutch oven. Bake at 350 degrees for 1¼ hours. When done, turn off oven, pour 1 cup boiling water over pone. Cover and let stand in oven until water is absorbed. There is no caldron of bubbly stinking odors.

For leftovers, slice and spread with a pat of butter and brown in a skillet.

RAISIN PUFFS

1½ cups raisins
1 cup water

Boil raisins in water until water is gone. Add the following:
1 cup butter
1 teaspoon baking soda

Heat the following together and mix with the butter mixture:
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
1½ cups sugar

Add and mix by hand:
3½ cups flour
½ teaspoon salt

Chill and form into balls. Roll into cinnamon sugar mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for approximately 12 minutes. For really soft cookies, bake only 8 minutes. Makes approximately 5 dozen cookies.

BUTTERMILK COOKIES

2 cups sugar
1 cup butter
2 eggs
4½ cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1¼ cup buttermilk
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream together sugar and butter. Sift together flour, salt, and baking powder. Mix soda in ¼ cup buttermilk. Add milk and dry ingredients alternately. Bake 400 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Yield: 4 dozen cookies.

Crumbly, yet greasy cookies? Careful measuring is important for good cookies. Use nested-dry measuring cups for flour, sugar, raisins and nuts. When measuring flour, spoon flour into measuring cup and level with a straight-edged spatula. Use a glass measuring cup for liquids and check measurement at eye level.

Follow recipe carefully, including baking time and temperature.

To personalize gingerbread cookies, add cookie dough hair and raisin or chocolate chip eyes and buttons before baking. A garlic press or potato ricer works great for making dough into hair.

READING (Berks Co.) — Creating a gingerbread house may be too awesome a task for some kids. But take heart. Young ones can test the water by first building a cottage out of graham crackers.

Very young children will need a lot of adult supervision. Children in the middle elementary grades will need an adult to cut crackers to size. And young ones may need help squeezing the icing out of the pastry bag.

But no matter. The idea is to have fun and build an edible house complete with candy decorations.

"Each one may take from one to two hours to complete," says Pat Golembiewski, a professional cake maker and wedding planner of Redwood Drive, Wyomissing. The total length of time is needed because the icing glue should dry for 30 minutes or more before decorating the house.

Pat's cookie cottage designs are patterned after the cookie house designed by the Gingerbread Lady of Lancaster.

Pat says that the houses don't need to be made out of graham crackers. They also can be made out of club crackers, or even pretzel sticks for a log cabin look.

You are limited only by your imagination!

Here's what you'll need:

• A piece of cardboard covered with tin foil on which to build your house. If you want to use colored foil, make sure it is lead free.

• Graham crackers or Club crackers or pretzels

• Assorted small candies: Tootsie rolls, gum drops, spearmints, fish crackers, M&Ms, Necco wafers, Twizzlers — whatever you want to decorate your house with.

• Royal icing made from the Wilton meringue powder mix, which is available in the cake decorating sections of craft stores. (Pat says if you are going to eat the house, you should use this powder because of the threat of Salmonella poisoning if you use raw eggs.) Also, use Domino's 10X confectioner's sugar in the icing. Pat stresses a name brand because she says this one works the best. (She should know, being a professional).

Here's the recipe:

3 tablespoons meringue powder

1 pound Domino's 10X confectioner's sugar

5½ tablespoon warm water (if needed, you may add 1/2 tablespoon or more)

Follow the directions on the meringue powder box carefully. A double batch of this icing will make six houses.

To form house

Cut two whole graham crackers in half to make four house sides.

To cut them so that they don't break, place them on a clean, folded towel and use a sharp, serrated knife to saw through it. Pat emphasizes you must not press down on the cracker or it will break) just hold it gently by the sides.

Next (and this is the part for adults) cut one-fourth off two whole graham crackers to make two rectangles 3-inches long. These will be the two roof pieces. Cut two small remaining pieces into triangles. These will support the roof pieces.

Start by squeezing the icing "glue" on the board on the spot where your house will be. Pat says for best control of the icing, don't fill the bag full. Less is better.

Stand up the four sides of the house in the icing, gluing the bottom edges to the base and at the side edges (house corners), gluing generously with icing. Let them stand until the icing is hard.

Meanwhile, cut a roof. Ripple icing along all the top edges of the front and back house pieces. Place onto this icing ripple ledge the two triangle graham pieces. Put icing along the two triangle edges and one side edge of house. Place on these iced edges the one roof graham piece. Repeat, putting icing along the remaining four edges (including long center roof edge) then put the second roof piece in place.

Meanwhile, make a Christmas tree with a sugar ice cream cone. All you need is to add green food coloring to a portion of the icing. Mix it and fill another cake decorating bag. Squeeze small peaks all around the cone for a Douglas Fir look or just spread the icing in the cone and decorate with sprinkles.

Frost the roof with icing. For a snowy yard look, spread icing all around the house on top of the cardboard. Now the fun begins as you decorate your house before the icing hardens.

One imaginative thing Pat does is make fences out of cut Tootsie rolls. With the colored Tootsie rolls, she cuts them and kneads them, and molds them into bushes.

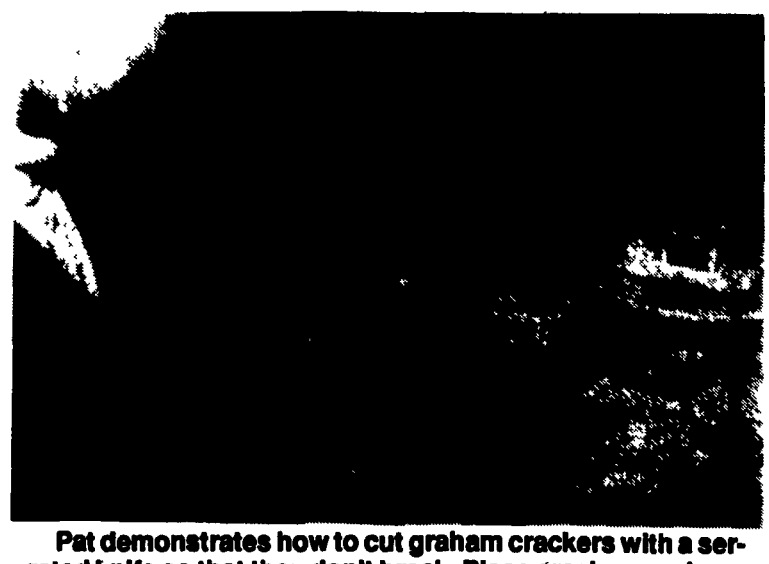
"I like to do this stuff," Pat says about her cottages and the gingerbread houses she makes every year at Christmas. "I like to create."

Roof shingles can be made with Quaker Toasted Oatmeal flakes or Necco wafers. Pat even uses Cap'n Crunch for roofing.

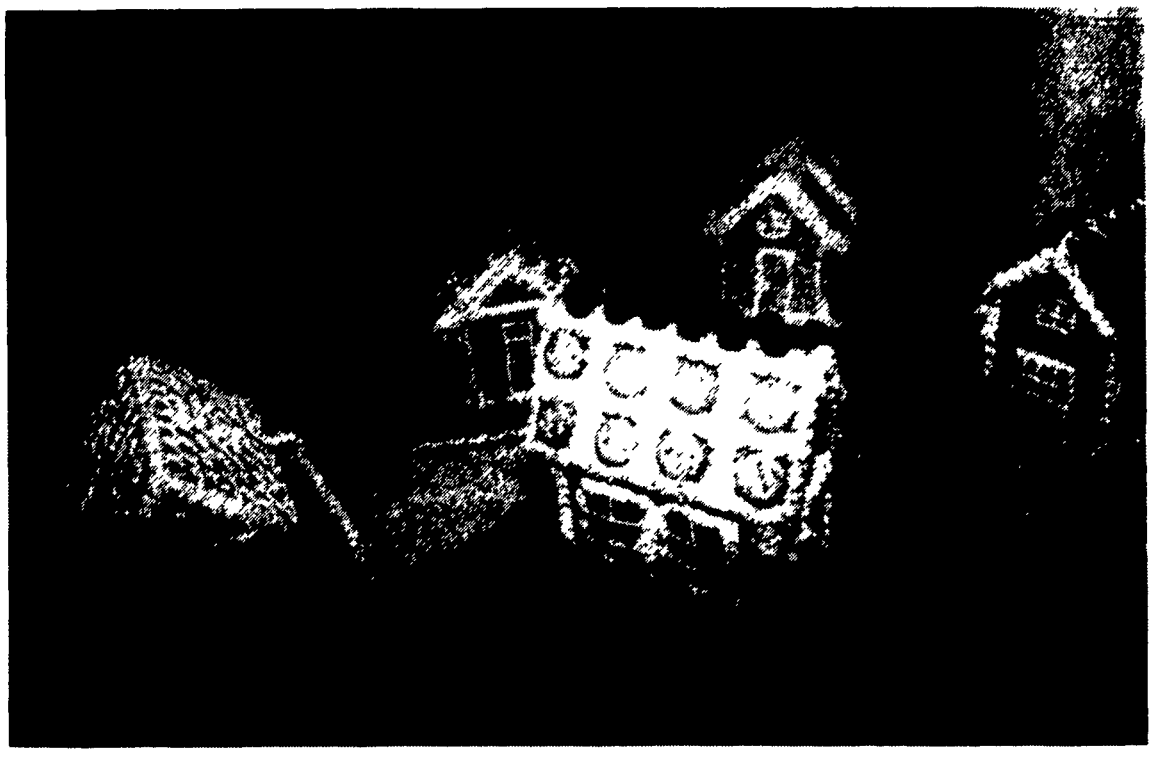
She suggests that when you aren't using the icing in the bowl or in the bag, keep it covered with a damp towel so that the icing doesn't dry out. Leftover icing can be saved in a tightly covered container at room temperature while you are ready to make the houses. Just beat it to bring it back to consistency.

If you don't want to eat your cookie house, Pat says it will keep for years if covered with plastic and stored in a dry place.

Samantha Dillman, 5, of West Lawn, prepares to build her graham cracker house with the help of professional cake maker Pat Golembiewski. First, the four walls are set up and allowed to dry for at least a half hour.

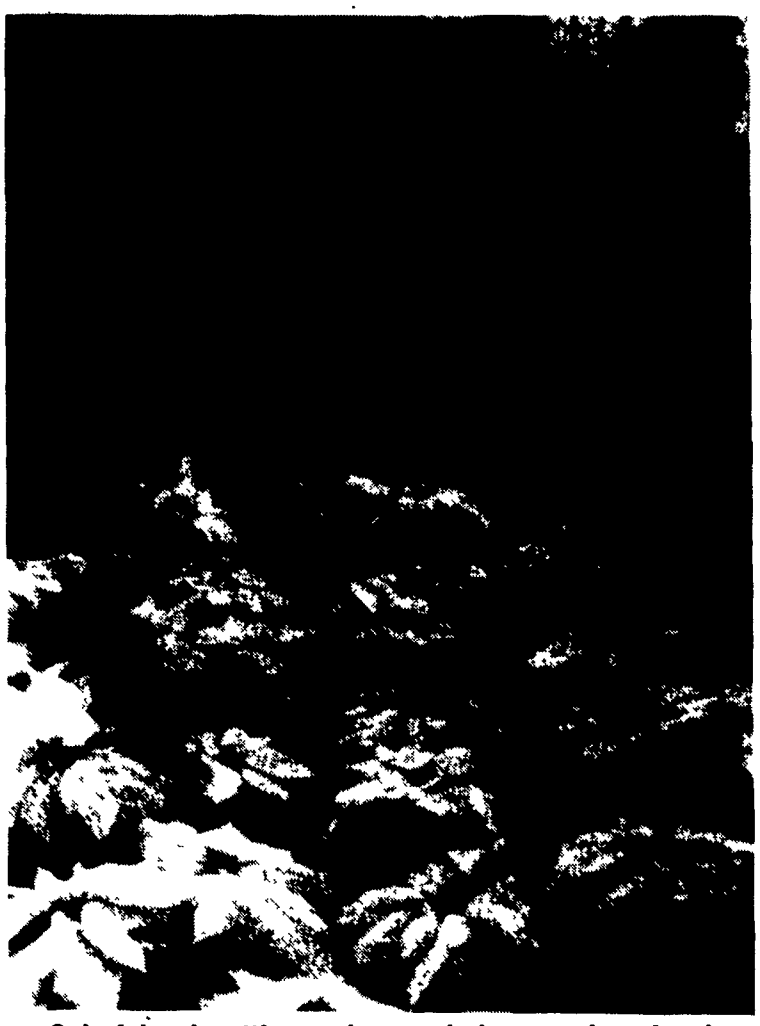


Pat demonstrates how to cut graham crackers with a serrated knife so that they don't break. Place cracker on clean, dry towel and hold gently by the edges while cutting using a sawing method.



Your creativity in designing your house is limited only by your imagination, as you can see by the variety of these cottages Pat made.

A paper cup or a sugar ice cream cone can be used to make a Christmas tree. Paper cups can be cut to whatever size you want. Coat with white or colored frosting.



Colorful poinsettias and warm indoor gardens inspire holiday cheer at Longwood Gardens, Kennett Square, PA, during the 1993 Christmas display from Thanksgiving Day through Jan. 3.

"Nature's Christmas" features adorable woodland creatures enjoying winter antics and a tree decoration competition. In the greenhouses, brilliant red, pink, and cream poinsettias surround green lawns, and hundreds of flowering bulbs fill the air with fragrance.

Daily organ sing-alongs from Nov. 26 thru Jan. 2, and evening choral concerts from Dec. 3 thru 23, are popular features. Musical fountain displays in the Open Air Theatre, along with 200,000 Christmas lights outdoors after dark, add to the enchantment.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

As time passes by a lot of things change! Not only our health but also our surroundings. Some people live in many houses in a lifetime while others like me only make one or two moves.

Our relationship with people changes too as we grow older and friends and family move away. They are replaced by others in our neighborhood who have similar interests.

We do a lot of things differently such as no longer taking steps two at a time. I don't sit on the floor either as it is too hard to get up again. Even my watch doesn't get wound every morning, as I did for years and years, as now it is battery operated. Nowadays, I wake up before the alarm clock goes off in the morning. And, there are many other things that could be mentioned.

Recently, I helped other members of our church put together a big Advent booklet. For hours we walked round and round a table picking up pages. By the end of the afternoon, I was glad to go home and sit down with the newspaper. Years ago it would not have bothered me a bit.

This year for a change, I raised a small row of celery. I'm amazed at the size of the stalks. They're much bigger than any that I ever see in the store. We protected them with newspaper, plastic and ground. I'm hoping they'll be OK till next year.

As time passed by our old apple trees in the fence rows died and the children no longer picked up bushels to make cider. Instead, Allen's two brothers in Berks County and York County make cider from their apple trees and give us some. As I said before time changes so many things in our lives and we are lucky if they change for the better.

Christmas Tree Directory Available

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Consumers should find a good supply and a wide variety of high-quality Pennsylvania-grown Christmas trees at retail outlets by Thanksgiving, Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff said today.

"Pennsylvania Christmas tree production ranks fifth in the nation," Wolff said, "and wise tree buyers know fresh-cut trees from our state are annual favorites that provide enjoyment through the Holiday Season."

"Trees cut here in Pennsylvania are freshest and most likely to hold their needles through the Holidays."

Two dozen varieties of Christmas trees are grown in Pennsylvania. Firs (Douglas, balsam, frazier, concolor) are very popular due to their superior needle retention and pleasing fragrance. Pines (Scotch, southwestern white, eastern white) also hold needles well and are often less expensive than firs.

The Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers Association is offering a free "Choose and Cut Retail Guide" for buying high-quality Pennsylvania trees. Consumers can obtain a guide by mailing a stamped, self-addressed, business-size envelope to the Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers Association, 44 Cessna Drive, Halifax, PA 17032.

Adams 4-H Capon Rounduup

The Cashtown Lions Club hosted the annual 4-H Capon Roundup with a record-setting sale. The grand champion was exhibited by Tim Shetter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Shetter, Gettysburg. The 11-pound 14-ounce capon was purchased by Bernard V. Miller, Sr. The reserve champion capon was exhibited by first-year project member Heather Stevens of Abbottstown. Heather's 11-pound 7-ounce capon was purchased by Douglas M. Miller, contractor - pole buildings, New Oxford. Heather is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rick Stevens.

Edward Miller, chairman for this year's show and sale, reported eight Adams County 4-H'ers participated in the 4-H Capon Roundup sponsored by the Cashtown Lions Club, the Adams County Poultry Association, and Adams County Cooperative Extension. Sixteen capons weighing a total of 173 pounds 6 ounces sold for $1,266.81. The average price per pound was $7.33. Miller said the profit received by these junior executives from this 4-H Capon business is sued as operation capital for next year's 4-H capon project and serves to help meet future educational expenses.

The members were judged on the Danish System by Larry Yager, multi-county extension marketing agent. The capons were evaluated on conformation, freedom from pin feathers, cuts, bruises, packaging, and dressing procedure. Members receiving blue merit ribbons for exhibiting superior quality capons were Beau Ramsburg, Eugene Hunt, Rebecca Hunt, Josh Ramsburg, and Carrie Young. Christina Winters received a red merit ribbon for exhibiting good quality capons.

Lloyd Spahr, Adams County Poultry Association president, presented the trophies to the champions. The Adams County Poultry Association purchased the trophies for roundup and purchased a capon to be donated to Green Acres for Thanksgiving.

More information on 4-H in Adams County may be obtained by contacting the Adams County Cooperative Extension Service, 1135 Chambersburg Rd., Gettysburg, PA 17325, (717) 334-6271 or (717) 624-4525.

Bucks Co. 4-H Horse Show Winners

Bucks County 4-H Horse Club members received two awards at the 34th annual State 4-H Horse Show in Harrisburg.

County winners in 4-H performance classes were Sarah Sherman of Bensalem and her horse, Penny's From Heaven, received a first place statewide in the hunter hack ponies class. Catie Whalen of Revere and her horse Snowy placed third statewide in pleasure pony driving class.

Several other Bucks County Horse Club members received recognition in the state contest. They were Jennifer Tweed, a freshman at Delaware Valley College and Autumn Hockenberry, 4-H member of the Rough Riders Horse and Pony Club, Bucks County.

Adams Co. Achievement Night

Adams County 4-H members were honored recently at the annual 4-H Achievement Night.

Special Memorial awards were presented to the following: Abe Bucher, New Oxford, received the ABC Williams Special Leadership Award; Rebecca Brown, New Oxford, received the Rose Murren Special Leadership Award; Matt Brown, Orrtanna, received the William Miller Special Leadership Award; Kristin Johnston, Gettysburg, received the Mrs. Edward Snyder Clothing Award; Abe Bucher, New Oxford, received the Robert Lott Leadership Award; Dan Ludwig, Gettysburg, received the Clue Meyerhoffer Citizenship Award; Kristin Johnston, Gettysburg, received the Lois Smith Gardening Award; Beth Green, Gettysburg, received the Olwyn Weant Fashion Revue Award; Kelly Rockafellow, Littlestown, received the Frederick Rarig Conservation Award; and Chad Funt, Arendtsville, received the Larry B. Feeser, Sr. Swine Award.

Four 4-H members were awarded the "I Dare You" Leadership Award. The award honored 4-H teens for excellence in character, balanced personal development, and leadership potential. Those who received the award were Daryll Gebhart, Orrtanna; Richard Rudolph, Hanover; Heather Hawkins, New Oxford; and Marc Scott, Gettysburg. Each recipient received a copy of William H. Danforth's book, "I Dare You." The book presentation was made by the American Youth Foundation and York Farm Credit.

Eleven-year 4-H members recognized were Mandy Hilbert, Littlestown; Mike Linebaugh, New Oxford, Korrie Livelsberger, Gettysburg; Dan Ludwig, Gettysburg; Mary Ann Scamack, Gettysburg; and Doug Meckley, Abbottstown. Retiring 4-H members recognized were Erica Young, Biglerville; Laura Giardullo, York Springs; Belle Gabrielson, Abbottstown; Beth Hawkins, New Oxford; and Melissa Wenger, Littlestown.

Ten-year 4-H members recognized were Missy Becker, Abbottstown; Abe Bucher, New Oxford; Emily Eckert, New Oxford; Travis Green, Gettysburg; Rachael Millar, New Oxford; Stan Reever, Wellsville; and Karen Turner, Gettysburg.

4-H members also received recognition in specific 4-H National Award Program areas. The award was based upon the member's comprehensive record of activites in 4-H and their excellence within the specific program area.

Marilyn Gehman, left, and Karen Reitnouer discuss plans for the Country Road Candelight Tour. The Reitnouers' two-story sandstone home is featured. Exposed stone walls, deep window sills, and primitive antiques add to its old-time charm.

Candlelight Tour Features Former Feed Store

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

TERRE HILL (Lancaster Co.) — Among the many holiday tours held during the Christmas season are farmhouses, summer houses, and other buildings once used for agriculture.

This year, the Terre Hill Country Road Candelight Tour will feature a former feed store that is a single-family dwelling.

Karen Reitnouer, who with her husband Todd and two children, live in the two-story sandstone home, said that the exact date the house was built is unknown.

"But it is known to be one of the oldest standing homes in the town and was built during the 1800s," she said.

The Reitnouers have a picture of the home as it appeared when it was Edward's Flour and Feed Store.

Changes have been made throughout the years. The full-length porch is no longer there, but the sandstone has been pointed. Inside the house, several stone walls have also been exposed. The woodwork trim has been painted in Williamsburg colors that accent the plain off-white walls that Karen has stenciled.

The wooden floors have been exposed or replaced. Deep windowsills offer the perfect spot to display many of the family's collectibles.

Many of the home's furnishings are antiques that the Reitnouers have purchased at sales or have been handed down through the family, such as the straw cutter, apple picker, and school desk.

Because the home has two stairways, tour participants will have

The former feed store as it appears today is the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Todd Reitnouer. Although the date the house was built remains unknown, it is considered one of the oldest homes in Terre Hill.

This picture was taken in the 1800s when the building was used as Edward's Flour and Feed Store. Later, it was used as a duplex until several years ago when it was turned into a single dwelling home.

Visit To Russian Poultry Farms Results In Cross-Cultural Friendships

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

BELGROVE (Lebanon Co.) — "We went to help Russian farmers by giving practical help, not with the intention of setting up a foreign business," said Mel Gehman.

Mel and his wife Ann, who operate Heritage Poultry Management, heeded the request that came from St. Petersburg, Russia for poultry producers to visit area poultry farms through the U.S. Friendship Force. In September, a group of eight members from the Lancaster area spent 10 days touring Russian poultry operations and offering their perspectives on making the transition to free-market enterprise.

The Gehmans enthusiastically reported on the friendships knit through this exchange. The Gehmans communicated mostly by using a Russian-American phrase book, and said that they were usually able to eventually grasp the meaning of their host family's conversations. The host family served "plenty of good food similar to Pennsylvania Dutch cooking," Mel said.

The host family's two-room apartment on an eight-story flat overlooked the Baltic Sea. The husband was an elected chief technologist of the poultry complex that had been managed by the government until this year. Now it is privatized and owned by employees who are considered shareholders. There are 300 employees for the 500,000 layers.

The poultry operation uses cages that are 13 years old and should be replaced but there is no money. The buildings were built in the 1940s. Every farm is self-contained from raising baby chicks to fowl slaughter and an egg processing plant.

"The Russian people don't like the idea of a middleman and that creates problems such as the equipment sometimes being idled because the complex processes only its own eggs.

The Russians' aversion to middlemen stems from their not being accustomed to working together in a free enterprise market.

"I don't think it is right to make money on another man's animal," the host said of an incident where one man was selling another's cow at his market stand.

The Russians asked many questions about poultry nutrition and feed. The Americans were not shown any records of how the poultry is fed in Russia, but the team determined that feed is made from different types of grains and grasses than those grown in the U.S.

Because of an inadequate supply of protein and feed, poultry production suffered a 30 to 50 percent decrease in meat and eggs this year.

Mel estimates that it takes the chickens two to three weeks longer to reach production than American-fed poultry.

"It is difficult to compare profit and loss because the finance system is so different in Russia," Mel said.

After much questioning, the team determined that the interest rate in Russia is 113 percent a year. The stockholders need to pay back the government within five years.

Overall, the Gehmans thought the chicken farm was well managed, but some team members had a different impression of the farms that they visited.

Ann said that St. Petersburg is the most westernized city in Russia and more upscale than most other areas. The city is built on 100 islands with bridges that connect the areas. The five million population lives mostly in apartment buildings that are seen for miles and miles as one travels in the area. Some single-dwelling homes, mostly built in 1920s-style, are lived in by lower-income families. The host family seemed appalled to think of wanting to live in a single-family home because they are poorly insulated and would be too expensive to heat.

The outside of the apartment buildings, or flats as they are called in Russia, are largely unkept. Because grass is cut with a scythe, the grass is long, uneven, and results in a sloppy appearance. But inside, the apartments are meticulously clean and well kept.

The Gehmans surmise that the outside appears sloppy because everyone assumes it is someone else's responsibility to keep it clean.

Pedestrians walking on the sidewalks often appeared to be sad, but the Gehmans found the people extremely friendly when spoken to.

Mel and Ann Gehman say that there trip to Russia with the Lancaster Friendship Force Poultry Exchange built strong friendships between them and their host family. Ann wears a shawl and shows the Russian nested dolls that were purchased on the St. Petersburg streets. The stands demanded fresh, crisp American dollars. Bills that were worn were handed back to the Gehmans with the protest: No good. No good. To you it may not be a problem, but to us, it is a problem. The ornamental chickens were made at the poultry complex from dyed chicken feathers.

In fact, they seemed delighted to meet Americans. Upon questioning, the host family reported that they had never been taught to despise Americans. Instead, they had been taught that American people are good people, they just have bad leaders.

Store shelves seemed to be well stocked in the stores that the Gehmans visited.

"The stores do not have a variety of brand names. It's similar to a Mom and Pop store in the states. Usually one family operates the store. Customers cannot help themselves to the items they want but must rely on a clerk to pick up the items for them," Ann said.

The host family had two cars plus a work vehicle. The host could drive but most often used a chauffer. Mel went along to park the car that was placed in one of 800 garages built together. His host had an office in the garage. Mel was puzzled by the reason for the office.

The Gehmans presented many "humantarian" gifts to the host family. A suggested gift list had been given to them before the trip. The gifts were mostly food items, cold remedies, blank cassette tapes, and peanut butter. When Mel handed a Bible to the family, the wife cried and hugged it.

The host family took the Gehmans to one of the city's large cathedrals, but the Gehmans did not stay for the service since it was spoken completely in the Russian language and the church was cold and damp. The congregation stood because there were no pews.

According to the Gehmans, the churches were not used for religious purposes from 1935 until 1989 but for swimming pools, warehouses, and offices. Now the government has restored the exteriors of many church buildings, which are large, elaborate structures.

Although most families do not live in single-family dwellings, many build summer houses near their gardens. The government gives a plot of land to each family for this purpose. These houses are almost always built by families, not professional builders. The summer houses are not insulated and do not have electric and plumbing.

While the team was in St. Petersburg, Yeltsin was fired from parliament and the Kremlin was burned.

Despite this turbulant situation, the Gehmans's host family remained calm and summed up the situation by saying, "It's a bunch of wind. The tree tops are swaying but underneath there is calm. When it is over, it will remain the same as before."

The host family also expressed that they feel the country has progressed so far to a free enterprise government that they do not foresee a return to Communism.

The trip enabled the Gehmans to see the Russian families as similar to those in the U.S.

Of all the trips that Gehmans took to countries such as British Columbia, Bermuda, and European countries, Russia is one of their favorites.

In addition to the Gehmans, participants on the tour were Sally Bair, tour leader; Frank and Ellen Baber, DeKalb Chicks; Harold Esbenshade, Shady Brae Farms; Dr. Richard Peacock, Pennfield; and Robert Zimmerman, broiler farmer.

When the Gehmans first arrived in St. Petersburg, the host family gave them flowers and called them "most welcomed guests."

In April or May, the Gehmans will have the opportunity to reciprocate the hospitality shown them because a tentative visit is scheduled for St. Petersburg poultry shareholders.

Mel and Ann began Heritage Poultry Management in 1982. Their business serves independent poultrymen with feed formulation and flock management software. The company also manages joint ownership flock contracts with investors. Previous poultry experience includes having their own flock and Mel had worked as director of producer services for R.W. Sauder and in poultry nutrition research for USDA.

Friendship Force is planning a trip to Russia next summer for those in the poultry industry. The Friendship Force was founded by Wayne Smith and former President Jimmy Carter and his wife with the belief that public relations can be improved through international friendships of people befriending people.

More information about Friendship Force and future trips can be obtained by calling Sally Bair at (717) 285-4926.

easy access to the second floor where a claw foot bathtub is still used. The bathroom has a painted hardwood floor.

Jane's Flower Shop will arrange holiday decorations.

The Country Road Candlelight Tour will be held on December 12. Tickets are $6 in advance and $7 on the day of the tour that will be held from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Proceeds will benefit the Terre Hill Timbers Project, which is a playground in the park.

For tickets, call (215) 445-4374 or 445-6264.

Other stops on the tour include:

• Terre Hill Borough Hall, the building was erected in 1882 is now restored and has an original four-sided Set face clock tower.

• Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henderson Jr. have a two-story country home with original horse hair plaster walls and ceilings. The old-fashioned kitchen has an 1800's wood stove that is used for cooking and as a source of heat for the home. Amish dolls, quaint pictures, and mason jars are some of the country touches.

• Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henderson Sr. have a house built around 1865. Unique features include a pie-shaped stairwell and pegged floor boards, old country Santa Claus and angel collections.

• Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shirk have a traditional split-level house with a fieldstone fireplace. Throughout the home are antique furnishings, toys, collectibles, and memorobilia purchased at public auctions from local families. Hunting trophies are also on display.

• Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Martin have a home built near the turn of the century. The 2½ -story home has two front doors, which is typical Lancaster County style from that period. Renovations have been made by the Martins to enhance the original architecture and to accommodate their taste for colonial furnishings and antiques. Special features include brickwork in the kitchen and a stairway hanging of a nail apron from years past, when Terre Hill Concrete Company was operated by Nelson's grandfather.

• Mr. and Mrs. Scott Burkholder live in a country-style split-level that has stained woodwork and solid pine doors throughout. The oak kitchen has wooden ceiling beams, recessed lighting, and hardwood floors. Other special features include a master bedroom with French doors, a private sundeck, and a spacious and unique bathroom.

• Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Messner live in a multi-level contemporary home with a spacious kitchen and dining room with a greenhouse window. A cathedral ceiling has a skylight atop the living room, dining room, and kitchen.

• Mr. and Mrs. Loren Martin live in a 1½ -story home that has rustic charm. The exterior features cedar siding, antique brick, and a full-front porch. The interior is designed around an open floor plan with spacious rooms. The large family room has a fireplace and vaulted ceiling with beams. Unique decorating touches include many framed hand-worked cross-stitch pieces.

• Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gable live in a 1900 white frame home. As an experienced carpenter, Carl's father built the corner cupboard in the living room, the open staircase, and installed diagonal hardwood floors. The patio attached to the barn was the original carpenter shop. For the tour, it will serve as an outdoor gift shop for Terre Hill Wares, which include Terre Hill Timbers Longaberger Baskets, Cat's Meow replicas of the Terre Hill Boro Hall, Ned Foltz Pottery, and handcrafted metals of apple trees, shepherds hooks, lamps, courting candles, yard lights, and more.

• St. Paul's United Methodist Church was rebuilt after being struck by lightning. A Rodgers pipe organ and an original wall painting of Christ and stained glass windows are part of the beautiful stone church.

Lititz Christmas Candlelight Tour

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — Upon setting foot inside various homes on the Lititz Woman's Club's Christmas Candlelight tour, the sights and sounds of the season will invigorate the senses.

In addition to being decorated for the holiday season, several of the homes on the tour will feature live musical entertainment to make the Saturday afternoon experience a complete delight.

"It's very pleasant to walk into a home and have live music playing," said Mary Ann Garrett of the Lititz Woman's Club.

Garrett has coordinated the musicians that will volunteer their time and talents to play during the tour. Although the club has had musicians play in the homes in previous years, this is the first time in several years that the club has decided to try it again.

"We decided to add music because we wanted to focus on adding another direction to enhance the whole tour experience," Garrett said.

Featured homes include:

• Cricket Hollow Bed and Breakfast, Glenn and Bernice Wagner, 240 Evans Road, Lititz.

• Michael and Anne Tait, 200 Front St., Lititz.

• Wayne Siegrist, 339 Pierson Road, Lititz.

• Max and Rosie Johnson, 311 S. Locust St., Lititz.

• Mary Haines, 116 Moravian Ave., Lititz.

• St. Luke's United Church of Christ, 222 N. Broad St., Lititz.

• Dale, Cindy, Benjamin, and Andrew Wittenberg, 510 S. Walnut St., Lititz.

• William and Gail Kendall, 11 Apple Hill Drive, Lititz.

• Jimi and Donna DeMasters, 137 Olde Field Drive, Lititz.

• Steven and Pam Weiss, 534 Koser Road, Lititz.

Tickets for the tour are available at each home the day of the event or in advance from McElroy's Pharmacy, General Sutter Inn, Lititz Community Center, Noah's Ark, Pewter Mug, or by sending a stamped, self-addressed return envelope along with a check payable to "Lititz Woman's Club" to Lititz Woman's Club, Attn. Diane Gillette, 1410 Knob Hill Drive, Lititz, 17543.

Mary Ann Garrett, Lititz Woman's Club member, practices a piece of music she will play in one of the homes on the Woman's Club's ninth annual tour of homes on Dec. 11.

Tips For A Terrific Table

(NAPS) — When the holidays arrive, entertaining takes on a special flair. No longer are simple candlesticks enough to bejewel your table. Your goal now is to make your table, and the food you present on it, as festive as the holiday season itself.

Fresh grapes can help you reach that goal. A simple cluster of fresh grapes makes an instant and tasteful garnish for almost any dish. The same cluster laid artfully at the bottom of your tried and true candlesticks with a bit of ribbon, or draped dramatically with others of its kind over the edge of a silver bowl makes a smashing centerpiece.

Another stunning idea is easily created by a mixture of things you already have on hand, plus items easily (and inexpensively) purchased at your local grocery and craft stores. Try wrapping or painting a sturdy box and arranging it with a grapevine wreath, several boughs of cedar, a ribbon tied in a bow and several clusters of naturally decorative grapes.

Or, try the caterer's decorating trick for the seasons: create Frosty Holiday Grapes. It takes just a few minutes to dip small clusters of fresh grapes into a mixture of sugar and gelatin and in no time you have both a garnish and a light dessert.

Fresh grapes are a natural for many home-crafted holiday decorations.

The reason is twofold: Not only are clusters of fresh grapes decorative in and of themselves, but most grape varieties are available during the holidays — from Thanksgiving all the way through the New Year. Whether you coat them with sugar for a plate decoration, or place them in their natural state in a centerpiece, the elegance is there, courtesy of Mother Nature.

Frosty Holiday Grapes

½ cup sugar
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
10 small California grape clusters
Water

Combine sugar and gelatin; mix well. Dip grape clusters in water; shake off excess water. Sprinkle sugar mixture through a sieve over wet grapes. Place on waxed paper about 45 minutes or until completely dry. Makes 10 edible garnishes.

PENNSYLVANIA PSEUDORABIES VACCINATION PROJECT

Paul M. Pitcher

By now, swine producers should be aware of the Pennsylvania Pseudorabies Vaccination Project. This is a cost-sharing project sponsored by the Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council that has the objective of getting all grow/finish animals on quarantined farms vaccinated against pseudorabies this winter. It is anticipated that high participation by quarantined producers in this project will decrease the spread of pseudorabies to pigs on neighboring farms.

In conjunction with the project, we are encouraging nonquarantined producers who are threatened by an infected herd in the neighborhood to booster their herds with pseudorabies vaccine. We have determined that there are about 200 swine producers who are within two miles of an infected herd and are not using pseudorabies vaccine.

Often, swine producers ask us whether pseudorabies vaccine will prevent their herd from becoming infected. According to our investigations, the answer is a resounding "Yes!" We looked at nonquarantined Pennsylvania swine herds which have been using pseudorabies vaccine and are threatened by at least one quarantined herd within two miles. We found 58 such herds. These herds were potentially exposed to area spread of pseudorabies for an average of 16 months, yet they all have remained free of the infection. Nine of these herds have had a neighbor with pseudorabies for more than two years.

We also looked at farms which became quarantined to see if they were using vaccine before they became infected. Since 1989, 157 Pennsylvania swine herds have been quarantined for pseudorabies. Only two of these herds were being vaccinated before they became infected. In one of these two cases, a "hot strain" of pseudorabies infected the grow/finish animals and signs of pneumonia were seen. The grow/finish animals had

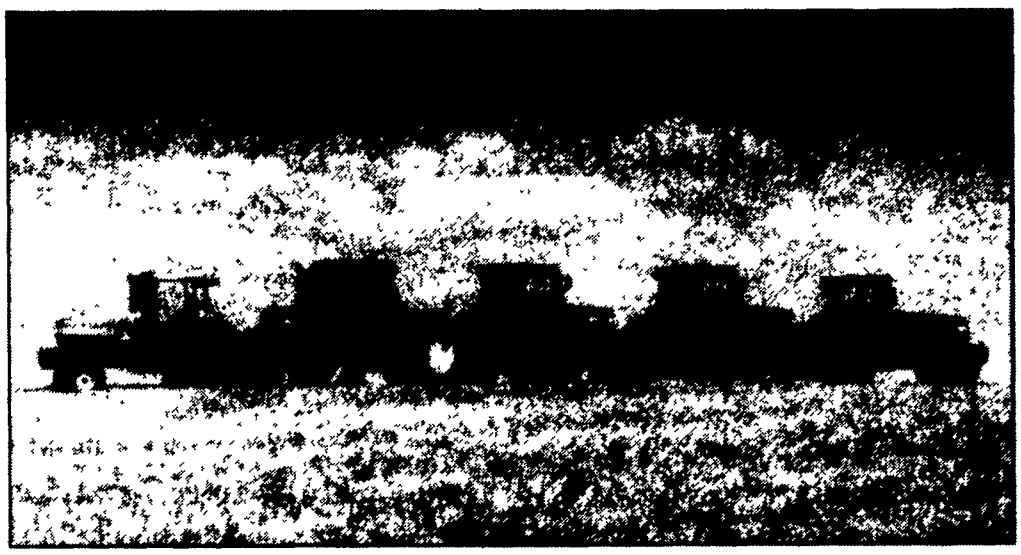
AFTER 7 YEARS OF LEADERSHIP, WHAT COMES NEXT?

INTRODUCING THE NEXT MAGNUM



Welcome to the 7200 Series of MAGNUM® tractors. ■ Five tractors so relentlessly strong, they may surpass all that you've experienced in agricultural power. Ranging from the 130 PTO horsepower 7210, all the way to the 215 PTO horsepower 7250 — the most powerful 2WD tractor in the world. Each built with a brand of durability and reliability that will exceed even the highest expectations. ■ Five tractors so fully equipped, they will surprise even the most demanding operator. With 3-pt. hitch capacities up to nearly 7½ tons. Standard 18-speed full-powershift transmissions that shift easier than ever. And the most comfortable cab we've ever manufactured. ■ Five tractors so thoroughly refined, they stand as proud testimony to all that we've learned from our customers. With the enhanced controls, improved monitor access and state-of-the-art seat that you requested. In fact, evidence of your input can be found in every aspect of these tractors. ■ The next MAGNUM. After seven years on the cutting edge of innovation, comfort and performance, we knew of only one way to go: Further.

Dairy Cattle Judges Complete Successful Season

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — In baseball, it's called "hitting for the circuit" — a single, double, triple, and home run by one player in the same game.

With a little poetic license, achievements by this year's Maryland 4-H dairy cattle judging teams could be described as "hitting for the circuit in the World Series of dairy cattle judging competition for youth."

One Maryland 4-H team placed second among 34 state teams on Sept. 28 in the National 4-H Dairy Cattle Judging Contest, held in conjunction with the World Dairy Expo at Madison, Wis. The same team was third among 15 state teams in the 4-H division on Sept. 20 during the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Cattle Judging Contest at Harrisburg, Pa.

More recently, a second Maryland 4-H team placed first among 26 state 4-H and FFA delegations on Nov. 7 in the youth division of the North American International Dairy Cattle Judging Contest at Louisville, Ky.

The "home run" punch for this year's Maryland 4-H teams came from individual performances by a quartet of teen-agers: Brian R. Schnebly, 16, of Dry Run (Washington County); April Hall, 16, of Church Hill (Queen Anne's County); Sean Johnson, 18, of Daisy (Howard County); and Kelli Savage, 17, of Petersville, a Frederick County resident with 4-H membership in Montgomery County.

Brian placed first among 58 contestants in judging both Ayrshires and Jerseys at the Harrisburg event. April topped 132 contestants for overall individual honors at Madison.

At the recent Louisville contest, Sean was high individual among 103 contestants in Holstein breed judging, Kelly Myers was first in Guernseys, and Kelli Savage captured the Ayrshire crown with a perfect score of 100 points.

Kelli's neighbor, Holly Burall, 15, also of Petersville, placed second in Ayrshire breed judging, and she was a close second in the overall individual standings.

The two young women helped propel Maryland to a first-place finish in Ayrshire judging as well as the overall team standings.

Since the Louisville group often forms the backbone of next year's Maryland 4-H dairy cattle judging team that competes at Harrisburg and Madison, Dr. J. Lee Majeskie, the team coach, is optimistic about 1994.

Majeskie has coached the Maryland 4-H dairy cattle judging teams for 12 years. He is an animal sciences specialist for the Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland at College Park. His assistants for the Louisville contest were Katharine Knowlton, a graduate research assistant at UMCP. and Amy Brown Ingram of Marriottsville (Howard County), who was the national champion 4-H dairy cattle judge in 1990.

New Categories For World Beef Expo

MADISON, Wis. — To emphasize beef's variety and versatility, new categories for the 1994 World Beef Expo Cookoff were recently announced by the Wisconsin CattleWomen, coordinators of the event.

The new categories allow different types of beef meals to be emphasized. They also allow less expensive cuts of beef, like ground beef and round steak, to compete with higher value items such as tenderloin and ribeye steaks. The five new categories are: (1) Round (utilizing steaks and roasts); (2) Chuck or Brisket; (3) Ground Beef; (4) Sirloin or Tenderloin (includes loin, ribeye, sirloin and tenderloin); and (5) Beef Soups or Beef Stews (using any cut of beef).

One finalist will be chosen from each category, who is eligible to compete in the finalist program on April 14, 1994. The World Beef Expo Cookoff is held during World Beef Expo, April 14-17, at the Dane County Exposition Center, Madison, Wisconsin.

Entry deadline for the World Beef Expo Cookoff is January 15, 1994. Entry information can be obtained by writing: World Beef Expo Cookoff Entry Information, c/o Shirley Raisbeck, 8053 Old Potosi Road, Lancaster, WI, 53813. The World Beef Expo Cookoff offers $5,800 in cash awards and is open to anyone 18 years of age or older with a non-professional status. All recipes must be able to be prepared indoors.

Springs; forestry, Kevin Green, Gettysburg; gardening, Wade Black, Aspers; horse, Shawna Ford, New Oxford; leadership, Sadie Bucher, New Oxford; poultry, Tim Shetter, Gettysburg; public speaking, Zeb Eckert, Gettysburg; recreation, Beth Plank, Gettysburg; safety, Adam Sachs, Fairfield; sheep, Heidi Miller, New Oxford; and wood science, Brad Black, Aspers.

The Seeing Eye Puppy program recognized Sophia Yelovich, Orrtanna, and Amber Day, Littlestown for their outstanding devotion to the seeing eye puppy program.

The McSherrystown 4-H Club served refreshments after the award presentations.

Organic Food — Is It Safer?

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Since the Alar scare of 1989, pesticides and other modern farming practices have been increasingly scrutinized as possible food safety hazards. Many consumers have begun to mistrust the agricultural industry and doubt the wholesomeness of their foods. Surveys have shown that consumers believe the presence of pesticide residues is the main health threat associated with fresh fruits and vegetables, and that irradiation creates more apprehension than the salmonnella it eradicates. In response to these fears, many consumers are demanding more organic foods at their markets.

The main difference between organic and conventional production methods is that organic foods are produced without the use of man-made fertilizers, pesticides, growth regulators and technologies such as antibiotics and irradiation. Conventional farming and ranching often integrate these technologies to improve food production. Both organic and conventional producers, however, use many standard methods such as crop rotation, minimum tillage and improved animal husbandry practices.

"Most organic food consumers are concerned about possible health risks associated with conventional production. Unfortunately, they don't realize that the greatest health hazard in food is microorganisms. Viruses, bacteria and molds are the primary causes of food poisoning," said Mark Bennett, director of programs for the Ag Council.

Unlike theoretical risks associated with pesticides, genetic engineering and irradiation, the dangers from microorganisms are significant.

According to the American Cancer Society, there are no documented cases of cancer caused by ingetsing pesticide residues. Microorganisms, on the other hand, are responsible for nearly six million cases of foodborne illnesses and over 9,000 deaths in the United States each year. The annual health costs of foodborne illness are staggering, estimated at $4.9 billion.

The sources of these pathogenic microorganisms vary as greatly as the illnesses they cause. Salmonella, for example, resides in animal waste, and though it occurs rarely it can cause serious problems when the waste accidentally contaminates food. Such contamination can occur when animals are slaughtered or when populations of rodents infest a crop field. Improper food handling can also lead to contamination of fresh fruits and vegetables by these animal bacteria. Other bacteria live naturally in soil and water and can survive for years, contaminating vegetables grown in such areas.

Some microorganisms are not dangerous by themselves. Rather, they produce toxic by-products in humans which can cause serious illness and death. Complications from E. coli, such as the recent outbreak in the Northwest, are a result of toxins, not the bacteria itself. Molds can contaminate vegetables with mycotoxins, especially potent toxins, and can induce vegetables to create toxins of their own that contaminate far below the surface.

If organic farming completely replaced modern farming technologies, consumers would not be any safer. For example, irrdiation is a promising technology that has proven effective in drastically reducing the number of microorganisms, while still leaving food unchanged. Without this technology and others, consumers could be exposed to greater risks from increased microorganisms which are fare more dangerous.

"This is not to say food is inherently dangerous," said Bennett. "Rather, it is to show how insignificant the health risks of pesticides, irradiation and other food production technology are when compared to the risks of naturally occurring microbes and toxins. Newer technologies enable producers to provide a first line of defense, with consumers and food handlers being the last," he continued.

The good news is that these natural risks can be managed. Proper food handling can virtually eliminate all microorganisms that slip by farmers or occur after the product leaves the farm. Pesticide residues on fresh produce, usually well below tolerance levels set by the Enivornmental Protection Agency, can be almost entirely removed with thorough washing. Irradiation and integrated pest management as well as other technologies provide promise for even safer food in the future.

The bottom line is that the decision to purchase organically produce food should not be based on safety. "This is one of the messages our FoodWatch spokespeople are taking to the consumer," stated Mark Bennett. "Through education, we hope consumers will make informed purchase decisions."

Corn, Potato, Tobacco Production Down

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania's 1993 production of corn, potatoes, Pennsylvania-type and Maryland-type tobacco are expected to be below last year based on November 1 conditions, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service.

Corn for grain production is forecast at 91.2 million bushels, 23 percent below last year. Acreage for harvest is estimated at 970,000 with an average yield of 94 bushels per acre, 26 bushels below last year's record yield of 120 bushels per acre.

Maryland-type tobacco grown in Pennsylvania is forecast at 6.7 million pounds, 5 percent below last year. Acreage for harvest is expected to be 3,500 with an average yield of 1,900 pounds per acre. Pennsylvania-type tobacco is forecast at 13.7 million pounds, 2 percent below 1992. Acreage for harvest is expected to be 6,500 with an average yield of 2,100 pounds per acre.

Potato production is forecast at 4.6 million cwt., 7 percent below a year ago. Acreage for harvest is expected to be 20,000 with an average yield of 230 cwt. per acre.

United States' corn for grain production is forecast at 6.50 billion bushels, down 7 percent from the October 1 forecast and 31 percent below the record high production of 1992. Acres for harvest is set at 63.1 million with an average yield of 103.1 bushels per acre.

Soybean production is forecast at 1.83 billion bushels, down 3 percent from October 1 and 16 percent below last year. Acres for harvest is expected to be 56.0 million with an average yield of 32.7 bushels per acre.

All tobacco production is forecast at 1.61 billion pounds, 2 percent above the October 1 forecast but 7 percent below the 1992 output. Acres for harvest is expected to be 745,140 with an average yield per acre of 2,154 pounds per acre.

Fall potato production is forecast at 372 million cwt., down 2 percent from last year but slightly larger than 1991. Acreage for harvest is expected to be 1.13 million with an average yield per acre of 330 cwt.

COMPLETE LIQUIDATION - ABSOLUTE AUCTION
SAT., DECEMBER 18th - 9:00 A.M.
PATTERN MACHINE & FOUNDRY CO.
TRENTON, NEW JERSEY Corner of Third & Schenck Streets

NOTICE: After 70 years in the machine and foundry business, the owners have decided to liquidate completely. Everything in this sale belongs to Pattern Machine & Foundry Co. and will be sold to the highest bidder regardless of price.

The Pattern Machine & Foundry Co. bldg. was built in 3-stages; but, most expansion was internal with workspace tightened up to provide room for another machine and another worker. Its location is generally in a residential area, but there is good parking nearby, along the playground out front and in its own 100'x200' lot outback. Ninety-five percent (95%) of the machinery is operative. There are still hundreds of worthwhile items to be gleaned from its artistic operations from 1930 to 1993.

WOODWORKING: WALKER-TURNER 30" Radial Drill; STATE 20" Disc Sander; COLEBURN Table Saw; 36"x48" Table Planer; YALE 18" Band Saw; 2 Wood Lathes 6"x36", 14"x72".

MACHINE TOOLS: BRIDGEPORT Milling Machine; DELTA Cutoff Saw; W-T Drill Presses; SOUTH BEND 9"x30" Lathe; S-B 16"x36" Lathe; S-B 6" Turret Lathe; S-B 16" Turret Lathe; DOALL 15" Band Saw; DELTA Belt Sander; TOOLMASTER Surface Grinder; KALAMAZOO Cutoff Saw; WHEELABRATOR 20"x27" Tublast.

FOUNDRY: Alum., Steel & Wood Core Boxes; Jarring Tables; Furnaces; Hundreds of Wooden & Alum. Molds.

DIRECTIONS: FROM I-95 or ROUTE 1, take Route 29, the river freeway, south along the river to the first red light past the "Freeway Ends" sign and turn left on Cass St. (at the entrance to Riverview). Go thru two stop lights and then turn right on Third St. and go two blocks to Schenck St. Pattern Machine is on the corner.

INSPECTION: Friday, Dec. 17th, from 8:00 A.M .- 4:30 P.M.

REMOVAL: With the upcoming holidays, we have scheduled the sale so that the earlier lots will be near an exit to facilitate during-the-sale removal. Whereas, because of the lack of space, it will be necessary to bring items to the nearest exit ways, a forklift will be provided outside to lift machines from ground level to truck body height. Removal on Sunday, Dec. 19th, 9 A.M. - 1 P.M., and Monday, Dec. 20th, 8 A.M. - 4:30 P.M.

TERMS: Complete Payment Sale Day in Cash or Guaranteed Funds Only.

Fellowship Of Christian Farmers Holds Fall Banquets

TRUMANSBURG, N.Y. — Finger Lakes chapter of Fellowship of Christian Farmers recently held a banquet in Seneca Falls at Abigail's Restaurant with 109 attending.

The Mohawk Valley chapter of Fellowship of Christian Farmers held a banquet in Middleville at the Crystal Chandelier restaurant recently with 98 attending.

Loren Kruse, editor of Successful Farming magazine, was speaker for the evening at both banquets. He traveled in from Des Moines, Iowa to attend the banquets. His topic for the evening was "A 200 Bushel Life."

"Our purpose is to honor and glorify God by turning our life, family, farms and businesses over to the Lord to direct our path."

Also present for the evenings was Dennis Schlagel, executive director of Fellowship of Christian Farmers, traveling from Bloomington, Ill. He was the master of ceremonies for the Finger Lakes banquet and speaker at Mohawk Valley banquet.

Sergei and Tanja Raskin presented a slide show of Russian agriculture. They have been guests of FCFI for three months, observing U.S. agricultural practices, attending missionary conferences, and sharing their testimony at other functions. Sergei and Tanja reside in Novgorod, Russia, where they recently purchased 60 acres of partly wooded farm land to eventually grow vegetable seeds. Sergie and Tanja teach English at a nearby University and also private tutor English.

Music ministry was presented at Finger Lakes Banquet by Nina and Jim Crouch from Watertown. At Mohawk Valley, piano selections were played by Jim Stearns and a ministry in music was presented by the Kennell Family from Lowville.

For more information on FCFI short-term mission trips, contact George and Julia Holmes, 3220 Jacksonville Road, Trumansburg, NY, 14886.

A Practical Guide For Forest Landowners

ITHACA, N.Y. — Over 70 percent of all forestland in the northeastern U.S. is privately owned.

The land use and management decisions made by forest landowners will help determine whether the region will enjoy healthy, sustainable wildlife populations.

Enhancing Wildlife Habitats: A Practical Guide for Forest Landowners, NRAES-64, is a comprehensive guide designed specifically for private, non-industrial forest owners. In a straightforward style, it outlines strategies for developing a well-focused plan to encourage and manage wildlife on woodlots. Its recommendations apply to virtually any size forest, from one acre to several thousand.

The initial sections of the book are designed to give readers a clear understanding of the complex plant and animal interactions they may encounter on their woodlots.

Featured in these sections are topics such as forest growth, the forest community, wildlife populations, and the basic components of good habitats. Later sections discuss encouraging the growth of specific animal populations. Descriptions, ranges, life histories, and habitat requirements of many wildlife species are included.

The book includes chapters on basic forest wildlife ecology, understanding wildlife habitats, American woodcock and ruffed grouse, white-tailed deer and eastern wild turkey, other upland forest wildlife species, and wetland wildlife, as well as a appendix, glossary, and references.

Review questions involving key themes are also included at the end of each chapter. The book is 172 pages long with 11 tables and over 100 figures, many of which are black-and-white photographs.

Of particular interest are suggested field exercises found at the end of each chapter. These exercises are designed to be both fun and productive and, if carried out, should put forest owners well on their way to a practical habitat management plan.

The book NRAES-64, was written by Scott S. Hobson, chief biologist at Keyes Associates and Environmental Scientific; John S. Barclay, associate professor of wildlife management and extension wildlife specialist at the University of Connecticut; and Stephen H. Broderick, extension forester at the University of Connecticut.

It is available for $20 from the Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service (NRAES), Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853-5701.

Postage and handling are included for U.S. orders only.

Orders from outside the U.S. must be prepaid in U.S. funds. Quantity discounts are as follows: 10-49 copies, $16 per copy; 50-99 copies, $14 per copy; and 100 or more copies, $12 per copy. Please make your check payable to NRAES or call (607) 255-7654 for more information. Call or write for a free publication catalog.

Greenhouse Systems Conference Set

ITHACA, N.Y. — Greenhouse Systems: Automation, Culture, and Environment, a conference to be held in New Brunswick, N.J. on July 20-22, 1994, will provide in-depth information on the engineering principles of greenhouse system design and management. Presentations focusing on current technology and case studies will relate the fundamentals to day-to-day management decisions.

The conference consists of four half-day sessions. The automation session will discuss sensors for monitoring the greenhouse environment, controllers and computers for decision making, and machines and layouts for efficient operation. The culture session will discuss water and nutrient delivery and other factors that affect plant growth and response. The environment session will discuss systems used to control heat, lighting, and the gaseous environment within the greenhouse. The last session will focus on integrating the systems discussed in the first three sessions to create an efficient and profitable greenhouse that minimizes environmental impact.

Each evening will include opportunities for focused learning. On the first evening, workshops will be offered; topics will be chosen based on input from conference registrants on their registration forms. During the second evening, teams of participants will each design a greenhouse system. The designs will be reviewed during the last session on the following day.

The intended audience includes greenhouse production systems owners and their advisors and managers, equipment suppliers and manufacturers, cooperative extension educators, designers, writers and publishers within the industry, teachers, government policy makers, and regulators.

The conference planning committee includes Gene Giacomelli, K. C. Ting, and William J. Roberts, professors of bioresource engineering at Rutgers University; Louis D. Albright, professor of agricultural and biological engineering at Cornell University; John W. Bartok, Jr., extension professor of natural resources management and engineering at the University of Connecticut; and Marty Sailus, director of the Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service.

The conference is being organized by the Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service (NRAES) and the Center for Controlled Environment Agriculture at Rutgers University, in conjunction with the American Society of Agricultural Engineers. It will be held at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, 2 Albany Street, New Brunswick, New Jersey. Room rates are $65 for a single or double room, $90 for a triple room, and $115 for a quadruple room if you mention "Greenhouse Systems Conference" when you call the hotel at (908) 873-1234. Rooms have been set aside until June 19, 1994.

For a free brochure containing a complete conference agenda, a map to the conference, registration fee, and a registration form, write to NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, NY 14853-5701 or call (607) 255-7654. Brochures will be available in January 1994.

Disaster Payments Issued

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Federal crop disaster payments totaling $12,086 have been issued to several Berks County farmers so far this year whose crops were adversely affected by flooding and other severe weather conditions.

Richard Troutman, an official of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), said the payments will help those producers who were prevented from planting or who lost some or all of their crops because of damaging weather factors. He also mentioned Berks County farmers fortunate in having more favorable growing conditions as compared to others across the state.

In additional to issuing crop payments, ASCS opened the 1993 tree assistance program (TAP) for commercial tree growers who experienced significant tree losses.

FINDING A CONSULTING FORESTER

Robert S. Hansen, Bradford County Forester

Utilizing a professional consulting forester will be of great help to a landowner in the management of his or her forest land. A forester can be especially valuable when the landowner wants to sell some timber. A good forester can more than make up his or her fee through the increased profits from a forester-assisted timber sale.

How does one find a good, reliable forester? The first thing to remember is that in Pennsylvania there is no registration law that prevents an unqualified individual from presenting himself or herself as a forester. There are many individuals in Pennsylvania that currently call themselves foresters that do not have the requisite training or experience to be professional foresters. A landowner needs to check the credentials of any individual who he or she might consider hiring as a consulting forester.

A professional forester has a minimum of a four year degree in forestry from an accredited university. Penn State University has the four-year forestry degree program in Pennsylvania and there are others throughout the country as well. A forest technician has a two-year degree in forestry from a recognized college or university. Penn State at Mount Alto and Pennsylvania College of Technology have two-year programs in Pennsylvania. A forest technician can offer similar help to a landowner, especially if the technician has had adequate field experience.

The first step in finding a professional forester to help you is to contact your local Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry service or your county extension office. They can supply you with a list of professional foresters that work in your county. The list contains consulting foresters and industrial foresters. An industrial forester is employed by a timber company or sawmill. A consulting forester is self-employed and you hire the forester to work for you. You also pay the consultant for his time and expertise.

The next step is deciding on two or three foresters on the list who you might want to have work with you. You should contact these foresters and discuss your needs with them. You should also check on their fee schedule.

Of utmost importance is the checking of references of these foresters. Not all foresters, even though they have the same educational training, have the same abilities. Checking references cannot be overemphasized. After checking the foresters' references and discussing your needs with them, you should then make your decision.

Meet often with your forester during the life of the project. Make sure that he or she understands your objectives and your concerns. Remember it is your property and you ultimately have the responsibility for the decisions being made. A forester steward will obtain the services of a qualified, professional forester and take an active role in the management of his or her own property.

Farm-City Activities Offer View Of Lifestyles

C.J. HOUGHTALING
Tioga Co. Correspondent

NAUVOO (Tioga Co.) — Like any good story, this one was full of suspense, romance, tears, laughter, and was brought to a satisfying end while leaving the observer wanting more. It was the third such story in a series entitled Tioga County Farm-City Day, which concluded with a banquet honoring the 1993 hosts, the Raymond Butters family of Nauvoo.

For Tioga County, Farm-City Day began as a dream of Sherri Elder, an ASCS office employee in Wellsboro who worked hard to make her dream come true. Having been involved with numerous Farm-City Days throughout the state in the past, she outlined one for Tioga County in 1991 with Erick and Dixie Coolidge of Le-Ma-Re Farm serving as host. Despite heavy, gray skies and sporadic rain, nearly 1,000 visitors ventured to this Dairy of Distinction farm to see what "A Day in the Life of a Farmer" was like.

As with any event, Farm-City Day was a success because of a multitude of people pitching in. Several months later, an appreciation banquet was given to honor the host family and all the volunteers who helped. Seventy turned out for the meal.

The second year, Glenside Dairy in Middlebury Center, owned by father and son team of Dennis and Craig Owlett, served as the location. This time the weather did cooperate, with nearly 2,000 guests attending the event. The appreciation banquet that followed was attended by 120 people.

For the Butters this past July, another gorgeous day brought, according to Elder, almost 3,000 people to Silverlea Farm. The appreciation banquet swelled, too, with nearly 200 attending.

Commenting on the most recent Farm-City Day, Elder publicly thanked the Morris Fire Department for their extraordinary services. "Whatever we needed, tables, chairs ... they were here, all year long. They (the Morris Fire Department) just don't get any better than this," said Elder.

Sherri Elder, left, introduces Leona and Harold "Bud" Robson of Pickle Hill, Mansfield, as the hosts for the 1994 Farm-City Day in Tioga County.

Others acknowledged for their participation in the event included Gordon Wood for providing tents, Betty and Larry Gee of B&L Portable Toilets for donating portable toilets, the Farm-City Day Committee, plus numerous individuals who served as drivers or guides on wagon tours, manned exhibits, organized contests, provided publicity, parked cars, or otherwise took part in some other capacity as volunteers to make Farm-City Day the success it was grown to be.

And that success has not gone unnoticed outside the county, as Glenn Butters, who helps out on his family's farm when he is not teaching school in Troy, Bradford County noted. "A lot of people in Troy complimented us on what Tioga County was able to do this year (for Farm-City Day)."

If imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, then Tioga County has received the highest compliments imaginable as the counties on either side organized their own Farm-City Day for the first time this year. Bradford County (east) and Potter County (west) each saw several hundred guests visit their respective host farms.

Her eyes glistening with tears of happiness, Elder said of this year's Tioga County's Farm-City Day, "I don't know how we can possibly top that."

Her next words were choked with sadness as she announced her "retirement" from chairing the annual event.

"I don't know how I got to be so lucky," Elder said as she looked around at the Butters family. The emotional ties that had developed between Elder and the Butters family over the long months of preparation for Farm-City Day '93 were strong indeed. With a heavy heart and many sighs, Elder told her captive audience that, although she enjoyed organizing Farm-City days, she felt it was now time to step down and spend more time with loved ones.

Elder announced that replacing her in the 1994 event are co-chairs J.W. Welch and Harold "Bud" Robson, who, along with Bud's wife Leona, is also hosting the next Farm-City Day at their Gray Valley Farm on Pickle Hill,

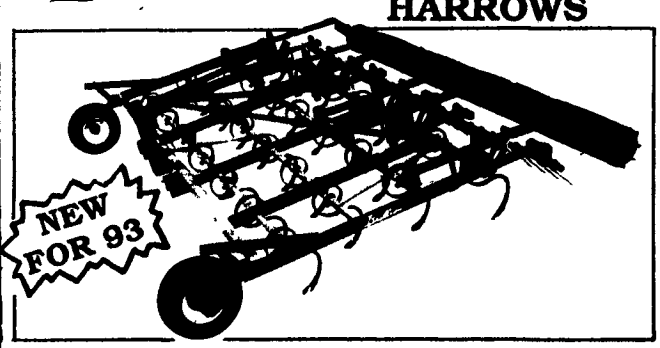
Brillion MEETS THE CHALLENGE
For Built In Strength Where It Counts — Buy Brillion

Brillion 3 PT. BASKET HARROWS



Brillion has designed a 3 pt. S-Tine field cultivator with a larger, aggressively angled 12" diameter rolling basket, a 4-bar frame that allows for either 4" or 6" tooth spacing and an adjustable leveler bar in 12', 15' and 18' sizes. The distance between the four bars has been increased for the best trash flow in the industry. Gauge wheels are optional.

HFC FIELD CULTIVATORS

The "heart" of any field cultivator is the shank pivot point. A "bulked up" shank bracket made of cast ductile iron instead of the usual formed steel bracket, incorporated a hardened steel bushing AND a zerk grease fitting to lubricate the pivot point to reduce wear. The result is thousands of acres of extended life of the shanks.

FARMING IN AN URBANIZING ENVIRONMENT

Leon Ressler
Extension Agent
Agriculture/Environment
Lancaster County

One of Pennsylvania agriculture's greatest strengths is its proximity to urban markets.

Unfortunately, as the urban dwellers increasingly encroach on farming areas, the closeness of agricultural production and consumers can also be a liability.

Too often we have read the unhappy headlines announcing "residents band together to oppose poultry operation" or "neighbors file complaint over flies." One of the key skills required to be a successful manager in the nineties is the ability to run one's enterprise in such a way as to generate praise rather than animosity from the non-farmers in one's neighborhood.

One must routinely seek better ways to run the farm operation. Simply saying "I was here first" is no longer a sufficient answer when dealing with neighbors. An honest assessment of problems is an important function of farm management. When current or potential problems have been identified, one needs to seek solutions which will correct the problems before they become a public relation's problem in the neighborhood.

Aesthetics is very important on today's farms. Sloppy operations are simply not acceptable. An attractive landscape is important to presenting a positive image of your operation. Planting a buffer strip of trees between you and your neighbors or a highway is a good idea. Out of sight, out of mind really does work. A buffer strip of trees will also help with odor and dust reduction.

Getting to know your neighbors is always a good idea. Giving them some poultry products over the holidays or compost for their garden in the spring builds good will.

Use common sense when scheduling your farm activities. Don't spread manure next to your neighbor's backyard the day before a spring or summer holiday, for instance. Incorporate manure as soon as possible when spreading near urban neighbors. In addition to reducing odors, this can help reduce the field hatch of flies.

Flies are probably the largest potential source of friction between poultry farms and nonfarm neighbors. An aggressive fly prevention strategy should be in place at all times. One of the best ways to prevent fly problems is to keep the manure dry to disrupt the life cycle of the flies.

The ideal moisture content of the manure for breeding flies is 50 to 85-percent. Reducing water leaks and increasing air circulation in high-rise houses are keys to keeping the moisture too low to be suitable for fly breeding.

Feeding larvacide as needed and using insecticides are also important tools for fly control. Insecticide bait pans and space spray or mist sprays are important for controlling adult populations. Residual insecticides can be applied to the walls at clean-out time. Remember to rotate the class of insecticides used to prevent a buildup of insecticide resistance in the fly population.

Composting of manure and mortality is a management tool which has several benefits, including fly control. The heat generated during the composting process will destroy the fly larva. The enables one to get the upper hand in the battle with flies without a major cash outlay for insecticides.

Composting also converts manure and carcasses into a marketable fertilizer. This can be an extra source of revenue in addition to solving a nutrient management problem on farms where more manure is produced than can be utilized on crop land.

All involved in agriculture today need to make a "good neighbor" policy a high priority. Planning ahead to prevent problems can go a long way toward building a positive image, which is important for the success of any business.

Wet, Flooded Fields May Need Special Management

NORCROSS, Ga. — This year's extraordinary weather obviously affected much of the 1993 crop. Unfortunately, the negative effects will not stop with the current crop because soil properties were affected that will impact next year's crop as well.

Much of the Midwest and northern Great Plains had near record low soil nitrate levels last fall and this spring. Weather conditions frequently did not allow normal nitrogen applications. Conditions were ideal for denitrification and leaching losses of what little nitrogen was present. Cool temperatures during much of the growing season likely caused less than normal organic matter mineralization and release of nitrogen from legume residues and manure. The net effect is soils nearly devoid of plant available nitrogen this fall. Adequate nitrogen fertilization will be a must for profitable crop production in 1994.

Soils are teeming with microorganisms that are active in releasing and supplying many nutrients to crop roots. Their activity goes unnoticed until something happens that interfers with that activity and with crop nutrition. Such is often the case for crops grown in fields that were either fallowed or flooded the year before. Most crops normally have a beneficial fungus called mycorrhizae, colonizing their root systems. This fungus aids in the absorption of phosphorus by crop roots. Mycorrhizae activity is often depressed following fallowing or flooded conditions, resulting in severe phosphorus deficiency in crops the next year. A reduction in the amount of phosphorus supplied by breakdown of organic matter contributes to the problem.

Corn appears to be the most sensitive crop to the syndrome, with soybeans being affected... but less severely. Use of a high phosphorus starter fertilizer at rates of 40 to 70 lb. P_2O_5/A normally corrects the phosphorus deficiency. High soil test phosphorus levels can also correct growth problems, but the minimum level required has not been defined. In one midwestern study, corn grown following fallow at a Bray test of 15 ppm (Medium) was severely phosphorus deficient, while at 45 ppm (Very High) growth was normal.

Aerial views and field investigations this summer frequently indicated that substantial soil compaction occurred from traffic and tillage on wet soils. Research has demonstrated that potassium management increases in importance under compacted conditions. High soil test potassium levels and band application of potassium can reduce the negative effects this new compaction may have on crop yields in 1994.

The year(s) ahead will not be easy as agriculture in the Midwest recovers from 1993. Operating dollars will likely be short, and spending decisions will need to be made carefully. However, past experience tells us that fertilizer inputs will likely give terrific returns in 1994. Start planning now to make 1994 the best crop year that conditions will allow.

Mansfield.

The Robsons have 90 registered Holsteins, with a milking herd of 56 on their 150-acre farm, and are active in the agriculture community, having worked with 4-H and junior livestock clubs for several years.

Robson told the group, "I guess I really didn't know what we were getting into with the splash here tonight, but I guess we can hack it."

Commenting on how his family has served as hosts for cattle tours, a strawberry festival, and helped with the parking during the Primitive Rendezvous held nearby this past September, Robson was confident on their ability to successfully coordinate at least one portion of Farm-City Day when he said, "We got a family that knows how to park cars!"

Robson and Welch accepted the challenge of surpassing the success of previous Farm-City days with their event in 1994. Robson expressed confidence in himself and his co-chair as he said, "I'm sure Sherri (Elder) thinks she can put on a Farm-City Day, but J.W. and I will get right in there and show her how it's really done."

Powder Coating Protects Building Components

PEORIA, Ill. — A powder coating line has been installed at The Morton, Ill., facility of Morton Buildings.

The custom-engineered coating line includes a conveying system that carries parts through a pretreatment process, a drying oven, a powder-coat booth, and an infrared/convection curing oven. Powder and parts are electrostatically charged to assure complete coverage.

The new powder coating is now applied to certain structural and hardware components of Morton buildings. The powder coating replaces liquid painting of many parts to provide higher quality protection against corrosion. This hard and corrosion-resistant coating is now applied to horsebarn stall doors and bar sections, truss hangers, column sockets, and other Morton building components.

The powder coating process is environmentally friendly and does not emit harmful solvents into the air. No special venting is needed, permitting optimum use of heating energy. The process has minimal environmental impact, less waste, yet the coating has higher quality and performance assuring long service life to Morton Building customers.

Messick Sees Next Generation Of Magnum Tractors

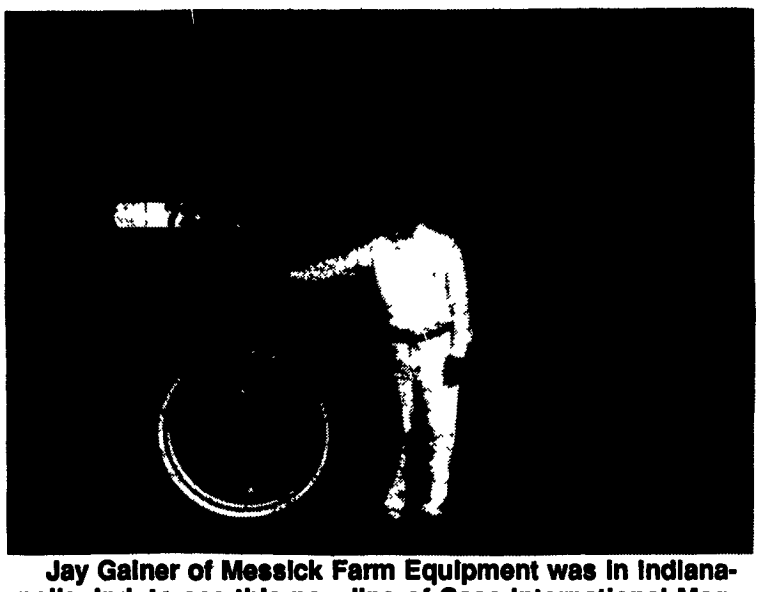
ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — When J I Case lifted the curtain on the next generation of Case International Magnum™ tractors during a recent business meeting in Indianapolis, Ind., Jay Gainer of Messick Farm Equipment was there to see the new machines and learn the specific benefits to his customers.

Gainer was among more than 2,000 Case IH dealers and sales personnel from across North America who attended business meetings held this week specifically for the purpose of introducing the Magnum 7200 Series high-horsepower tractors.

The meetings provided a full day of informational and training sessions to acquaint Case IH dealers with key features of the five new tractors, which range from 130 to 215 PTO horsepower (97 to 160 kW). "More than anything, they build on the positive features of the 7100 Series Magnum tractors," said Gainer.

He explained that the original Magnum tractors, the 7100 Series introduced in 1987, represented the first real industry breakthrough in tractor design in more than two decades.

"At the meeting, we got a good, firsthand look at all five of the 7200 Series models," Gainer said. "They have the features our customers have always liked about the Magnum tractors — 18-speed full powershift transmission, reliable Case diesel engine, super visibility, and tremendous hitch capacity. They come with in-cab hydraulic flow controls, an extra-slow creeper-speed option, and other features our customers have requested during the seven years since the line was introduced."



Jay Gainer of Messick Farm Equipment was in Indianapolis, Ind. to see this new line of Case International Magnum tractors. The new 7200 Series tractors incorporate the field-proven engine, transmission, high technology, and superlative cab comfort that are the hallmarks of the Magnum line, along with, among other improvements, tighter turning, easier servicing, more comprehensive hitch controls, and new styling.

One major improvement is in turning radius, according to Gainer. The turning radius with the new 7200 Series tractors is now as much as 11 percent tighter than on previous models. To achieve tighter turns, the lower front grill and side panels have been re-sculptured and steering angles modified.

Hitch controls are improved on the new tractors, as well. With the new three-position hitch-command rocker switch, the operator can control speed and positioning of the hitch with increased ease and precision. A new upper limit setting for the hitch lets the operator specify just how high he or she wants to raise an implement or attachment between operations. And an on-board diagnostic monitor now identifies 32 hitch-related concerns for easy and quick diagnosis.

Among with changes, the new Magnum tractors also feature an advanced environmental system that makes use of a more environmentally friendly coolant for air conditioning, an even more comfortable operating station and increased ease of serviceability.

Case Unveils Skid Steer

RACINE, Wis. — J I Case introduced the new 46-horsepower 1838 Uni-Loader® skid steer at dealer meetings held November 11-16 in St. Louis, Mo.

According to Jim Donoghue, Case product manager-skid steers, the addition of the 1838 strengthens the company's position as a full-line manufacturer of skid-steer loaders.

"With the 1838, we can offer more choices in the popular 1,300-pound operating load class," he said. The Case 1840, also in this class, has 50 hp and a 1,350-pound operating load rating.

The 1838 offers 3,066 pounds of breakout force for superior performance in a variety of loading applications. The unit is powered by a four-cylinder Kubota diesel engine rated at 46 net horsepower (34.3 kW) at 2,800 rpm. The hydrostatic ground drive on the 1838 features infinitely variable speeds within a range of 0-6.5 mph in both forward and reverse. A choice of hand or optional foot controls provides responsive control of loader or other attachment functions.

A new automatic control lockout system on the 1838 is designed to enhance operator comfort while ensuring ease of entry and exit. Upon entry, the operator lowers an improved seat bar to activate the hydraulic system and disengage the parking brake. Raising the seat bar prior to exit automatically locks the hydraulic loader controls and activates the parking brake. The bar also features integral arm rests.

The Case 1838 comes standard with a quick-change coupling system to accommodate a wide variety of attachments. Available options include auxiliary hydraulics, halogen lights, hydraulic self-leveling loader bucket, cold start kit, and a variety of application-specific tires.

With a rated operating load of 1,300 pounds and 3,066 pounds of breakout force, the new 46-horsepower Case 1838 skid steer provides superior performance in a wide range of applications.

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — The first report card is in for the 75 bulls on test at Penna State University.

The 112-day test, which began Oct. 5, will conclude in March 1994. The bulls will be sold at public auction at 1 p.m. on Friday, March 25, 1994 at the Penn State Ag Arena, State College.

The Hidden Oaks bull had a daily weight gain for the first 30 days of 4.30 and 424, while the average for the Simmental bull was 3.26. Average for Angus bulls was 3.09, Charolais 3.51, Hereford 3.07, and Limousin 2.86.

Foust Hidden Oaks is owned by Ken and Alice Foust. Levi Stoltzfus is this farm manager.

Klines Host Dairy Open House

ELVERSON (Berks Co.) — Ease of milking and speed of handling extra cows were some of the reasons that Lynn and William Kline invested in an extensive array of improvements and additions to their 200-head grade Holstein dairy farm recently.

The Klines recently invited farmers to tour their new facilities as part of an Open House celebration to feature the new buildings and equipment.

The Kline dairy purchased a new Alfa-Laval Agri double-6 herringbone parlor.

The Klines installed a new milking center, which includes a new milking parlor. The center is a 39-foot by 39-foot Lester pre-engineered building with Glasbord walls, put in place by Valley View Construction, Inc. in Morgantown. In the new Milking Center is a new Alfa-Laval Agri double-6 herringbone parlor with Blue Diamond suspended stalls with indexing rail. The milking system includes plate cooler, take-offs, and milk meters, by Alva-Laval Agri, and installed by J.B. Zimmerman. A Dari-Kool 2,000-gallon capacity stainless steel milk tank was installed by Lancaster Dairy Farm Automation, Lititz.

The freestall barn has slatted floors and measures 48 feet by 133 feet. It contains an 8-foot deep manure pit and a 24-foot by 40-foot holding area. Lapp's Barn Equipment, Gap, installed the gates, headlocks, freestalls, cow mats, and curtains. Keystone Concrete installed the waffle slats.

Groffdale Concrete Walls installed the poured walls for the manure pit.

Star Silo, Myerstown, also put up a 24-foot by 96-foot poured concrete silo. Other renovations were also made.

Construction of the new additions began in March and much of the operation in August this year.

The Kline farm has about 102 milking cows, grade Holstein, with about 98 replacement stock. Milking average on the herd totals about 19,000 pounds. All cows are milked through the new parlor.

A dinner was provided for those who attended the open house.

ASCS Issues CRP Payments

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — The Berks County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office recently issued cash payments totalling $53,935 to 37 producers.

The annual rental payments are for eligible cropland accepted into the program during fiscal years 1986-1992. "This payment is for fiscal year 1993," ASCS official Richard Troutman said.

Under the CRP, farmers sign a 10-15 year contract with USDA agreeing to take eligible cropland that is highly erodible, or causing serious water quality problems, out of annual crop production and put it into perennial grasses, wildlife plantings, or trees. In return, USDA agrees to provide annual rental payments, and shares with farmers the cost of establishing an approved permanent cover on the land.

Quality Assurance Educational Programs For Animal Agriculture

Editor's note: This is the first of a two-part series.

Lowell L. Wilson
Penn State Professor
Of Animal Science

Food Safety Wholesomeness And Quality

Antibiotic residues, injection-site blemishes, microbial contamination, animal welfare, animal handling, livestock transportation, trim loss, industry credibility are all important concerns for animal agriculture. How effectively we address them will determine the profitability of our animal industries.

Let's review a progressive new program designed to deal with these concerns.

"Quality Assurance" (QA) is being put into effect in every segment of animal agriculture, including beef, dairy-beef, milk, pork, poultry, veal, even lamb and aquaculture. Of course, producers and processors always have been quality-conscious. And they always have practiced many of the steps included in modern, organized QA programs.

But now QA must put it all together in a total, step-by-step program. QA Educational Programs (QAEPs) were instituted because of the occurrence of chemical residues (usually antibiotics) in animal products.

However, other losses also have been addressed. For instance, in the beef QAEP, one major effort is to reduce the frequency and degree of injection-site blemishes. Although not a public health concern, they detract from the appearance of meat. These imperfections usually are not noticed until the carcass is cut into retail cuts. The trimming required to remove them results not only in a loss of meat, but also in additional labor cost for packers, processors, and retailers.

In the milk, pork, and veal industries the primary impetus for QA has been to further reduce the already low incidence of antibiotic residues. The special-fed veal industry is a good example of the effectiveness of such QAEPs. Frequency of antibiotic residues has dropped from 3.34 percent in 1988 (when the veal QAEP began) to 0.13 percent in 1992.

No one program can bring about all the changes in a production system needed to assure profitable production of safe, wholesome foods or maintain high consumer confidence in products of animal origin. However, the short history of QAEPs indicates they are nonetheless effective.

What makes a QAEP effective? Involvement of producers and processors and their desire to guarantee the future of their respective industries

Status Of Our Food Supply

Probably anyone who has addressed consumer groups or talked to reporters has commented, "The U.S. food supply is the safest in the world." Although this is true — particularly when compared to food produced in developing countries — it is not an effective statement for our consumers. This nation is one of the most technologically advanced in the world, and we have had strong food inspection programs for decades.

With all our knowledge and technology, we should have a safe food supply as well as a progressive attitude toward even further improvements. But finding antibiotic residues in milk or cull dairy or beef cows or bob calves indicates we still have work to do, as does finding E. coli in hamburger.

Quality Loss Audits

The National Cattlemen's Association recently completed a comprehensive study in which the value of all carcass losses (hide damage, excess fatness, blemishes, bruises, undesirable meat color, etc.) were determined. Average losses for each steer and heifer produced in the nation's feedlots totalled $280 per head.

Packers and processors typically add value to the live animal they purchase from the producer. If they have an average loss of $20, $50, $100, or $280 per carcass, then that amount of loss has to be accounted for. It usually is averaged over all cattle feeders and all carcasses. Everyone along the producing-marketing chain shares in this loss.

Direct Costs Of Defects To Producers

Dairy farmers long have been aware of the direct cost of a mistake which contaminates a tankful of milk. The value of that milk is lost. But producers usually don't have accountability for cull beef cows, dairy cows, bob calves, or even finished steers, lambs, or hogs.

There's a new trend, though. In many larger packing plants nowadays, cattle feeders are being "billed back" for bruises, injection-site blemishes, condemnations, and other carcass defects that cause extra labor and carcass trimming. This trend will continue, and during the next five years there will be increasing producer accountability for such losses in every food animal species, regardless of whether marketing is direct or through auctions or buying stations.

Similarities Among QAEPs

Although each commodity organization's QAEP has different specific areas of concern or emphasis, there are several similarities across all programs:

- Built on strengthening the veterinarian-client-patient relationship, but including team members from other disciplines — certified animal scientists, nutritionists, meat scientists, animal care specialists, animal handling experts, etc.
- Involving manufacturers/distributors of animal health products, encouraging them to market products less destructive to muscle tissue and administrable subcutaneously.
- Improving communications among producers, veterinarians, meat/milk inspectors, and processors, so all segments know about specific problems that need improvement.
- Improving handling, transportation, and general animal care so as to result in fewer bruises and less animal excitement, which can decrease quality — and thus value — of the resulting meat product.
- Encouraging producers, in consultation with their veterinarians, to initiate early diagnosis and treatment of health problems, and to cull animals as soon as it is clear the animal will not recover.

Rotary Disc Mower-Conditioner Has L-Frame Design

ATLANTA, Ga. — With a simple yet rugged design and the commitment to versatility and operator convenience, AGCO Hesston leaps ahead of the industry by introducing a totally redesigned rotary disc mower conditioner with several innovative benefits and unique new features.

A maneuverable L-frame design and full 9-foot-2-inch cutting width make the 1320 the perfect pull-type for most moderate-size hay operations.

The 1320's aggressive design makes short work of even the toughest crops. The spur gear cutterbed contains six heat-treated oval discs, each with two hardened reversible swingaway knives for long life and plug-free cutting. In addition, the cutterbed is easily accessible for service with it's convenient modular design that allows each gear assembly and adjacent idler gear to be individually removed.

For higher productivity in less time, Hesston has incorporated a crop slinger disc and anti-wrap cage on both ends of the disc row to improve crop flow in extremely tangled or matted crops and reduce wear on cutter blades and drive lines.

Reduced crop moisture and better, quicker curing windrows are popular benefits of the 1320's hay conditioning system. Hesston's proven 75.25 inch wide rubber-over-steel conditioner rolls with built-in pressure release automatically clear crop jams and eliminate the need to reach into the conditioner to remove hay plugs. Meanwhile, the crop is gently delivered to forming shields that quickly adjust to form fluffy windrows of varying widths or wide swaths for maximum crop drying.

Finally, all of the 1320's drive components are protected by a slip clutch during operation. This prevents machine damage with accidental stoppage and affords the operator less down-time and lower maintenance costs. If the main drive is shut down, an overrunning clutch protects the drive components by allowing the high-speed discs to freewheel.

A maneuverable L-frame design and full 9-foot-2-inch cutting width make the 1320 the perfect pull-type for most moderate-size hay operations.

Quality Assurance

- Providing producers and their advisors with information on proper animal health product use (dosages, routes of administration, withdrawal times, proper care and disposal of administration equipment, etc.).
- *Increasing producer awareness of proper handling, mixing, and withdrawal periods for medicated feeds.
- Clearly identifying all treated animals and maintaining records of all treatments.
- Enhancement of biosecurity measures. If transfer of infectious diseases to farms and animals can be reduced, then the need for medicinal treatment is also reduced. Also reduced are the chances for chemical residues in the resulting animal-derived products.
- Conduct of employee training sessions about those practices which might result in chemical residues or other losses in wholesomeness or value.

Editor's note: The conclusion of the series will feature Specific Quality Assurance Educational Programs.

TIRED OF LEAKING ROOFING? USE
WHEELING
Channeldrain
ROOFING & SIDING

Exclusive drain channel guards against wind, rain and snow...assures dryness.
1. Wide overlap: Increases strength and leak protection at each joint.
2. Wide nailing surface: Makes nailing easier and faster.
3. Drain channel: the exclusive leak-proof system that prevents capillary action; stays weather tight. This Wheeling feature has insured "dry barns" for thousands of farmers over the past 50 years.

Promotion of Select Grade Beef: According to Cattle Fax and other sources, the volume of Select Beef, as a percent of all beef graded, has expanded reaching 23 percent in 1992. The Select Grade originated in 1987 when Good grade beef was changed to Select grade. Select beef has somewhat less marbling than Choice beef, but Select beef from young, grainfed animals can satisfy most market segments. More retailers are promoting Select beef in their "lean" beef sales programs. According to Cattle Fax, the use of Select grade references in retail advertising has increased.

Help Needed: There are always things to do at such events as the Expo, the Farm Show Cattlemen's Exhibit, Field Days, and other PCA events. Helping with something such as the expanded youth activities at the Beef Expo can also be very gratifying. Let us know if you have interest in helping with one of these special events.

Upcoming PCA director meetings: There are two association director meetings scheduled, one on Thursday, December 16 at 6:30 p.m., The Family House Restaurant, Mifflintown, and at Farm Show on Tuesday, January 11, 3:00 p.m., in one of the rooms near the cafeteria. If you have any suggestions for new programs or existing efforts, please contact the PCA offices or one of the directors. A list of all Cattlemen's Association Directors is available from the PCA office. There will be five directors elected at the April 8, 1994 membership meeting. If you or a colleague are interested in being nominated, let us know.

Mythbusters Session held: Through a cooperative effort between the Pennsylvania Beef Council and the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, the first Pennsylvania Mythbusters program was held on November 15-16 in Harrisburg. Those attending were provided with media training and received packets of invaluable information on refuting some of the incorrect information provided by animal activists against the beef and related industries. Leading the program was Barb Wilkinson, NCA information specialist, assisted by a private consulting group. Another Mythbuster session may be held within the next year. Those "graduating" from the Mythbuster program agreed to provide information to news media several times over the next 12 months. Everyone who attended was complimentary about the information and training which they received. The Cattlemen's Association wants to thank the Pennsylvania Beef Council for their role in bringing this important program to Pennsylvania.

When Is A Cow More Than A Cow?: The American National Cattlewomen are publishing their popular brochure in Spanish and in Japanese. The brochure stresses the importance of cattle by-products in society today. It offers more than 80 examples of common household goods and personal items that contain by-products from cattle. For a copy, write to ANCW, P.O. Box 3881, Englewood, CO 80155, or call (303) 694-0313. Another very popular Pennsylvania-based effort emphasizing the by-products received from animals is available from the Students For Responsible Use of Animals club at Penn State. This exhibit was prepared in cooperation with the Animal Welfare Perceptions Project and partially funded by the Pennyslavania Department of Agriculture.

BULK

rt: The October 22 report indicated 8.2 million feed in USDA's 7-state reporting area. This is orted since 1978, according to NCA. Market- area were up an estimated 2 percent from the ments were down 1 percent.

t recommendation dropped: A minimum at was recommended to the USDA by the NCA rce has been dropped because some specifica- too many carcasses by preventing them from ing to NCA. The taskforce dropped the propos- conducted by Texas Tech. University, Color- and USDA which found that a large number of an 0.2 in. of backfat were still acceptably rmines consumer satisfaction: Preliminary trategic Alliance Field Study are available. This o test the ability of the beef industry to eliminate ugh close cooperation between different seg- try (pure red, commercial, feedlot). Studies of tenderness and sensory characteristics by d by consumer panels. There were four different tish Choice, British Select, Continental Choice, ct. Most interesting part of conclusions thus far and strains of beef cattle deliver steaks that satis- y, even when marbling is constant.

el scored all four groups above the "acceptable" British Select scored highest, followed by Conti- h Choice, and Continental Select for tenderness. lity, British Choice scored highest followed by ental Choice, and Continental Select. However, ctually reversed, even when Choice and Select ed according to current markets.

Gary Smith of Colorado State University, who lity work, "This study tells us, plain and simple, ers have been saying for a long time - marbling always predict palatability. And, even when mar- nstant, not all breeds or strains of cattle produce e expected eating satisfaction."

artment of Dairy and Animal Science (Drs. John Henning) have initiated a Pennsylvania-based eld study with the cattle just getting started on nal study, the carcasses will be subjected to a car- ation which is extremely important to everyone production and processing chain. NCA estimated carcass was lost because of trimming, off-color, fat, not the proper amount of marbling, trim los-art of recommended diets: According to the l Education Program (NCEP), lean meat con- diets recommended as a part of therapy to reduce ol levels. A summary NCEP Report appearing in utrition News Letter noted that lean meats, poul- try, and fish were included in Step 1 and Step 2 Diets. The two steps involve two different limits of fat, saturated fatty acids and cholesterol. The continuation of lean meat as a part of these recommendations reflects the fact that participating organizations - such as the American Heart Association and the American Dietetic Association - recognize the nutritional value of meat with its high level of nutrients in relation to fat and calories. For example, the American Heart Association has previously said, "good lean meat is hard to beat as an excellent source of protein, vitamins and minerals, including iron." The American Heart Association says "yes" to meat with a few guidelines to help protect your heart.

Fact about US beef production: In 1992 the United States produced 22 percent of the world's beef supply with just less than 10 percent of the world's cattle inventory. One reason for our efficiency is that we produce cattle for food, not for use as draft animals or religious reasons. Also, we use superior management and technology in breeding and feeding programs. But - most experts within and outside agriculture agree - the beef industry is not as efficient and has not made the giant strides in productive efficiency and resourse utilization that some of our competitors have enjoyed. Certainly the beef industry has benefitted from research to improve efficiency - but this is no time to rest on our laurels or to reduce the research effort. And, we as producers, have to do our best to make the most efficient use of land, labor, capital, and other inputs into beef production. We need also to continue research. We need to continue to improve our own operations and help our fellow cattlemen make the progress that will help each of them plus the industry.

Ground beef production to increase: (Again!) Ground beef production increased about 5 percent calculated as the total of all beef consumption in 1993 and is projected to increase by another 4-5 percent in 1994. About 57 percent of all beef supplies, including retail and hotel/restaurant trade, is ground product. The 1993 increase in ground beef consumption was primarily the result of a larger non-fed (cow) slaughter, thanks to the success of the fast-food restaurants, which sell increasing amounts of beef each year.

Green marketing labels: Green marketing has invaded the consumer market place with some firms marketing green labels to companies which are "friendly to the environment." Beef is actually an "environmentally friendly" food product if one looks at the facts such as the large portion of feed that comes from land that cannot usually be row-cropped for grain production, the widespread use of pastures which control erosion if properly managed, the large portion of by-products which make up the diet for most types of beef cattle, and the absence of violative chemical residues in beef products. We would rather not see any controversy about green labeling on beef products, but if it does happen, we hope that science-based facts can be used to determine the environmental friendliness of beef, rather than the misinformation which has been so widely publicized the last few years by animal activists.

New Wetlands-Reform Bill introduced: The Wetlands-Reform Bill was introduced in mid-November by Representatives Studds (D-Mass) and de la Garza (D-Texas). The bill includes some wetlands reform measures that have been sought by NCA, such as giving the Soil Conservation Service jurisdiction over agricultural wetlands. According to NCA, areas which need further attention include private property-rights protection, state jurisdiction, a wetlands definition, and an approved appeals process. This is one of several pieces of legislation into which NCA and other national and state agricultural organizations have input.

New video available: NCA has a new video which has been added to the industry image package "Cattlemen: Stewards of an American Tradition." There is a four-color brochure and a 10-minute video tape to explain cattlemen's commitment to their business and to the natural resources that support it. The program was funded by the Beef Promotion and Research Board and is intended to improve the marketing climate for beef, and answers activist contentions that the cattle industry does not protect or enhance the environment. For further details, call Rae Price at NCA, (303-694-0305). There are many such informational materials available from NCA, Beef Industry Council, Pennsylvania Beef Council, and the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association. Contact these organizations for informational materials.

Topper Thrope, Executive Vice-President of Cattle Fax: For the past 25 years, Thrope has projected some of the changes that he foresees in the way the beef cattle industries are organized. Thrope outlined some forces which drive the changes in the beef industry:

- Competition within the industry to lower unit cost and to improve quality has increased, especially as cattle numbers increase and profit margins might decline over the next few years.
- Competition from other meats (or alternatives to meats) which have increased market share at the expense of beef (other meat industry have increased production efficiency and lowered prices to the consumer).
- More orientation of producers toward improved product marketing and the recognition of the need for better communications among those involved in production and marketing. One important change that should occur is in valuation of cattle. There needs to be further changes, according to Thrope, in marketing and pricing to evaluate carcasses and cattle more precisely. Increased attention to carcass value losses and uniformity of cattle type to meet major market specifications also need to be emphasized. Projects such as the Strategic Alliance, referred to earlier, should help bring about desired changes in the industry.

Annual NCA Convention: The Annual NCA/ANCW Convention and Trade Show will be held in Reno, Nev., on January 26-29. A special event this year will be the 1994 Cattlemen's College on Wednesday, January 26. Topics will range from conducting your own environmental audit, identifying quality defects, Mythbusters lecture and laboratory, managing the calf's immune system, and many other presentations. The Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association is represented on all 22 of the NCA committees. This is one of the ways that we have input into national industry policy and federal governmental affairs. If anyone would like a complete program of the convention and trade show, please write or call the PCA or NCA offices.

CUSTOMIN™, CUSTOM BULK MINERALS IN PELLETS

Now Agway makes it possible for any farm to buy custom minerals in bulk. And get them delivered for less cost, less labor, and without the hassles of bags and bag disposal.

Because for the first time ever, pelleted custom mineral mixes are available in bulk. Through a process introduced by Agway, we are now able to process minerals with grain products, to produce pellets that can be delivered to more farms, smaller-size farms—custom-made and formulated for optimal uniformity. With CUSTOMIN™ Bulk Mineral Pellets, delivery, handling and storage are a whole lot easier. CUSTOMIN Bulk Minerals are dust-free, and a lot more cost-effective. They don't cost any more than what you currently pay for minerals. And if you haven't been able to order customized minerals because of quantity requirements, lead time or cost considerations, now you can. CUSTOMIN is only available from Agway. Don't get left holding the bag. Call your local Agway Feed Specialist today. AGWAY®

Dealers Welcome

Have you tried toasted grains?

Consider these advantages over traditional roasting methods:

- ◆ Consistent by-pass proteins and low moisture levels
- ◆ Improved energy density of your rations
- ◆ Excellent quality control
- ◆ Exchange programs with feed mills.
- ◆ Economical storage, rolling and grinding available
- ◆ We also buy corn and soybeans

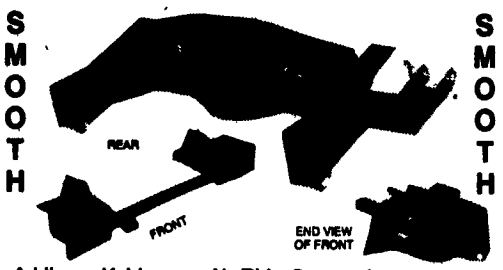
KELDERMAN AIR RIDE



Adding a Kelderman Air Ride Conversion system to your present suspension will result in a two stage suspension system. This is not to be confused with adding an Air bag mounted above the axle. Allows adding extra spring leafs to increase load rating and still maintain Air-Ride comfort.

The bolt on basic package utilizes an air stem mounted in a convenient location to add or remove air from the system.

Optional 12 volt compressor allows changing air pressure setting on the go.

Currently available for front and rear suspension in Dodge Series 250 & 350 trucks. Available soon for Dodge Dakota models.

Also available for some Ford, Chevy, and GMC truck models. Special orders available for most motor homes. This option will smooth out the ride on those rough-road fishing/camping trips.

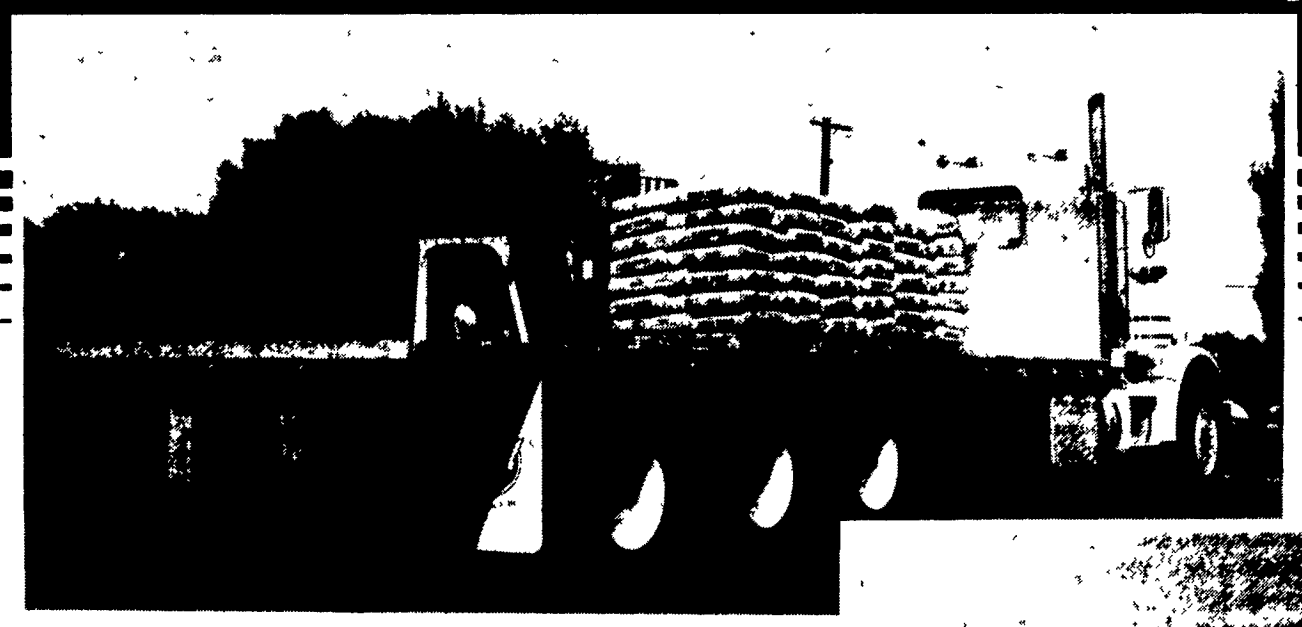
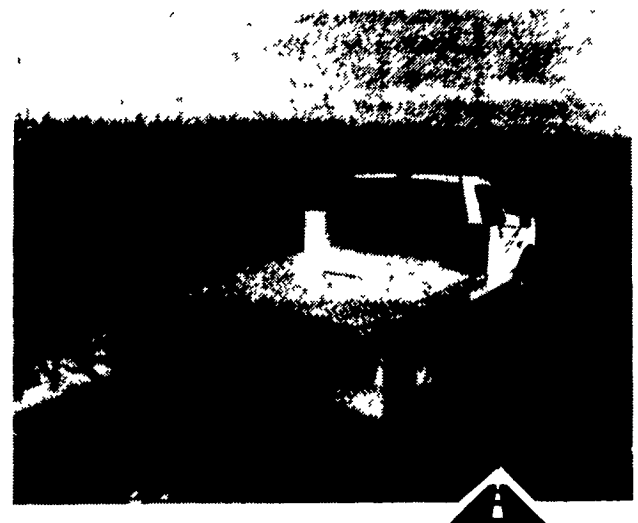
EBY ALUMINUM FLATBEDS: WE MAKE HARD WORK LOOK GOOD





On the farm or in the city, Eby aluminum flatbed bodies are built for your toughest hauling jobs. Their all-welded construction features 3" aluminum I-beam crossmembers (4" I-beams on bodies 16' and longer) on 12" centers, heavy side rub rail and aluminum diamond floor plate. A full list of options includes slated or solid aluminum sides, tool boxes and tire carrier.

Eby aluminum construction is up to 40% lighter than steel, so you get more payload capacity. The corrosion-resistant aluminum never needs painting and requires minimum maintenance but gives you maximum resale value. That's a winning combination to complement any truck.

In standard lengths to 32 feet and 5 widths from 78 to 102 inches, there's an Eby aluminum flatbed that's matched to your requirements. With Eby value and quality, hard work can look good.

Tioga County Fair Elects Officers

C. J. HOUGHTALING
Tioga County Correspondent

WHITNEYVILLE (Tioga Co.) — With their fiscal year coming to a close, the Tioga County Fair board of directors held their annual banquet to introduce the new board members and elect officers for the coming year.

Stepping into the position of 1994 president of the Fair's Tioga County Agricultural Association (TCAA) division, Dr. David Reese replaced outgoing president Kevin Houghtaling.

Having served as a Tioga County Fair director for nine years, eight of which he reigned as president, Houghtaling relinquished his position on the board in accordance with TCAA bylaws which stipulate board members can serve no more than three consecutive three-year terms, then leave the board for a period of one year before being eligible for election to the board again. He will remain an active volunteer as chairman of the Tioga County Fair track committee and will also serve as Tioga County Fair Manager.

Other officers elected to the 1994 TCAA are Anne Clark, secretary; Laurie Hamblin, treasurer; and Leland "Harry" Rouse, vice president.

The Fair's North Central Agricultural Association (NCAA) division, a sister organization to TCAA, elected Jill Wood as secretary. Wood replaced Dorothy Norman, who served as NCAA secretary for two years.

Other officers elected to the 1994 NCAA are president Ernest Norman, vice president Jon Cooper, and treasurer Kelly Doan.

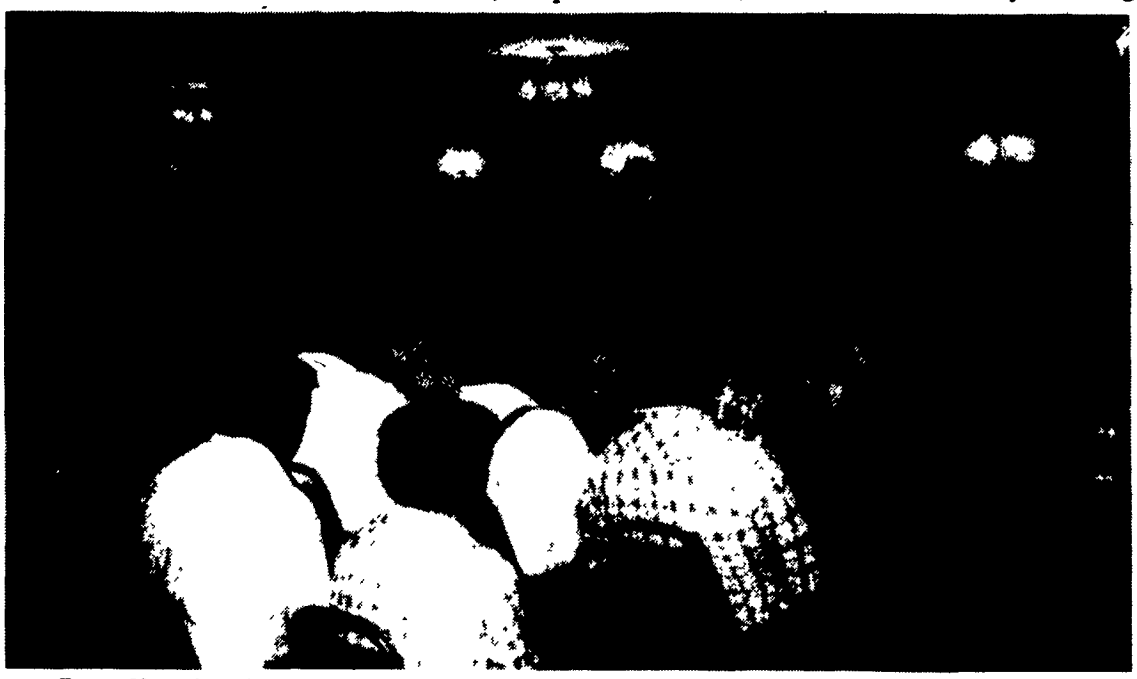
Brown's Sponsors Beef Seminar, Tour

FRANCONIA (Montgomery Co.) — F.M. Brown's Sons, Inc. recently held a beef production and management seminar and tour for their customers and sales staff.

The seminar, which was held at the Family Heritage Restaurant in Franconia, was attended by 85 participants. It was the culmination of several months of training in beef nutrition for the Brown's sales staff, and provided Brown's beef customers with some insight into new and old techniques involved in raising and marketing beef cattle.

Doug Kogel, cattle procurement director for Moyer Packing Company, spoke about the importance of the beef industry in this area of the country. He stressed the opportunity beef producers had to raise and market their animals. He also discussed the importance of producing a quality animal, and of taking advantage of the nutritional information available from Brown's to turn animals over rapidly and in an economical manner. He pointed out that it did not make much sense to export our started feeder calves to the Midwest and turn around 12 to 15 months later and bring them back to kill them. He indicated that in many areas of the country, beef producers have to ship long distances to reach the final market, but here in Pennsylvania and New Jersey markets such as Mopac are very close. He finished off his talk with a brief question and answer period.



Doug Kogel, chief cattle buyer at Moyer Packing Company, discusses the future of raising finished beef steers in the East to F.M. Brown's Beef Seminar participants.

Dr. Walter Kennett, Brown's director of nutrition, followed with a discussion of the various types of beef operations which Brown's deals with, and how each needs a different nutritional program to optimize economical growth. He stressed that knowledge of input costs, ration ingredient quality, and knowledge of what the buyer is looking for are all critical in planning a successful beef raising program. Kennett placed special emphasis on the need for the correct balance of nutrients at each stage of growth to take full advantage of today's nutritional knowledge. He also discussed how the type of nutrient requirements vary, especially rumen degradable and undegradable protein, at various stages of growth. He concluded his talk by challenging those in attendance to do a better job of grouping on both weight and frame size and to finish animals on feedlots faster and thus more efficiently.

The final program speaker and co-host of the seminar was Mark Anderson with Hoffman-LaRoche, the manufacturer of Bovatec. Anderson spent some time discussing how coccidiosis can affect profit in a beef operation, and on reviewing the various stages of cocci growth and development. He stressed the importance of using Bovatec, which is an Ionophore, and is Coccidiocidal in a balanced program of raising beef cattle. Bovatec kills cocci organisms in early stages of the life cycle where other types of compounds are coccidiostatic and only arrest development of the organism. He showed how an outbreak of coccidiosis can reduce a beef steer's disease resistance, and impact its health for the animal's entire life. Bovatec is also a growth promotant which improves feed efficiency and average daily gain. At Brown's, there are six beef and dairy feeds which contain Bovatec, with one right for every situation from the creep feeder to the finial finisher supplement.

Following the meal and program, the group adjourned to Mopac, where they were given a tour showing how animals were handled and processed into the final cuts of meat sent to the stores. The importance of quality control at every step of the operation was stressed.

FFA Youth Project Loan A Success

SPRUCE CREEK (Huntingdon Co.) — When Allen Behrer, then age 14, Spruce Creek, and his parents Michael and Linda Behrer first discussed the possibility of a sizeable loan for Allen with FmHA Loan Supervisor Bruce Horning, one could imagine the reaction to a 14-year-old student's desire to become a borrower.

Young Behrer's idea to borrow $5,000 for the purchase of dairy steers seemed too good to be true. How could the teenager succeed in paying off this size loan when most 14-year-olds are stuck with Nintendos and immaturity?

Having learned about the FmHA Youth Project Loan Program through his agriculture instructor/FFA adviser, William C. Harshman of Tyrone Area High School, the Behrers asked Bruce Horning of Huntingdon's FmHA office to stop by the farm with the needed informational documents. Allen and his father supplied the necessary financial data, while school lessons and individual sessions with Harshman helped to develop a sound cash flow projection for the enterprise, which was to last five months.

Seeing that a sound financial plan was in place, Horning then approached his county loan committee members. Members had not dealt with a 14-year-old before and deliberated the matter thoroughly. When all parties were convinced of the thought and actions planned for the dairy steer enterprise, approval was granted.

Behrer's financial challenge included purchase of 50 healthy Holstein bull calves, paying for trucking, housing, medication and feed, and labor for when he was in school. Of course, FmHA charged interest as well. Since calves were housed, with his father's dairy steers, it was agreed ahead of time that whatever mortality rate occurred in the whole system would also be reflected in the final count for Allen's project. The sale of feeder steers to a feedlot in Nebraska and subsequent payment of his outstanding loan to FMHA resulted in a profit for the youngster's efforts. That profit has already been reinvested in further calf-raising initiatives.

When questioned about his goal for the project, Allen Behrer, also an active 4-H club member, said, "I see the 4-H and FFA projects that I conduct as being my tuition toward a college education in agriculture. I hope someday to farm with my parents." Allen also suggests to other youth that productive credit is wise, but consumptive credit can make you a slave to those whom you owe money.

Allen Behrer has enjoyed much success as a 3-year member of the Tyrone Area Vo-Ag/FFA program. He has participated in state legislative leadership conferences, county creed speaking competition, county FFA record book contests, ag mechanics contests, and carries projects in capons, gourds, pumpkins, Indian corn, field corn, alfalfa, sweet corn, soybeans, and work experience besides his dairy steers. He has exhibited champion animals and vegetables at the Huntingdon County Fair and the Sinking Valley Farm Show. His FFA interests have led him to be accepted into a six-month exchange program to Poland in 1994.

Allen Behrer, Tyrone Area High School FFA, Tyrone, right is shown with Bruce Horning, FMHA loan supervisor, Huntingdon, as they discuss the youth project loan of the Farmers Home Administration. Behrer is a sophomore FFA member who is preparing for a career on his family's dairy operation. He will also study agriculture in Poland for six months in 1994 with an exchange opportunity through his FFA chapter.

Shorthorn Steer Makes Champion Rounds

FLEETWOOD (Berks Co.) — "Frosty," a Shorthorn steer owned by Tom Newpher, Fleetwood, and exhibited by K&K Cattle Company was a big winner at a lot of shows this year.

Right now, the steer is on his way to Canada to the Toronto Winter Fair, after completing quite a round of championships throughout the state. "He is probably the most winningist Shorthorn steer in the country," said Kenlanne Rarick, K&K Cattle, Fleetwood.

The steer won champion overall at the Kimberton Fair in Chester County, overall at the Pennsylvania Fair in Bensalem, and champion overall at the Kutztown Fair. The Shorthorn also placed champion overall at the Schuylkill County Fair; champion overall at the Sussex County fair, in Sussex, N.J.; champion overall at the Warren County Fair in the open jackpot show; champion overall at the Duchess County Fair, in Duchess N.Y.; and champion overall at the Eastern States Expo, West Springfield, Mass.

In most cases, it was the first time a Shorthorn steer was the champion in several fairs' history, according to Rarick.

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Kipe Steel held their dealer training workshop recently at their company headquarters here. The workshop focused on milking parlor and free stall design.

A new parlor concept was also introduced — the straight-through herringbone parlor designed to lessen hip damage and speed parlor loading.

Tours to various farms with parallel and herringbone parlors was part of the workshop. Dealers from the U.S. and Canada participated.

Blanks Receives FFA Honorary Membership

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Terry Blanks, president of Alfa Laval Agri, was awarded the National American FFA Honorary Degree during the recent National FFA Convention held in Kansas City, Mo.

The award recognizes the efforts made by individuals in behalf of the FFA to promote and sponsor agricultural education, leadership activities, and history. It is the highest FFA degree.

During his many years of service with Alfa Laval Agri in the United States, Blanks has strived to make a positive difference to FFA members by implementing educational and leadership programs. He has also been instrumental in offering service and support to the Agricultural Hall of Fame and others.

Blanks received the award at the 66th National FFA Convention held November 10-13. It was attended by more than 29,000 people.

Improve the Energy Efficiency Of Windows

DOVER, Del. — With the temperatures outside dropping and fuel prices rising, the efficient use of energy is very important. By improving the efficiency of your home or office and thus, reducing energy waste, you will reduce your utility costs, as well as help offset price increases.

Windows are an essential feature of homes, apartments and most offices. They provide ventilation and natural light, as well as give a feeling of openness and space to our living areas. However, windows can account for 10 to 25 percent of a home's heat loss in winter and can also produce unwanted heat gain in summer.

Like any other part of your home, windows require maintenance. To enjoy their useful functions and minimize inefficiency, it is important to control unwanted heat losses and gains.

By implementing certain measures such as caulking, weatherstripping, using moveable insulation, and adding storm windows, you can lower your utility bills and improve your comfort level.

The fact sheet — "Improving the Energy Efficiency of Windows" — explains how to make your windows more efficient.

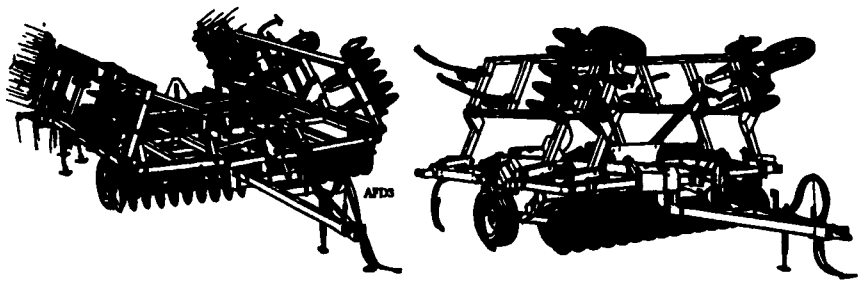
ONE PASS IN FALL, ONE PASS IN SPRING



- The 714 Mulch Tiller makes one pass work of heavy fall residue. From 6-ft. 3-in. to 21-ft. 3-in. widths.
- The 724 Mulch Finisher creates perfect seedbeds and incorporates chemicals in a single pass. Big fuel savings. 12-ft. 8-in. to 30-ft. widths.
- Stop in and check out single-point hydraulic depth control... 8-degree disk angle on 724...hydraulic coulter-gang adjustment from tractor seat on 714...and much more!

GET A DEAL

NOW, ADVANCED VACUMETER™ SYSTEM: IMPROVED SEED SPACING, FASTER PLANTING

GOOD DEAL TOO!

- Advanced-design VacuMeter™ system on John Deere MaxEmerge® 2 planters selects single seeds for improved spacing control. Now up to 17 percent better spacing in corn compared to finger-pickup planters. Plants smaller corn hybrids faster.
- No seed blowing, no pressurized hoppers, no maintenance of finger-pickups. Change seed disks quickly, without tools.
- More seeding rate choices... with simple adjustments.
- New attachments for conservation fields.

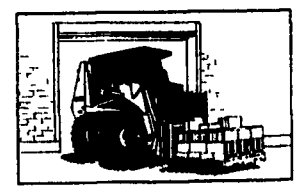
The Case 1845C Uni-Loader® skid steer delivers an unbeatable combination of performance advantages for handling the toughest jobs. You have agility and responsive hydraulics that produce a 4690-lb. bucket breakout force — all powered by the proven, fuel-efficient Case 56 hp diesel. You cycle faster, too, with our simultaneous travel, raise and dump functions. And with a 1700-lb. rated operating load capacity, our top-of-the-line 1845C simply has no equal for bottom line results.



- Low-effort, two-lever hand controls — no pedals.
- Monitoring system keeps tabs on vital machine functions.
- Roll-out ROPS provides easy access to major components.
- Separate oil systems for hydraulics and chains keep oil cleaner — reduce maintenance.
- Case Coupler for fast attachment change.

See us for 1845C productivity, attachments, one-stop service and flexible financing programs.

There's nothing more important to a crop than early, even emergence. To get it, you need accurate, even seeding.

The 5300 has earned a reputation for its seeding precision, a function of its exclusive feed cup design and dependable disk openers. And, to improve placement of seed, the opener drawbars are heavier than on previous models. Press wheel and opener bearings are heavier for long life operation.

Along with accuracy, the 5300 gives you fast, high capacity seeding, so you spend less time refilling hoppers.

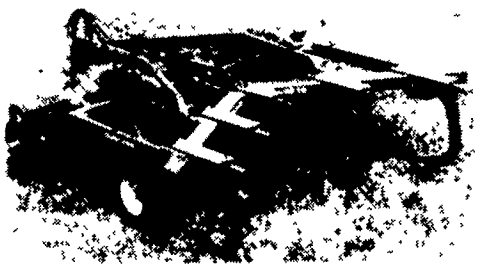
NEW AT BINKLEY & HURST BROS.
FROM SUNFLOWER:

MODEL 4010/4110 SUNFLOWER®
COULTER RIPPER



Conservation Tillage Equipment Built SUNFLOWER Tough!

Sunflower's Coulter Ripper is for today's conservation minded farmer demanding deep tillage with minimal residue disturbance. These durable machines feature adjustable front mounted coulters on 7½" centers. The coulter blades have an added advantage of slicing hard ground to keep clod size to a minimum. The V-bar ripper design gives added trash clearance and pulls smoother than straight-bar rippers. These coulter rippers are built Sunflower tough and no ballast is added to the frame increasing the structural strength. Check out Sunflower's latest edition to its growing family of quality tillage equipment at a farm show or dealer near you.

Adjustable Coulter Gangs: The 4010/4110 both feature adjustable coulter gangs that can be raised completely in clean ground. Ratchet Jack Adjustment is standard equipment. Optional Hydraulic Gang Adjustment makes on the go changes or raising the coulters completely out of the way an easy task from the tractor seat.

Also...3 Pt. Hitch Subsoiler Rippers For Hard Pan Deep-Till. SEE BINKLEY & HURST NOW!

The Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc. Gehl Hay & Forage Oppor

This Is Your Opportunity To Purchase Good Quality Gehl Hay &

Your Roof With 2 Special Financing Options If You Make You

"SPECIAL FINANCING"
NEW GEHL HAY/FORAGE ONLY
Equipment Covered: All New and Unused Serial Numbered Gehl Equipment Specified Below - Now Through December 31, 1993

For a limited time only, a "Special Financing" program is available for the Gehl equipment listed below. This includes an extra low APR of 3.9% for (36) months and an alternative Waiver of Finance Charge program described at right.

"SPECIAL FINANCING" OPTION
36 Month Term
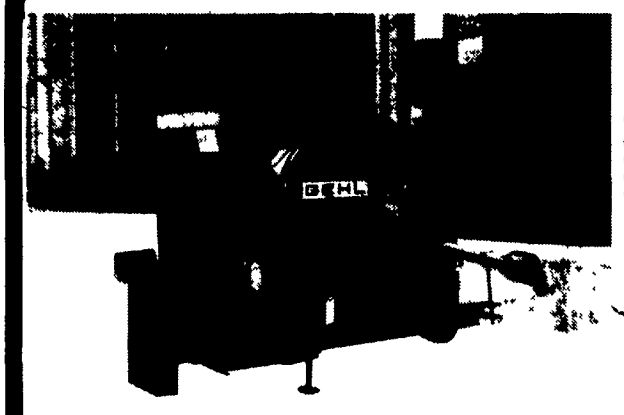
Equal Monthly, Quarterly, Semiannual, or Annual

In lieu of the available "Special Financing" option listed above, you may choose the Waiver of Finance Charge program with the following final date and rate schedule:

Special Financing & Waiver Of Finance Charge Depends On Pending Credit Approval



Choose the Gehl blower that's right for you.

With three models it's easy to match a high-capacity Gehl blower to your operation. In side by side tests at a 100' silo, Gehl blowers outperformed the best the competition had to offer, with the Model 1580 cleaning out an 18' self-unloading box full of haylage 18% faster than the closest competitive blower and 25% faster than one of the so called "leaders".

Gehl's secret is the twin spinner delivery system and the twin-sided fan. Two 24-inch spinners rifle your crop into the blower fan at nearly 35 mph. There, the twin-sided fan, with paddles on each side, blows the material up the pipe with ease...it's almost like getting the performance of two blowers in one.

Gehl blowers are also loaded with convenience features you're sure to appreciate.

The three main factors that contribute to a forage blower's capacity are tip speed, hopper capabilities and available horsepower. Generally speaking, for optimum capacity, the blower requires at least one horsepower for each foot the material must be blown.

For instance, a blower on a 20-foot-diameter by 60-foot center fill silo would require 70-plus horsepower. On a 25-foot diameter by 90-foot center fill silo you should have 100-plus horsepower.

As a guideline, we recommend the following:

Silo size	HP required	Gehl Model
20'Wx60'-70' high	70 hp	FB1540
20'Wx80' high	90 hp	FB1580 (540 rpm) In stock
25'Wx90' and higher	100+ hp	FB1580 (1000 rpm) In stock

Horsepower requirements can be reduced with smoother unloading forage boxes and a wider gooseneck at the top of the silo.

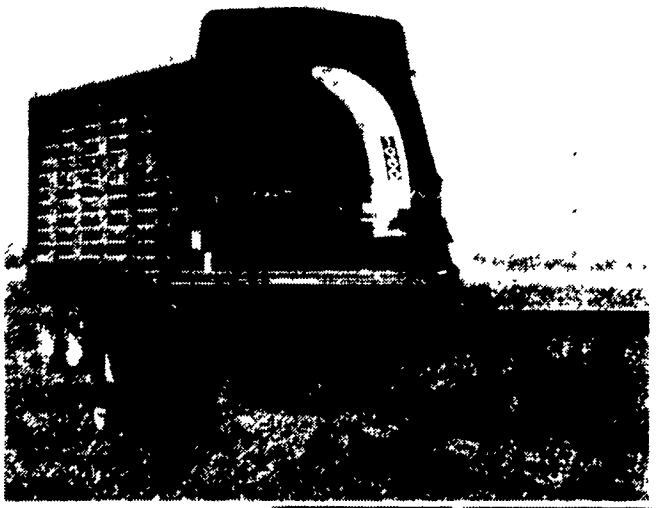
Setting up at the silo is faster and easier. The adjustable left axle lets you line up the blower without loosening and adjusting the rim sheet. Simply adjust the tire up or down until you get the matching angle to your pipe

Swing away blower outlet. They're more than tremendous blowing capacity designed into these blowers. Gehl swing away outlet makes it easier than ever to check fan paddle and rim sheet clearances and for rim sheet liner replacement. (Note: this outlet should never be opened until the pto is disconnected from the tractor and the blower disc has stopped turning.)

Greater rim sheet life
These blowers feature split rim sheets with a special inner, replaceable liner. This extra hard liner is twice the thickness of ordinary rim sheet steel. In addition, when it finally does wear out, you only replace the liner that fits in the extreme wear area of the blower, right below the outlet. You don't have to replace the entire rim sheet! The result: reduced costs over the life of your Gehl blower

Easier, faster fit to silo pipe. Once you have the right angle between your blower outlet and your pipe, it's easy to slide the telescope pipe into position. This new lip assures proper alignment and fit.

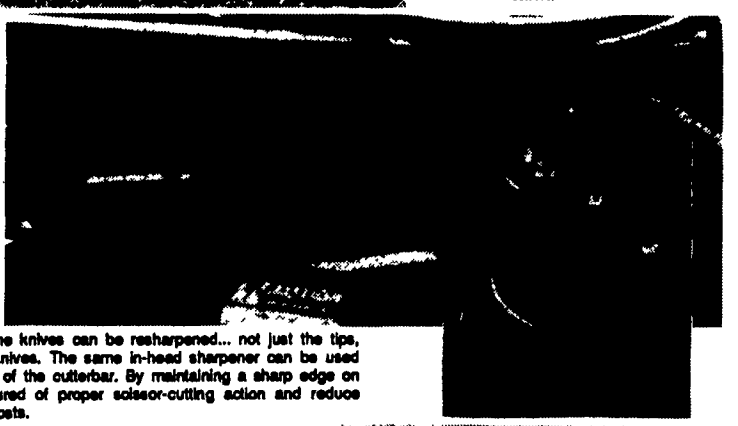
Tire Guard. This tire guard protects the right blower tire when you're cleaning up around the blower with a silage fork. It is standard equipment on the 1560 and 1580, optional on the 1540



GEHL

Gehl Forage Harvesters are leading the way

Gehl forage harvesters have been at the leading edge of engineering design for years. With innovations that speed material flow and reduce downtime, for top capacity harvesting. Innovations like Gehl's in-head hydraulic knife and cutterbar sharpening system; exclusive spinner delivery system; patented single-station cutterbar adjustment system; and haylage water tank.



In-Field Sparpening for Factory-Fresh Edges

Dull knives can consume valuable horsepower, more fuel and increase total harvesting time. Gehl knives feature a short bevel, for greater strength at the knife edge. And with the patented in-head hydraulic knife sharpener the entire bevel of the knives can be resharpened... not just the tips, to keep a sharp edge on the knives. The same in-head sharpener can be used for resurfacing the cutting edge of the cutterbar. By maintaining a sharp edge on the cutterbar you can be assured of proper scissor-cutting action and reduce overall long-term maintenance costs.

CUT BIG HAY FIELDS DOWN TO SIZE!

Gehl swing-frame mower conditioners are designed to cut your biggest hayfields down to size. Gehl swing-frames give you the capacity and manueverability of a self-propelled mower conditioner at a pull-type price. Gehl also makes conventional sicklebar models as well as disc mower conditioners. The swing-frame units offer:

- Full-width conditioning rolls with intermittent ribs for thorough, uniform conditioning.
- Total hydraulic drive for smooth operation.
- Center-pivot design for excellent maneuverability.
- Three-point flotation support protects the cutterbar from rocks and other field obstructions.
- Easily adjustable for full-width swaths or high-standing windrows.

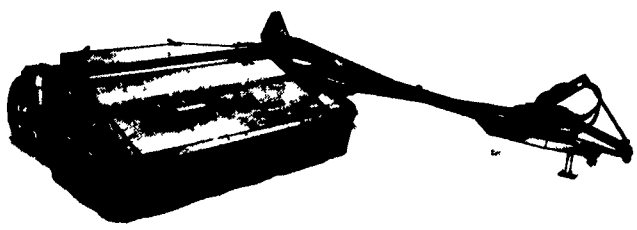
CUT HAY THE DISC WAY!



Gehl has two all-new disc mower conditioners to cut your crop down to size, fast and easy. The DC2340 has 7 discs and a 9-foot cutting width; the DC2360 has 8 discs and a 10½ -foot cutting width.

- High speed discs - Each disc has two knives to slice through the toughest crops and conditions; the disc gear drive operates in an oil bath for long life.
- Sturdy frame - Cradles the cutterbar for extra protection and durability.
- 540 or 1,000 rpm driveline with equal-angle hitch for smooth power transfer.
- Standard hydraulic tongue - Makes it easy to position the unit without leaving the tractor seat.

LOAD...UNLOAD FASTER AND EASIER

When you're working the big loads you need the Super Boom advantage—extra reach.

With more forward dump reach you can center load your largest spreader from one side so you get an even load. The result: faster loading, fuller loads and easier unloading.

With level bucket lift you load more and lift higher. . . with less spillback. And, with a longer wheelbase there's more stability and safety.

Find out how good a skid-steer loader can be.

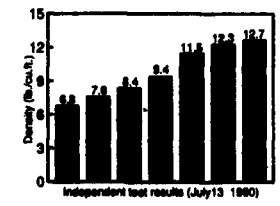
"Variable chamber balers produce denser bales."

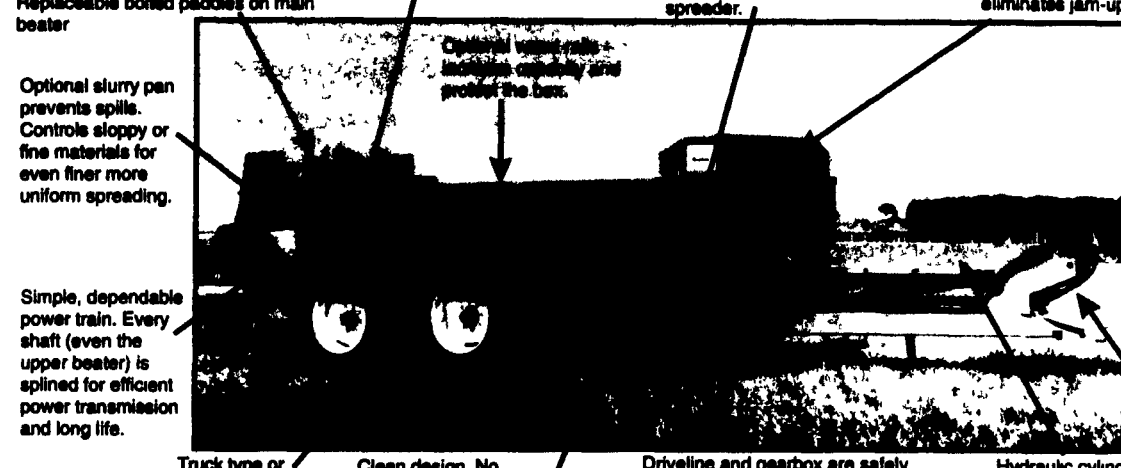
FACT: No other round baler on the market matches the density of a Claas fixed chamber baler. Independent government tests prove bale density from the Claas fixed chamber system exceeds all variable chamber balers tested (it beats some competitors by up tp 45%).

Fact is, greater density means fewer bales per acre. And that means more efficient feeding.



HYDRA-SPREAD

HYDRAULIC PUSH-OFF MANURE SPREADER



Single or two beater designs. Aggressive, high-speed beaters - with up to 15 paddles per beater - deliver a fine uniform spread. Replaceable bolted paddles on main beater
Snug-fitting end-gate controls sloppy or granular manure.
Polyethylene sides and bottom containing 90% re-cycled material. Guaranteed for the life of the spreader.
Simple and reliable single-stage push gate for dependable, trouble-free unloading. Centre-guided design eliminates jam-ups.
Optional slurry pan prevents spills. Controls sloppy or fine materials for even finer more uniform spreading.
Precision metering valve for infinitely variable unloading from 0 - 8 fpm.
Simple, dependable power train. Every shaft (even the upper beater) is splined for efficient power transmission and long life.
Fully shielded PTO with overload protection.
Truck type or flotation tires to suit your needs.
Clean design. No obstructions to hold manure.
Driveline and gearbox are safely contained within the frame - under the floor. Easily serviced and repaired.
Hydraulic cylinders are installed above the floor. Always accessible - always easy to clean and service.
Strong, all-welded frame with heavy structural tubes. All structural members are high-strength steel.

Manure Irrigation Specialists

MANURE IRRIGATION MAKES SENSE!

- No compaction equals greater crop yields
- More gallons put on the ground in less time
- Extends your spreading season
- System can also be used to irrigate water
- Less equipment to maintain and replace

Join the many farmers all over the East Coast who have discovered that irrigating your manure with a pump from Mid-Atlantic AgriSystems saves them manure-handling dollars!

Safe • Efficient • Durable
Look at what makes the Mahoning Outdoor Furnace a great purchase...

CLEAN. All dirt, dust, fuel and fire is outside No chance of chimney fire or flue fire ELIMINATES AIR POLLUTION IN THE HOME. Smoke, fuel odors and other causes of allergies are outside the home
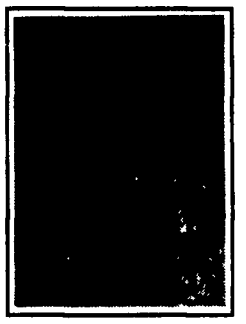
SAFE FOR MOBILE HOMES. Eliminates danger that other furnaces contained in a mobile home can cause
NO DANGER OR EXPLOSION. This is a zero pressure furnace
ENCLOSED COMPONENTS. The circulation pumps and electrical connections are enclosed in an insulated cabinet on the back of the Mahoning Outdoor Furnace
ADAPTABLE. Install our furnace in any forced air heating or hot water system

All Mahoning Units Come Installed with Grates Including An External Shaker Handle



★The only outdoor furnace made with a Catalytic Combustor.★

Mahoning Catalytic Combustor Will Help In the Following Ways:

1. Burn one cord of wood which equals 166 gallons of oil.
2. Your fuel source becomes enormous inexhaustible and poses few risks to public safety.
3. Over all efficiency of 85%, which means the heat no longer goes up the chimney!
4. You get more heat from a log compared to the non-cat. furnace.
5. More burn time - less reloading time!
6. Zap 90% of pollutants, made from fire source
7. Saves you a lot of money!
8. User friendly, emits no smoke!

All Mahoning Multi-Fuels Can Burn Coal, Wood, Oil, Propane, Natural Gas

Proudly Built in Clearfield County, Pennsylvania

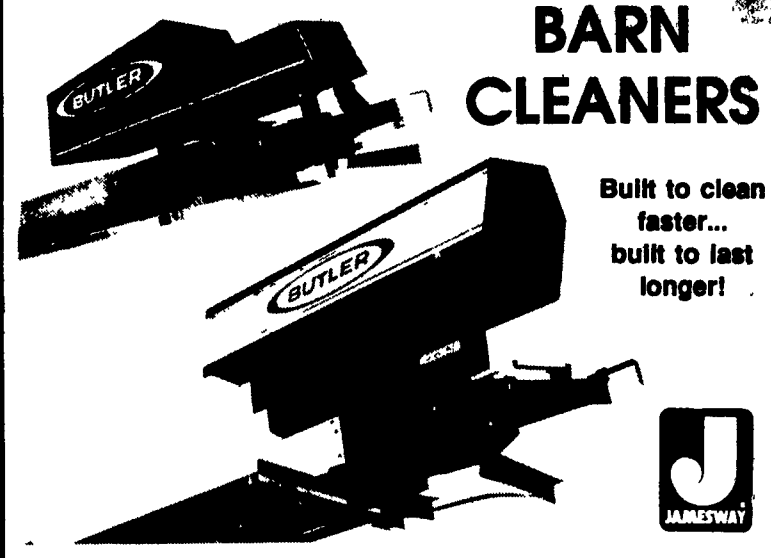
BARN CLEANERS



Built to clean faster... built to last longer!

All-forged Hook-Link® chain... available on Super 300 and Super 500 barn cleaners
Extra thick steel at all wear points

IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy. It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off. It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only.
You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain on the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the contours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer.

SILO UNLOADERS Silo-Matic FEEDING SYSTEMS

CONCRETE REASONS WHY A NEW POURED CONCRETE SILO IS YOUR BEST INVESTMENT...

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

A. Enhancement of cash flow. Improved forage quality results in consistent, and increased milk production.

B. "Safe Silo" Our silos meet or exceed industry standards, reducing/protecting lender liability,

C. Initial Cost. Used or cheap pre-fab silos may have a lower initial cost, but based upon useful life, the new poured concrete silo will have a lower annual cost: due to longer life and lower maintenance costs.

D. Residual Value. Our new, poured concrete silos are built for "generations of use", and enhance the future value of the farm.

E. Storage Losses Reduced. Poured concrete silos consistently out-perform all other methods of storing and preserving the total digestible nutrients in forage crops.

F. Protecting Forage Quality. Oxygen and heat cause the most damage to stored silage and haylage. Our poured concrete silos are the very best system to PROTECT YOUR FORAGE QUALITY.. "NOBODY PROTECTS FORAGE QUALITY LIKE WE DO. NOBODY"

New Ultimate EXT.™ The Breakthrough Diet That Helps Her Add Several Pounds A Day.

When it comes to weight control and eating, dairy cows aren't like most people. A successful cow's diet should produce more pounds, not less, and her body weight needs to stay up after freshening.

Our new dairy feed works that way: introducing Ultimate EXT™ from Purina® Ultimate EXT helps cows produce more milk: an average of five more pounds a day in over 14,000 cows. By helping cows reduce body weight loss after calving, Ultimate EXT also improves body condition which can enhance breeding efficiency.

To put more weight on your bottom line, ask us about new Ultimate EXT. It turns good cows into great ones.

FIELD PRODUCTION RESPONSE

Number of Herds	244
Number of Cows	16,950
Beginning Production	64.3 Lbs/day
Ending Production	69.3 Lbs/day
Milk Response	+5.0 Lbs/day
